John D., Jr., for Repeal.
Routine and Other Crimes.
Chile Boils Up.
Loaves and Fishes Wanted.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON REPORTS that President Hoover has approved a plank for the Republican platform letting the people vote on the Eighteenth amendment, a "resubmission" plank. This recognition of the people's right to pass on any part of the Constitution at any time seems reasonable. It is supposed to be their Constitution.

The big prohibition news comes in a letter written by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, expressing an earnest hope that both Republicans and Democrats will incorporate a prohibition repeal plank in their platforms.

This seems to dispose of the theory, widely circulated, that the younger Rockefeller has been financing prohibition recently.

THIS IS a small part of routine crime news in one city, New York. Benjamin Rosenblum, owner of a fur company, was locked in his fur vault by bandits, and, not quite dead when taken out, was resuscitated.

Agent H. J. Simons and Deputy Bernstein, with 30 helpers from the Department of Justice, raided a 300,000-gallon whisky still, in South street, a few doors north of the building in which this is written. It was well arranged, with a tunnel leading to a garage, as a "getaway," and in the garage was a 10,000-gallon molasses barrel.

FEDERAL JUDGE COLEMAN sentenced three racketeers to prison for failing to pay income tax on $1,270,000 of net profits. They confessed. Crime has become a business.

Geolando Terrana, restaurant owner, was called to the door by a young man, name unknown, yesterday morning. The man fired two shots into Terrana's heart. His wife is a widow and his three children have no father. The killer walked away. Those are "routine" incidents in our crime wave.

ONE OTHER crime was not, or at least should not be, part of any "routine." A woman 80 years old, defenseless in her little house, was visited by two men. They thought that in her long, hard-working life she must have saved much money and asked for it. She gave them five dollars, saying it was all she had. They did not believe her, beat her, tortured her and left. She died.

Even this callous age of crime should be interested in an incident of that kind and do something about it.

THE WORLD'S restlessness comes to a head in our South American neighbor, Chile. President Montero is ousted, a sort of Communism taking his place. Big fortunes are to be confiscated. Russia's Soviet government is to be recognized by the Chilean government.

Americans have more than one thousand million dollars invested in Chile, to say nothing of a 350 million nitrate trust, and some of them are worrying. But that is probably premature. Sometimes South American republics have revolutions and then change their minds.

A counter-revolution had started yesterday. The Chilean army and navy, including the air force, are with the revolution. That is important, perhaps dangerous.

IT IS AMUSING to read that Congress is guarded by extra police to control veterans lobbying for the bonus, and that "a food crisis is increasing as 5,000 men near the Capitol."

There wasn't any "food crisis" when this country was implored, beseeched and commanded to feed MILLIONS in Belgium, Armenia, Turkey, Russia and Heaven knows where. Millions were easily found for THAT work. Why is it so difficult to feed a small handful of Americans who went through the war, deprived of a chance to get their share of big war time wages, to say nothing of patriotic grafting?

OWEN D. YOUNG, speaking at Notre Dame, says the President of the United States should have greater power, even though it might involve abandonment in part of the present system of checks and balances. Additional power is needed to enable the Chief Executive to deal effectively with economic crisis, according to Mr. Young.

Others believe that the President has more power than any ruler on earth, now that the czar and the sultan have vanished.

The early Americans, throwing off the power of the English kings, thought they could arrange a plan under which power would be located nowhere in particular. They were mistaken. Power always goes somewhere, and here it has gone to organized finance.

The President of the United States can take it away and exercise it himself, whenever he chooses.

IN ROME a young Italian is caught carrying a pistol and two dangerous bombs, waiting to kill Mussolini. Police saw him before he saw the dictator and Mussolini will outlive him.

The young would-be murderer, Angelo Bardellotto, will soon stand up to be shot in the back in accordance with custom in such cases. Crowds gathered to cheer Mussolini's escape, knowing that to lose Mussolini now, might mean chaos.

IN GERMANY, rumor says old President Von Hindenburg, past eighty, will retire and "Crown Prince" Friedrich Wil-

Dr. Rule Quits As Minister In Edgewood

THE REV. VICTOR A. RULE

Presbyterian Pastor Asked to Resign, Member Says

The pastorate of the Rev. Victor A. Rule at the Edgewood Presbyterian Church, once voted the most useful man in Arizona, is at an end. His resignation tendered and accepted, none of the members of the offical board will reveal the cause of the break in relations after a service of five months. Some say the resignation was asked. He resigned last Tuesday. On Friday he was commencement speaker at the Edgewood High School exercises, and on Saturday he left.

Members of the official board and members of the church refused to discuss the causes which led up to the resignation. John W. Jennings, chairman of the board of deacons, said:

"His resignation was requested."

OUTSTANDING CHURCH

The Edgewood congregation, one of the outstanding churches in the Pittsburgh Presbytery, numbers among its members some of the most prominent business and social leaders of Pittsburgh.

Rule was one of the foremost ministers of Arizona and was held in such high esteem that a bust of him was made for the Hall of Fame in Phoenix. In that city he built a church costing $1,000,000, was chaplain of the American Legion, lieutenant colonel in the National Guard, regent of the state university and a leader in civic and welfare work. He was a dynamic figure, and once barnstormed the country with a professional football team.

REGRETS DEPARTURE

Edward McCrady of the McCrady-Rodgers company, a member of the church said:

"I don't know whether his resignation was asked or not. He has resigned. He was one of the best ministers we ever had, and I hate to see him leave the church. He built up the attendance."

A. C. Manning, a member of the official board, refused to comment, as did Allen S. Davison, of the Davison Coal Company.

G. C. Blackmore, chairman of the board of trustees is reported to have said the minister probably was homesick for Arizona.

A congregational meeting will be held next Monday night to act on the resignation.

Williamsport Man New Beer Champion

PARIS, June 7.—(INS.)—J. H. Cochran, sand and cement contractor from Williamsport, Pa., today held the world's championship in beer drinking. In a nonstop performance Cochran drank a two-liter glass (2.1134 quarts) in 11 seconds flat.

He better the 13-second record previously held by Jack Robbins, Heidleburg student, of Bridgeport, Conn. Cochran confessed he had been training on whisky because he did not like beer.

WHITE HOUSE ENDS POLICE AID TO VETS

Chief Threatened With Removal for Helping; Discounts 'Red' Peril

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, has been warned by Police Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby that his continued efforts to shelter and feed the bonus marchers might lead to his "peremptory dismissal" by the White House.

This notice, it was authoritatively said today, followed criticism made to District of Columbia Commissioners by members of Congress and several government officials.

They complained that Glassford's arrangements to bivouac the veterans had served to increase the numbers marching toward the Capital while the administration was endeavoring to discourage the influx.

GOES AHEAD WITH PLANS

There has been criticism also of Glassofrd's action in going to the White House last week without knowledge or consent of the Commissioners, to solicit aid for the veterans.

The police chief, nevertheless, has indicated to the commissioners that he intends to go ahead with his plans to house and feed the veterans until Thursday morning unless official orders are issued meanwhile for him to cease his activities.

Crosby is one of the three commissioners appointed by the President, under which the affairs of the District of Columbia are administered. Glassford is responsible to him.

It also was said in informed quarters today that an official higher than the police chief was responsible for the issuance last night by Glassford of a statement charging that the Communists had organized a special unit to combat police and cause bloodshed at the paarde scheduled here tonight by the bonus seekers.

DENIES RED FEAR

Glassford said he was "reluctant" to issue such a statement. He added:

"I already had laid plans, without specific orders, to handle the situation. The district commissioners, however, urged that I give this publicity and I did so. I felt the situation did not warrant the statement."

Walter W. Waters, of Portland, Ore., former commander-in-chief of the bonus marchers, arose from his sick bed today to rejoin his comrades. He said:

"My place is with the boys."

Meantime, each of the four veteran encampments planned for tonight's parade. The outdoor camp along the banks of the Anacostia River resembled a cross between a circus and a hard-times squatters' camp. Numerous new arrivals brought tents.

Attorney Surrenders On Murder Charge

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—(AP.)—Police announced today that Frank J. Egan, suspended public defender, had surrendered to face a murder charge.

Egan had been missing since Saturday, shortly before being indicted along with two of his employes for the murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, his friend and benefactor.

$300,000 City Bonds Sold to Syndicate

City Controller J. P. Kerr today sold $300,000 of the city's general improvement bonds to the highest bidders, Halsey, Stewart & Co. and Central Republic Company, which bid $306,120. Next high was Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company. The bonds are for 15 years and yield 4¾ per cent interest.

'Teetoler,' Long Supporter Of Anti-Saloon League, Declares Law Has Failed

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 7.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in a public rightabout-face, today lined up with the anti-prohibition forces.

Teetotaler and formerly one of the largest contributors to the Anti-Saloon League, Rockefeller termed prohibition a failure and came out flatly for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Mr. Rockefeller

The multi-millionaire, noted for his philanthropies and church work, declared that the evils of prohibition have more than outweighed the benefits.

He expressed the hope that the prohibition question would be taken out of partisan politics by both major political parties adopting planks for its repeal.

STRANDED VETS DEMAND AID

A group of almost 400 bonus "marchers" from Detroit and Toledo were in New Castle today, waiting action by the Lawrence County Commissioners on their demands that they be furnished transportation to Pittsburgh.

Delegates of the men, the Associated Press reported, appeared before the County Commissioners and Mayor C. B. Mayne, demanding food and truck transportation.

The Mayor gave them permission to camp on city property and solicit food while he and other officials considered their problem.

The veterans are commanded by C. B. Cowaman and traveled to the Pennsyvania state line in buses furnished them at Akron. They said they were part of the

ROARING FLAMES IN HOTEL BLAZE

The Holocaust in Which Eight Perished in Cleveland

BLAZING STORE IN THE BLASTED, RUINED ELLINGTON HOTEL . . . HERE THE FIRE STARTED

The shop in which firemen believed the fire started in the Ellington apartment hotel, six-story building, in which eight were known to have perished, nearly 40 to have been injured. Many are missing. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

OHIO BLAST TOLL MAY GROW

Scores Rescued as Flames Trap Them in $100,000 Apartment in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, June 7.—(AP.)—Eleven persons were known dead, 12 were missing and nearly two score others were burned or injured in an explosion and fire which ruined the six-story Ellington apartment building in downtown Cleveland early today.

Firemen from 25 fire companies hacked at the still smoldering ruins in search of missing while an investigation was started into the origin of the explosion.

Police and fire wardens reported they were hampered in their work of establishing a definite casualty list by the fact the only list of tenants known to be in existence was destroyed in the fire.

SCENE OF HORROR

The Ellington, hostelry of an older era and locale of many brilliant events in the early part of the century, was a scene of horror from about 12:30 a. m. until dawn.

The quiet of East Ninth at Superior avenue was shattered by a blast that was felt over all downtown Cleveland. A solid wall of flame quickly enveloped the building, trapping occupants in their rooms and making a blazing torch of the structure.

A crowd of 10,000 watched in horror as screaming figures were silhouetted against the windows. The body of an unidentified man hurtled from the fifth floor to lodge on a second floor ledge.

HEROIC RESCUES

Onlookers, joining firemen, fought their way into the smoke and flames to accomplish scores of heroic and unsung rescues. A taxi driver braved death a half dozen times to bring out eight women.

Micky Cochrane, catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, and Ivan H. Peterman, sports writer for the Philadelphia Bulletin, came from their rooms in the nearby Hollenden Hotel to aid in the rescues, bringing three girls down a ladder to safety.

Subsequent explosions hurled glass and blazing embers over the crowd, which stampeded to safety, and ignited awnings a block south on Euclid avenue.

Two of eight bodies first located in the building were identified as Mrs. Anna Mitchell, 70, and C. W. Warnicke, 66. Both apparently suffocated before the flames reached them.

Mayors Meet Garner; Urge Huge Job Loan

Five Billion Bonds Solution, They Declare

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—Passage of the $2,300,000,000 jobless relief program of Speaker John N. Garner before night was virtually assured today when the House adopted a drastic "gag rule" restricting right of amendment.

By HARRY WARD
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Demanding that Congress remain in session until a national unemployment relief program is adopted, mayors of seven cities today presented a concrete plan of congressional leaders as the House began consideration of such a program for the first time by calling up for debate the Garner $2,300,000,000 plan.

At the same time, spurred by a determination to enact a relief measure without delay, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today voted to take the $300,000,000 credit feature out of the Wagner $2,300,000,000 program and recommend its passage as a separate bill.

The delegation of mayors emphasized their plight first to Use Oxygen 65 Hours To Save Man's Life

For over 65 hours, Brentwood police and firemen have worked in relays administering oxygen to William Herron, 65, of 2918 Clearmont avenue, Brentwood, suffering from pneumonia. They have used 20 tanks of oxygen. Mr. Herron's wife and three grown daughters are at his bedside.

Alda Loses Suit Of $480 for Hats

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS.)—A judgment found against Mme. Frances Alda, opera and radio star, today directed her to pay $480 to Tappe, Inc., milliners, who claimed that amount for hats supplied to the singer.

BROOKHART FAR BEHIND IN RACE

DES MOINES, Ia., June 7.—(AP.)—The political career of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, foe of "big business," appeared to be interrupted today by the tide of ballots cast for Henry Field in the Iowa Republican Senatorial primary.

A balanced strength that indicated Field was in favor in every section of the state sent the Shenandoah seed man into a lead which increased steadily as returns poured in.

Field and Brookhart are both "dry."

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 7.—(INS.)—Virtually complete returns today revealed that voters of North Carolina, long regarded as a strong prohibition state, have given Robert R. Reynolds, antidry candidate, a plurality of almost 10,000 over the incumbent, Senator Cameron Morrison, militant prohibitionist.

Reynolds and Morrison will participate in a runover to determine the Democratic nomination, which is the equivalent of election.

New Plot to Kill Mussolini Bared

ROME, June 7.—(INS.)—A new plot to slay Premier Benito Mussolini was uncovered today with the revelation that Domenico Bovone had confessed Parisian anti-Fascists had promised him $50,000 if he succeeded in killing Il Duce.

Bovone's confession was brought to light with dramatic suddenness at a magistrate's inquiry here prior to an order compelling 24 terrorists accused of bomb-throwing to stand trial.

Needy Mother of 3 Gets 30 Days for Auto Tags

Herself needy, her husband in the hospital, the mother of three children was serving a 30-day jail sentence today because of auto tags.

Mrs. Valentine Barer, 45, of 2057 Murray avenue, was sent to the county jail by Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan when she was unable to pay a fine of $105.

A friend, Alderman Sol S. Goldstein, of the Fourteenth Ward, was planning to post a bond for her late today and arrange an appeal.

In the jail Mrs. Barer told Alderman Goldstein that she herself couldn't drive the car against which she believes the 30 tags against her for 1931 and this year were issued for violations committed when the car was stolen. Three times, she said, the car has been stolen.

Goldstein said that Mrs. Barer's husband, Louis Barer, injured in an explosion in his garage, had been in the hospital five months and that Mrs. Barer had been forced to close her small beauty shop for lack of business.

Mrs. Barer was sentenced yesterday after having been given 48 hours' respite. Magistrate Morgan said:

"You know I could give you five days on each of these charges."

Mrs. Barer replied:

PINCHOT, MARTIN AT ODDS OVER STATE RELIEF PROGRAM

NEW TAXATION OPPOSED BY GOVERNOR

Bills for Rival Plans to Be Drawn; Conferees To Meet Again June 20

HARRISBURG, June 7.—(AP.)—A program of Gov. Gifford Pinchot for relief legislation—including long-term bond issues for road construction and welfare loans, reforms in the present taxing system and a state income levy—lies today on the table around which he and Republican organization leaders are conferring in regard to a special session.

Alongside this program lies an eight-point plan of Gen. Edward Martin, state Republican chairman, to which the Governor expressed opposition in offering his own plan at a conference yesterday. His disapproval he explained with the declaration that the Martin plan calls for additional taxes, while his program does not.

Bills embodying the suggestions of both programs will be drafted by Atty. Gen. William A. Schnader, and the conferees will meet again on June 20 to discuss them further.

NEW RAMIFICATIONS

Meanwhile, new ramifications may arise in the situation at a meeting tomorrow of rural legislators who have expressed opposition to additional taxes to further relief appropriations and to the proposed special session itself.

The importance of their attitude results from the Governor's declaration that he will not call the special session unless he is assured that a program agreed upon in advance will be adopted harmoniously.

The Governor's proposal for long-term bond issues to raise money for relief work was a renewal of the plan he sponsored unsuccessfully at the special session last fall. He proposed one bond issue of $50,000,000 to finance road building and another of undetermined amount with which to repay counties, cities and poor districts which make emergency loans to the needy.

His reform proposals, he estimated, would yield $5,000,000 annually. They included recommendations to have the Department of Revenue take over the tax collection work of the Auditor General's department, to remove the exemption of public utilities from the eight-mill gross receipts tax, and to extend the five-mill corporation levy to foreign concerns operating in this state.

GRADUATED TAX

Gov. Pinchot advocated a graduated income tax to be used exclusively for school purposes and said the real estate levies should be reduced to the extent of its proceeds.

This was one of three proposals which would require constitutional amendments. The others were to authorize the state to collect local taxes and distribute the money to the communities arbitrarily and to create a special commission to take over the Philadelphia transit facilities if the underliers can be acquired reasonably.

In order to consummate the preliminaries to having these amendments voted on at the general election in 1933, the special session would have to be convened early next month.

Prior to the conference at which Gov. Pinchot enunciated his program a group of legislators headed by Representative Grover C. Talbot, of Delaware County, met and declared the principal problems to be those of balancing the budget and providing unemployment relief for next winter.

The group's statement took the view that no special session was necessary to restore the full amount of certain non-preferred appropriations, reduced automatically by the $10,000,000 Talbot relief act, to schools, hospitals, charity funds and other beneficiaries.

Gov. Pinchot took issue with this view, however, declaring that the Legislature alone could make the necessary provisions.

Martin Opposes New Taxation for Relief

HARRISBURG, June 7.—(INS.)—Gen. Edward Martin, state Treasurer and Republican state chairman, today reiterated his stand against additional taxation on bond issues of any kind as a means of furnishing unemployment relief.

The continued opposition of Gen. Martin to the flotation of bond issues at the present time means that two of the main proposals advanced by Gov. Gifford Pinchot yesterday will not receive the support of the Republican majority in both houses of the Legislature.

Dry and Anti-Dry Comment

Expressions of opinion here on the Rockefeller letter urging repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment follow:

D. E. CRUEA, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League—I am strongly inclined to doubt that Mr. Rockefeller ever said what the newspapers attribute to him. I would not believe it unless I had positive proof that he sent the letter quoted in the newspapers.

SAMUEL H. CHURCH, president of Carnegie Institute—I think Mr. Rockefeller's letter will be very effective in influencing those who up to this time have been in favor of prohibition. It remains for President Hoover to make a straightforward declaration in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or he will be beaten before the race begins.

MORGAN B. SCHILLER, executive commander Pittsburgh Chapter of the Crusaders—Mr. Rockefeller has given out one of the most carefully analytical statements ever issued on this controversial subject. Our hope for a solution of the liquor problem with all its attendant evils lies in the fact that the adherents of both sides are beginning to approach the problem from a scientific rather than an emotional standpoint.

MRS. ELIZABETH GIBSON, president of the Allegheny County Woman's Christian Temperance Union—I think Mr. Rockefeller was influenced by wet propaganda rather than by investigation, also that he has taken the word of people like Nicholas Murray Butler rather than the testimony of people like Jane Addams, Evangeline Booth and other social workers. Prohibition is not to blame for all the racketeering and lowering of moral standards because history tells us that after every war this has occurred. Mr. Rockefeller did not make sufficient investigation.

Associated Press.

The stand of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., against the Eighteenth Amendment drew caustic dry comment throughout the country, and vigorous wet applause today. Comments follow:

JAMES FRANCIS BURKE, general counsel of the Republican National Committee—Mr. Rockefeller's change of attitude will have a great influence. He is disinterested and sincere and undoubtedly it will affect many people.

DR. HOMER W. TOPE, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League—Every man in this country has a right to urge constitutional repeal, but we are not going to help them do it.

DR. EDWIN C. DINWIDDIE, executive secretary of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy—I am sorry, but not surprised. I don't agree with him, of course, but he has a right to his opinion. The reversal was not unanticipated.

HENRY H. CURRAN, President of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment—The interest of the Rockefellers in helping mankind led them to support the attempt to establish national prohibition. They have watched the growing evils from this legislative mistake for 10 years and now they condemn national prohibition because it hurts mankind instead of helping.

MRS. ELLA A. BOOLE, President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union—To suggest the repeal of prohibition without the substitute of any other method of dealing with the liquor traffic is an unusual proposition . . . If people desire to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment they should suggest some way that will be effective in restricting liquor.

NORMAN THOMAS, Socialist candidate for president—I have been of that opinion for a long time, but I am not particularly interested one way or another. I don't think prohibition should be an issue between political parties. Personally, I believe if there is repeal, some substitute, such as the Anderson plan in the Wickersham report, should be adopted.

CANNON WILLIAM SHEAFE CHASE, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church and superintendent of the International Reform Association—The chief objection to Dr. Butler's plan, advocated by Mr. Rockefeller, is that it will turn the attention of politics and of the people away from the supreme issues of the moment, which are the remedying of the great depression and the overcoming of organized crime and corrupt politics, which are terrorizing and preying upon business.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South—We know what we have in the Eighteenth Amendment, and we know it has been successful. Certainly we do not propose to exchange what we have—far better than the legalized traffic and saloon of the old days—for something that is unformulated and untried.

SENATOR SHEPPARD (Dem.), Texas—It makes no change in my position. The only prohibition plank is one enforcing all laws, just like we had in 1928.

SENATOR ROBINSON (Rep.), Indiana—My first comment is that I am opposed to it. My own opinion is that the Republican platform ought to contain a straightforward declaration for observance of the Constitution and law enforcement.

SENATOR BULKLEY (Dem.) Ohio—I am glad to see one more convert.

LAGUARDIA (Rep.), New York Congressman—In time even a Rockefeller can see a mistake.

SENATOR BINGHAM (Rep.), Connecticut—Obviously the costly experiment backed by the greatest wealth in America has failed in the opinion of those who have invested huge sums of money in an attempt to regulate forcibly the personal habits of a proud and independent people.

G. O. P. REVOLT FANNED ON DRY ISSUE

Repeal Plea of Rockefeller Widens Breach of Party Chieftains Over Straddle

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The conversion of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., former "angel" of the Anti-Saloon League, to outright repeal of prohibition today tended to provoke a wet revolt against the prospective Republican compromise on a campaign plank favoring resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The Republican "elder statesmen" of the Senate favored a resubmission plank, but Rockefeller's pronouncement for repeal spurred the wets into demanding a repeal plank. The fight may be carried to the floor of the Chicago convention even if President Hoover indorses the resubmission plank.

FOUGHT BY BORAH

Republican drys, led by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, vainly sought to stem the tide of sentiment for a "resubmission" plank. Borah criticized it as inviting the return of the open saloon and he chided the "elder statesmen" for advocating resubmission without proposing an alternative plan for controlling alcoholic liquors. He even threatened a revolt against the resubmission plank.

All these dry threats failed to impress the wets, who were in raptures over Rockefeller's conversion to the repeal cause. The wets pointed out that Rockefeller had financed not only the Anti-Saloon League, but many other dry organizations.

The Rockefeller statement obviously disconcerted President Hoover's advisers, who have been urging adoption of a resubmission plank by the Republican party. The President's advisers thought they had won over the wets and were seeking to pacify the drys. The Rockefeller declaration served not only to provoke the wets into demanding outright repeal, but spurred the drys into attacking the resubmission plank.

Mackrell Urges State G. O. P. Lead Repeal Fight

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell today challenged his fellow-Pennsylvanians who are delegates to the Republican national convention to take the lead in insisting upon a prohibition repeal plank in the national platform. He protested the present attitude of Pennsylvania on the subject in standing back "to see what some one else wants her to do."

Mackrell noted the declaration of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for complete repeal, as well as the victory of an anti-dry candidate for the Senate in North Carolina.

Republican leaders in Allegheny County commented today that the resubmission plank drawn up at a conference of senators and congressmen was almost identical with the plan urged by County Chairman William H. Coleman in a speech before the Republican County Committee, May 28.

MAYORS URGE JOB LOAN TO GARNER

Warn of Peril to U. S., Say 5-Billion Bonds Offer Best Solution to Relief Needs

Speaker Garner and the majority and minority leaders of the House. They planned to present their case to Vice President Curtis and a senatorial delegation later, and go to the White House tomorrow.

REPORT ON CONFERENCE

Headed by the youthful Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, the group gave congressional leaders the resolutions formulated by the recent national conference in Detroit attended by 32 mayors of cities of over 100,000 population.

Speaker Garner, after hearing them, said most of their demands were embodied in his program. He expressed the opinion that Congress would not adjourn until a program is adopted.

The mayors indorsed a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to put men to work on public works, asked the federal government to loan money to debt-ridden cities and give direct cities and give direct relief for the unemployed.

Murphy declared that the program proposed by President Hoover as a result of his week-end conference at Rapidan with the personnel of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was not sufficient.

CITY PROBLEMS

The cities, he said, have done everything possible to help themselves by an economy program. Widespread tax delinquents have added to their problems.

He told Garner that the mayors thought the federal government should have taken action two years ago, and that a special session of Congress should have been called.

Painting a doleful picture of conditions in the larger cities, Murphy said that the "unemployed are on a survival basis and this cannot continue."

The mayors emphasized their desire not only to have the financial structure of the cities, but to put men to work. Mayor Murphy said:

"Measures must be employed as drastic as in war time. We recommend a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan or something similar to provide employment and stimulate business."

The cities, Murphy said, are caught in a trap with the problem of funding their huge debts and unemployment.

Addressing himself first to the $5,000,000,000 loan plan and assuming that the government could sell bonds, Speaker Garner said a survey showed that only $450,000,000 could be spent on federal projects next year.

The money, he said, is provided in his program, which allots over $1,000,000,000 for construction projects. This, he said, would put 500,000 to 1,000,000 men to work. Murphy said:

"Could not this be supplemented by loans through cities?"

Garner then explained how he had "taken the bridle off" the R. F. C., allowing it to loan money to cities for unemployment work and to inaugurate huge projects to provide work. In effect, he explained, his proposal allots $2,000,000,000 to create employment.

CURLEY'S APPEAL

Mayor Curley, of Boston, made a vigorous appeal for a $5,000,000,000 construction program. He asserted that the mere announcement of the government that it would begin spending that amount of on construction projects would be magical. He said:

"Unless the government does something in a big way and at once there is great danger of a revolution. I look with fear upon the winter of 1932 and the beginning of a new year. Unless something is done, you will have one out of every three people in the country living on charity."

As the House debated the Garner bill, party lines were closely drawn, with the Republicans making a determined fight to substitute the $1,800,000,000 plan of President Hoover for relieving distress and reviving business. Pleading for the adoption of Garner's plan, Representative Bankhead (Dem.), of Alabama, said:

"There has not been a moment more tense in the history of the United States than that provided by the present economic and unemployment situation."

THE PROBLEM

THE Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania News states: "Relief in Allegheny County is now limited to an average of $5 a week per family, with the association discussing possibility of reducing this average still further.

THE REMEDY

A $5,000,000,000 bond issue by the United States to build great public works, employ several million men, start the nation back to prosperity.

Piccard Plans New Stratosphere Flight

BERLIN, June 7.—(AP.)—Prof. Auguste Piccard, who ascended approximately 10 miles into the stratosphere last June, today superintended the removal of his balloon to Zurich, whence he will take off soon in an effort to achieve an even higher altitude.

REPEAL URGED BY ROCKEFELLER

Butler, president of Columbia University, expressing his agreement with the educator's resolution, which he will attempt to incorporate in the platform of the Republican party at its convention in Chicago.

The plank which Butler will seek to insert calls for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by submission to state conventions. He also would pledge the party to battle against the return of the saloon and to stand for obedience to the amendment while it remains in effect.

"With this resolution I am . . . complete sympathy."

In his letter, Rockefeller said that he had revised his opinion on prohibition "slowly and reluctantly."

ALWAYS 'TEETOTALER'

He pointed out that "neither my father nor his father ever tasted a drop of intoxicating liquor, nor have I." He said:

"When the Eighteenth Amendment was passed, I earnestly hoped—with a host of advocates of temperance—that it would be generally supported by public opinion and thus the day be hastened when the value to society of men with minds and bodies free from the undermining effects of alcohol would be generally realized.

"That this has not been the result, but rather than drinking generally has increased; that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably two-fold, if not three-fold; that a vast army of lawbreakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale; that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashedly disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment; that as an inevitable result respect for all law has been greatly lessened; that crime has increased to an unprecedented degree—I have slowly and reluctantly come to believe."

He declared that repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was a prerequisite to the abolition of the law's evils and for restoration of respect for law.

He concluded:

"My hope is that the tremendous effort put forth in behalf of the Eighteenth Amendment by millions of earnest, consecrated people will be continued in effective support of practical measures for the promotion of genuine temperance. To that cause my own efforts will ever be devoted."

Crowning Dormont Girl as Pitt's Senior Queen

MISS LOUISE LINN HEADING PROCESSION TO HER CORONATION AS PITT'S SENIOR QUEEN

Miss Linn, Dormont co-ed, who as a cashier, salesgirl and nursemaid worked her way through Pitt and took high honors as she went, approaching today her highest honor: the coronation of the seventh queen of Pitt seniors. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

Cinderella Girl Crowned Pitt's Senior Queen

A hard working Cinderella, who became Queen of the May, is the story of Louise Linn, Dormont girl, who was crowned the seventh Senior Queen of the University of Pittsburgh at an elaborate Anglo-Saxon Ceremony on Pitt campus today.

Miss Linn not only earned her way through college as a cashier, nurse maid and sales girl, but has four years of excellent work in curricular and extra-curricular activities to her credit. She participated in the greatest number of debates of any co-ed, was president and manager of the debating team, and recently was admitted to Delta Sigma Rho, an honorary debating fraternity of high requirements.

This year she acted as chief justice of the senior court and was awarded a book of poetry by Panhellenic Society for having the highest scholastic record of any senior fraternity woman.

The queen's handmaidens are Mildred Levenson, Justice; Adelaide Hunter, Mercy; Jean Davis, Wisdom; Hilda Rubin, Veritas, and Edith Raschen, Vertus. Besides her court, comprised of the entire senior class, queens from former years will accompany her in the procession. After the coronation ceremony, Queen Louise will lead her royal company to the Twentieth Century Club, where the entire court will participate in a typical Anglo-Saxon breakfast in celebration of the new queen.

GIBBONS SEES BONUS MARCH AS GOOD GOVERNMENT DEMAND

'ARMY' FORCING SHOWDOWN ON RELIEF

Famous Headline Hunter Finds Vets Loyal, Justly Asking Leadership to Decent Life

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Universal Service
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Hello, everybody! This blast comes from the Washington zoo. I don't mean the one in Rock Creek Park. I am referring to the one on Capitol Hill.

The animals are all disturbed. The old congressional dog Rover has suddenly found himself full of fleas. And is he beginning to scratch?

Old Rover's had fleas before, but never anything like this set. The old unorganized taxpayer fleas got on his back occasionally, but he just walked out from under 'em.

Of course the newspaper fleas and the editorial writer fleas and beer tax and manufacturer's sales tax fleas—all of them tried to disturb him, but the old dog was able to shake all of them off.

BONUS 'FLEAS' WORST

But, jumping dog biscuits! These bonus fleas stick closer than a dog collar and bite deeper than a chigger.

Yes, sir, Old Congressional Dog Rover is having flea trouble like nobody's business.

Funny part of it all is that it is everybody's business—especially everybody who has been having his own flea trouble for the last three years. Boys and girls who have been scratching like the very dickens to exterminate the depression fleas and get rid of the unemployment chiggers and feed the tax collector locusts—well, it has never made any of us any happier to see Old Congressional Dog Rover dozing away peacefully or occasionally clawing away foolishly over there on Capitol Hill without a single worry in the world.

That's why Rover's present antics to shake off the bonus fleas are sending a suppressed snicker right across the country. Yes, sir, it might surprise some, but there's lots of people pulling for the fleas.

Now that's the way this bonus marcher business appears to me. That's why your old headline hunter slams out this broadcast from the Washington front.

REAL ARMY; SERIOUS AIM

And it's a real front. There's an army here—a real army.

They call it a bonus army. But it's more than that—much more.

These 4,000 men camped along the Potomac are here to get an answer to a mighty serious question. They want to know why they're staving in the midst of plenty.

The people they've been sending to Congress to do things for them have let the boys down. So they've come to get their answer firsthand. The boys are certain the country is all right and the people are all right, but something is wrong with the government.

Sure, they want their bonus money. But the main thing they want is work. They're hungry.

I wanted to see those boys and talk with them. Wanted to see if they were just a ragged rabble trying to hold up the government and shake down the Treasury.

NOT BUMS, NOT AGITATORS

First of all, they are not bums. Second, they are not agitators, although I can't think of anything more agitating to a fellow than sore feet and an empty stomach and no job and a wife and kids and the rent unpaid and—.

There's plenty of old and worn out clothing and shoes in this army of men who represent a cross-section of American life of today.

These men are citizens. They are veteran American soldiers. Some of them are disabled soldiers.

We called them heroes when they sailed for France. Called them that again when they limped back with the bacon after the armistice and found the country dry and some other fellow with their girl and somebody else in their old job.

They are also voters.

They are also workmen—just like you and me, and by golly, they are just as puzzled as we are about what has happened to the good old U. S. A.

ANXIOUS TO WORK

And the people are all right. They are all hard working people, only too anxious to work and take care of themselves and their families and clothe their kids and send them to school—yes, the people are all right and the country is all right, but by golly, something has gone wrong with the management.

This army of jobless veteran American soldiers is loyal.

It is neither looking toward nor wishing for an overthrow of government. It believes the government is all right. It does not forget that this same government has worked pretty well through many tough times before, but what it does not know and what it wants to know and what it is here in Washington to find out, is WHY INELL THE RESPONSIBLE REPRESENTATIVES OF THIS GOVERNMENT, OF THIS PEOPLE AND THIS COUNTRY, CAN'T RUN THE THING.

They intend staying in Washington until they find out. Starvation and exposure in Washington is no more painful than it is back where they came from. They are digging in.

RACES HOME, RACES BACK

MISS DOROTHY RUTHERFORD . . . . WON COMING AND GOING

Miss Rutherford, American Y. W. C. A. teacher at far-away Istaobul, who raced 5,000 miles to Washington, Pa., reached the bedside of her father, the Rev. Matthew Rutherford, just two hours before he died. She turned about, raced back, reached her school in time to see her pupils before they left for the summer vacation.

BOY LOSES LIFE IN OLD MINE

Unable to find work, and wanting to help with the family budget, George Yurack, Jr., 16, of Adderly, Pa., lost his life at noon today while digging coal in an abandoned mine between Wilmerding and Pitcairn.

With two other boys, Mike and George Cristofano, George ventured below ground level. Suddenly the earth collapsed, burying him. Mike and his brother ran a mile for help and returned with Pete Skrgic. The boy was dead when they reached him.

Coastguard Shots End Liquor Chase

IPSWICH, Mass., June 7.—(INS.)—Coast Guard gunfire climaxed a two-mile chase in Ipswich Bay today and resulted in the arrest of three men, the capture of the alleged rum runner, C-6279, formerly the Mary Lou, and the seizure of 500 cases of liquors.

The haul was made by the Coast Guard Patrol Boat 2374, of the Gloucester Coast Guard base, after the vessel had discovered the alleged rum runner traveling without lights.

FIFTH BLEDSOE JUROR PICKED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 7.—A fifth juror to try R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stangoni, charged with the murder of Constable Jack Donohoe, three years ago, was selected at the second day of the trial here. The juror, J. Kenneth Hoffman, miner, was the forty-fourth examined. Three men and a woman had been seated in the jury box at yesterday's session. They are W. Allen McDowell, Uniontown; Emmor H. Kelley, South Brownsville; John Helms, Union Township, and Mrs. Virginia Parsons, Fayette City.

Allowed 20 peremptory challenges each, the commonwealth used eight and the defense nine.

Bledsoe, a former county detective and railroad police officer, takes an active part in the selection of the jury. Seated at his left, Stangoni, an alleged Masontown racketeer, looks hopefully now and then in his companion's direction, as if he had more faith in him than in the array of legal talent representing them.

The two defendants are represented by Attorneys E. J. McDaniel, Joseph J. Baer and Charles J. Davidson. District Attorney Wade K. Newell is being aided by his first assistant, Clark Glassburn, and State Police Sergt. John Tomek, of Greensburg. Judge S. John Morrow is presiding.

STRANDED VETS DEMAND HELP ON WAY HERE

MARCH CONTINUES HERE

Other scattered groups of the army of World War veterans, Washington-bound, to plead for full payment of the soldiers' bonus, today continued to pass through the Pittsburgh district as the main group of marchers moved out of Western Pennsylvania into Maryland.

About 500 veterans arrived in Connellsville on freight trains last night and early this morning.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad officials, who suspended freight service on the main line through Connellsville for 15 hours yesterday in an attempt to prevent the ex-service men from riding further toward Washington on the B. & O. trains, offered the leaders of the group a compromise.

They were told that if half of the men would take a Western Maryland freight, scheduled to leave Connellsville for the East around 1 p. m., eastern standard time, the B. & O. would permit the rest of the men to board two east-bound freights later in the day.

When the Western Maryland train pulled in, it was found that 40 bonus "marchers" already were aboard. Seventy of the Connellsville contingent joined them, filling two empty flat cars.

The group which paralyzed freight service yesterday was estimated to have as high as 1,000 men when at its peak.

FED BY CITY

Only about 400 were left when the B. & O. finally relaxed its police vigilance and resumed freight operations late yesterday. All of this contingent had left Connellsville before the new group arrived, its main detachment not dropping from the cars until 2 a. m. today.

Connellsville merchants, the American Legion, private citizens and the Elks lodge, who joined yesterday to feed the stranded bonus-seekers, were continuing their work today. Food was being prepared at the police station and served either there or at the veterans' improvised encampment on the Youghiogheny River near the B. & O. yards.

First word of violence was reported from Washington, Pa., early today when L. B. Smith, commander and financial secretary of the disabled veterans encamped there, reported to police that he had been kidnaped, beaten and robbed of more than $100 by three of his comrades. Smith said he was forced into their machine and, after being robbed, thrown out. He was not seriously injured.

Five men answering a description of Smith's assailants were arrested at Uniontown. They denied the charge, but admitted that they had been members of the force headed by Smith.

COX INVITED

The Rev. James R. Cox announced he had been invited to go to Washington to plead with officialdom there for the veterans. The priest said he had been invited by veterans from Alabama, New Jersey, Michigan and Washington. He intimated that he may go if additional overtures are made to him.

Commenting on the situation, Father Cox declared:

"It will not avail the President, Mr. Herbert Hoover, to say that no money is available for the soldiers. A government which just gave away two billions of dollars to the bankers who brought about this grave crisis and robbed our people of nearly three billions of dollars through bank failures, can certainly find two billions of back pay for our soldiers."

DEPUTY SHERIFF CLARENCE C. MOOAR (WEARING PANAMA) REASONING WITH VETERANS

Leaders of one of the contingents of bonus marchers in the railroad yards at Sharpsburg as police tried to dissuade them from attempting to board B. & O. freight trains bound to Washington, goal of thousands of veterans urging bonus payment. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Veterans from the South Side and southern portion of the county are to meet at 2 p. m. today at Armstrong playgrounds, South Thirteenth and Sarah streets, to join the trek, according to Sam Harris. Commander Harry Schaefer, of the Harry Greb Gold Star Post No. 1, said Mrs. Peter Greb, mother of the late pugilist, and Mrs. Mary Schaefer, mother of the commander, announced plans for a journey to Washington July 2, to plead for the bonus.

Veterans "hopping" trains at McKeesport last night were reported to have continued their practice of delaying trains by tampering with airbrakes while comrades boarded them. More than 400 passed through the Tube City, police estimated. Late last night a group of 50 from Flint, Mich., sought shelter at the McKeesport Helping Hand, but it was closed and they spent the night in vacant lots.

No Drouth Relief Seen by Forecaster

No relief is in sight from the drouth, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported today. Local thundershowers might send some slight relief in districts, but no general rain is anticipated. Johnstown, Fairmont, W. Va., and Freeport today reported a rainfall of approximately .4 of an inch. Yesterday's local rainfall was .02 of an inch. Today and tomorrow it will be cloudy, the forecaster reported.

Refrigerator Fumes Kill Repairman

Ralph W. Johnson, 58, 3829 Liberty avenue, refrigerator service man, died today from inhaling fumes of a chemical used in a refrigerator, according to a coroner's report. He was stricken with congestion of the lungs and hemorrhages, the report said, after he had serviced a refrigerator in Colonial place, last Wednesday. Coroner W. J. McGregor has ordered an investigation.

YOUNG MAY GET DAWES POST

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—President Hoover was faced today with the task of finding a citizen of sufficiently important caliber to fill the shoes of Gen. Charles Gates Dawes as president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Congressional leaders, who usually are sufficiently in the know to at least guess on major appointments, were taken completely off balance by Dawes' sudden resignation and offered little help in hinting at his successor.

One suggestion that found favor among the guessers was the name of Owen D. Young. Only a man of the highest type would be acceptable to the Senate.

Generally, it was conceded his desire to re-enter the banking business in Chicago and straighten out his personal fortune was the real reason for the sudden retirement.

Cholera Outbreak Strikes Shanghai

SHANGHAI, June 7.—(AP.)—Cholera, that summer scourge which takes heavy toll every year, has broken out in Shanghai, the city health authorities revealed today.

Chicago Janitor Paid More Than Principal

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP.)—There's at least one school in Chicago where it's more profitable to be janitor than principal.

Dr. George D. Strayer, Columbia University expert in school administration, who has made a survey of the Chicago schools, told a meeting of 4,000 teachers yesterday the head janitor of one school was being paid $5,750 and the principal only $4,000, Dr. Strayer said.

"Of all the incongruities I have ever seen, a head janitor getting more than a principal takes the prize."

In a recent report of his survey Dr. Strayer recommended to the Board of Education that salaries of all janitors be cut 21 per cent to effect a huge saving.

WIFE BELIEVES HAUSNER LIVES

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS.)—Four days have gone by without sight or sound of Stanley Hausner, the Polish-American airman, but there is one person at least who is not racked by fears for his safety. That person is his wife. She declared today:

"He's safe, wherever he is. He can always look after himself."

She refuses, in spite of the anxiety of others and the opinions of experts, to believe anything except that he must be safe and sound. She told her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Ages:

"It's only four days without news, and if it were four weeks I wouldn't despair. Nothing could ever happen to Stanley."

She has been the most cheerful member of the household since her husband's plane circled up from Floyd Bennett Field, bound for Poland, and roared out of sight. She switches on the radio from time to time during the day, but when there is no news to be had, turns to dance music.

PITMAN VICTOR IN BALM SUIT

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—In a sealed verdict opened today by Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente, a jury found a verdict for Clarence A. Pitman, of White Plains, N. Y., in the suit for $89,000 brought against him by Mrs. Louise C. Dixon.

The jury deliberated seven hours. Mrs. Dixon, a former maid in the Pitman household, based her suit against the 73-year-old nephew of Sir Isaac Pitman, inventor of a shorthand system, on an alleged oral contract made in 1930. Under this contract, she claimed, Pitman agreed to pay her $300 a month for the rest of her life, to enable her to devote her time to writing motion picture scenarios.

Testimony at the trial showed Pitman paid her $39,500 between 1920 and 1928. His defense was that the agreement was not based on "filial love," as Mrs. Dixon claimed, but was strictly a business arrangement whereby he was to receive half of the proceeds of scenarios Mrs. Dixon sold.

NUISANCE TAX EFFECTIVE JUNE 21

First-Class Postage to Be Raised to 3 Cents in 30 Days; Changes Prevented

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—The new revenue bill is law today, bolstering the credit of the government with the greatest range of taxes ever imposed by this country except during war.

President Hoover transformed this giant legislation into statute by signing it yesterday evening in the presence only of a secretary, less than two hours after the final legislative step had been taken by the Senate.

EFFECTIVE JUNE 21

All the excise, sales, admission and tariff taxes will go into effect in 15 days or on June 21 and will be imposed from then until July 1, 1934.

The income, inheritance and gift rates, effective on the earnings of the present calendar year, will be used for calculating the tax to be paid next year.

Here are some of the rates: Automobiles, 3 per cent; candy, 2 per cent; electrical energy, 3 per cent on sales for domestic and commercial purposes; gasoline, 1 cent a gallon; checks 2 cents each.

First class postage increased to 3 cents, effective within 30 days.

Tariff levies are imposed on oil, coal, lumber and copper.

The method of collecting the new duties will be announced soon by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The tax law is to pour $1,118,500,000 into the Treasury during the fiscal year which begins July 1, and thus restore the nation's finances to a cash basis.

Youths Beat Man Repulsed by Girl

A pretty girl on a park bench, a wisecrack and a slap landed Elmer McCleary, 35, of 833 Turtle way, in the hands of North Side police early today on a charge of being a suspicious person. McCleary told police he spoke to the girl as he passed her in West Park and she slapped him. Then he started to kick her.

Six youths pounced upon McCleary, police said, and he later sought treatment in Presbyterian Hospital for a fractured jaw. He was arrested there.

Weather Conditions.

Low pressure is centered off the middle Atlantic coast this morning, lowest barometer reported 29.46 inches, at Atlantic City, and New York and in the West lows are centered over Saskatchewan and Colorado. Between the lows is a wide belt of relatively high pressure, extending from the Hudson Bay section to the gulf. Light showers occurred in the vicinity of Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon and last night, also in West Virginia and Southern Ohio moderately heavy rains occurred. There were showers also over the Atlantic coast states, the upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes and the Northern and Central Rocky Mountain states. It is slightly cooler than yesterday over the lake region, the Ohio Valley states and the Rocky Mountain states, but there is no cold wave except in the mountains of Arizona and Utah, where temperatures of 30 and 28 degrees occurred this morning, and at Yellowstone 32 degrees.

CHURCH NAMES NEW OFFICERS

BOSTON, June 7 (AP) — Ralph O. Brewster, former Governor of Maine, was elected president of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ Scientist, at the annual meeting yesterday.

Other officers elected were: Clerk, Ezra W. Palmer, Brookline; treasurer, Victor L. Ryan, Brookline; first reader, Gordon A. Comer, Detroit; second reader, Miss Lucia C. Conklin, London, England.

Robert E. Bowen, retiring president of the mother church, presided at the meeting. The firm support of government was needed, he said, to combat lawlessness and crime, he said.

"It is imperative that we as Christian Scientists firmly stand on the side of law and order and that we unreservedly support righteous government."

Thirty-eight Christian Science societies qualified for the mother church during the year, the meeting was told, and 92 branch church organizations were added to make a total of 2,592 branch churches.

Millionaire's Third Wife Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 7 (AP)—For the third time in 10 years, E. John Brandeis, who inherited a $15,000,000 department store fortune, was a defendant today in a divorce suit. Mental cruelty is charged in a brief petition filed by his wife, the former Mlle. Claire Blaizeth, of Paris.

Brandeis married his present wife shortly after he had settled $1,250,000 on his second wife after their divorce. He was reported to have paid his first wife $500,000 when they were divorced.

Ends Life in Garage With Motor Fumes

Running a hose from the exhaust of a motor through the floor of his automobile, John H. Schram, 58, of 112 Virginia avenue, Aspinwall, ended his life, according to a Coroner's report. Morgue officials said Schram's death was due to carbon monoxide gas poisoning.

The body was found in his automobile in a garage in the rear of his home. The hose which led to the exhaust pipe was in his mouth, and the motor was running.

Oil City Man Dies Soon After Mother

OIL CITY, Pa., June 7—Fred A. Pfendler, 50, died at Oil City Hospital following the death of his mother by only 16 hours. The death of Mrs. Mary Pfendler, 74, occurred at home. The son was unaware of his mother's death. A double funeral is planned.

Ex-Senator McLean, Coolidge Friend, Dies

English Reformer's Skeleton 'Guest' At Banquet

LONDON, June 7 (INS)—The skeleton of Jeremy Bentham, famous philanthropist, reformer and centenarian, was eating accomplishment in its case back with the fascinating Old University of London today after a night of stepping out.

The skeleton, dressed meticulously in clothes and hat worn by Bentham during his life sat as guest of honor last night at a dinner to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of Bentham's death.

There was nothing ghostly about the appearance of the guest, whose head was of wax modeled from life showing the reformer in a kindly pose.

The skeleton was preserved at Bentham's request. He asked that it be dressed and placed in a sitting position as he was when engaged in thought. It is guarded carefully among the university's treasures.

PITTSBURGHERS GIVEN DEGREES

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 7—Five Pittsburghers were included in a list of nine receiving honorary degrees from Allegheny College today at the one hundred and seventeenth commencement when a class of 114 was graduated. The Pittsburghers were Andrew W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and Bishop Herbert Welch, doctor of laws; John I. Puder, master of arts; the Rev. Albert G. Curry and the Rev. E. Wilson Kelley, doctor of divinity.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. Frank P. Graves, president of New York State University and state commissioner of education.

Paul A. Siple, Erie Boy Scout member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, was one of the graduates.

FIFTH AVE. JOB BEFORE COUNCIL

Four public improvement projects were before Council's finance committee today for action as part of the Public Works Department's program for unemployment relief.

The largest, according to Director Edward G. Lang, will be the repaving of the railways street area on Fifth avenue, near Soho street. Estimated cost of this job is $30,000. The work will be done from city funds, due to the failure of the Pittsburgh Railways Company to pay its street repaving assessments to the city for the past two years.

Other projects contemplated include construction of a relief sewer on Hillsboro street, at Charters avenue, to cost $22,000; repaving of Prospect street, from Southern avenue, to cost $7,000, and repairs to steel work on the Smithfield Street Bridge, to cost $10,000.

Auto in Mystery Dash Crashes Store

A runaway automobile dashed down Tripoli street early today and crashed into the front of the grocery of Joseph Menczell, at 926 Madison avenue. Damage to the store front was estimated at $75. No damage was done to the automobile, owned, according to police by Richard Dorsch, of 619 Tripoli street.

Police were mystified as to how the machine started, as the street is not on a grade, and the car's engine showed no evidence of having been running.

PARTY ON ARMY HOTEL ROOF

The voices of girls and the music of mandolins floated off the roof of the Evangeline Hotel residence, 425 Boulevard of the Allies, last evening to usher in the season of open air parties for residents and their friends.

The scene was in a garden 10 stories above the street and was entitled "Close to the Clouds." The program was confined to songs and ballads of the moon or stars. Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of the women's organizations of the Salvation Army, and her aide, Mrs. Lucy Lyons, were guests of honor.

Miss Grace Rice and Miss Martha Soltey provided the accompaniment of stringed instruments. Adjt. and Mrs. Frederick Mepham, manager of the hotel residence, were host and hostess. Mrs. Miller gave an informal talk.

Drys Hold Man, Auto In Alcohol Seizure

Seventy gallons of alcohol were reported seized by prohibition agents in a raid on a garage in the rear of a North Negley avenue residence last night. The agents first seized an automobile driven from the garage. Frank Post, of 470 Pearl street, alleged driver of the car, in which the federal officers reported finding eight gallons of alcohol, was arrested.

Ohio River Bathers Find Body of Man

Efforts were being made at the morgue today to identify the body of a man, about 50, found floating in the Ohio River near South Main street by two bathers, Charles Wilkes, of 1321 Reedsdale street, and Harry Mudge, of 1336 Reedsdale street, late yesterday. The body was believed to have been in the water for several weeks.

Freed in Court, Gives $500 Order For Car Pass

Adam Zulis, 44, of First avenue, discharged from a drunkenness charge in South Side Police Station yesterday, promptly strolled out of the court and gave away a $500 money order for a street car pass.

Harry N. Venzer, 54, of South Twelfth street, recipient of the order, told the police about it.

When the police found Zulis and returned him the money order, he explained he apparently was still a bit under the weather.

WIFE ANSWERS DIVORCE SEEKER

William M. Bankson, postman, of the North Side, had too vivid an imagination for his own peace of mind, his wife, Caroline Bankson, Towers Terrace, West View, charged in her answer to his divorce suit in Common Pleas Court. She said he was jealous, nervous and irascible and denied his charge that she quarreled with him about money and about his going to church.

Divorces were granted D. H. W. Rodda from Winifred Rodda, Lena D. Buss from Dawson Buss, Thelma B. Packard from Floyd Packard.

Leon M. Thurston, 1239 Monterey street, North Side, charged cruelty and indignities in his divorce suit against Margaret I. Thurston, 5935 Walnut street. A divorce suit was filed by Mary Graswick against Adam B. Graswick.

EAT Your Breakfast Bran In Delicious Flake Form

You probably eat bran now. Most everyone does. But you possibly don't know that you can now get bran in a delicious flake form.

Fig & Bran Flakes are large, crisp flakes which contain all the bran you need, and yet are so crisp and deliciously flavored that you would not dream they contained any bran at all.

Here is truly a most delightful breakfast food that combines two of Nature's best-known laxatives—sterilized wheat bran and luscious, sun-ripened California figs. Because Fig & Bran Flakes contains the actual wheat germ super-rich in Vitamins B and G, and is further enriched with food iron and food lime, it is especially valuable for growing children. Text of Rockefeller Letter for Repeal

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—The following is the text of the letter of [illegible] to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, prohibitionist, made public today by an earnest Republican who would [illegible] repeal plank:

"My Dear Dr. Butler:

"The morning papers print a resolution which is stated you are proposing to offer for incorporation in the platform of the Republican party at the national convention in Chicago next week. I favor the resolution in full.

"Resolved, That we reaffirm the declaration of Republican doctrine made by the Republican national convention of 1856, when it nominated Abraham Lincoln for president, namely:

'That the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the states and especially the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends, and'

"That we also reaffirm the declaration of republican doctrine made by the Republican national convention of 1884, when it nominated James G. Blaine for president, namely:

'The people of the United States in their organized capacity, constitutes a nation, and not a mere confederacy of the states, the national government is supreme within the sphere of its national duties, but the states have reserved rights which should be faithfully maintained; each should be guarded with jealous care, so that the harmony of our system of government may be preserved and the Union kept inviolate.

Repeal Proposal

"'To the end that these declarations of principle may be made effective, that the distribution of powers between the states and the nation as originally established by the Constitution may be preserved, and that the several states may be enabled, in such ways as their public opinion shall direct and sustain, to deal promptly, effectively and constructively with the problems of the liquor traffic in the light of the experience of our own and other nations, we ask that the Congress submit a proposal to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, which proposal shall be submitted for ratification by conventions of the people of the several states in accordance with the provisions of Article V of the Constitution of the United States.

"'Should the Eighteenth Amendment be repealed, the Republican party pledges its influence and authority to secure the adoption of such measures for the control of the liquor traffic by the several states as will promote temperance, effectively abolish the saloon, whether open or concealed, and bring the liquor traffic itself, when not prohibited, under complete public supervision and control.

"'While the Eighteenth Amendment remains upon the statute books it should be obeyed.'

Backs Resolution

"With the resolution I am in complete sympathy and earnestly hope not only that it will be incorporated in the Republican platform but that a similar resolution will be incorporated in the Democratic platform, thus taking the question of repeal out of the field of partisan politics.

"My position my surprise you, as it will many of my friends. I was born a teetotaler, all my life I have been a teetotaler on principle. Neither my father nor his father ever tasted a drop of intoxicating liquor, nor have I. My mother and her mother were among the dauntless women of their day, who, hating the horrors of drunkenness, were often found with bands of women of like mind, praying on their knees in the saloons in their ardent desire to save men from the evils that so commonly sprang from those sources of iniquity. Although a teetotaler on principle and in practice, I have always stood for whatever measure seemed at the time to give promise of best promoting temperance. With my father I for years supported the Anti-Saloon League in both its state and national work. It was at one time reported that our contributions toward the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment amounted to between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. As I have previously stated, from the year 1900 up to and including the date of the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment, the contributions of my father and myself to all branches of the Anti-Saloon League (federal and state—the only contributions made by us in support of prohibition legislation—aggregated $350,000.

"When the Eighteenth Amendment was passed, I earnestly hoped, with a host of advocates of temperance, that it would be generally supported by public opinion and thus the day be hastened when the value to society of men with minds and bodies free from the undermining effects of alcohol would be generally realized. That this has not been the result, but rather that drinking generally has increased, that the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably two-fold if not three-fold, that a vast army of lawbreakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale that many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashed disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment, [illegible] to an intolerable condition, and [illegible] has been [illegible] to [illegible] some [illegible] I have [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible]

Good Untouched

I am profoundly [illegible] the good [illegible] abolition [illegible] has been to [illegible] these evils and restore public respect for law. I believe however that its repeal is a prerequisite to the attainment of that goal. I am informed that should repeal become effective all the machinery for controlling the liquor traffic built up in the respective states and in the nation throughout the many years prior to the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment would with few exceptions be in force strengthened by various federal laws and court decisions having to do with the regulation of Interstate Commerce. Moreover were the Eighteenth Amendment, to be repealed sufficient time ought to be given before repeal became effective to permit the various states through legislative action representing public opinion to set up such new safeguards or methods with reference to the handling of alcholic beverages as seemed best calculated to insure adequate and proper control of the traffic in the interest of temperance and at the same time safeguard the normal liberty of action of the individual.

There are many who feeling as I do that the Eighteenth Amendment has not accomplished the object which its enactment sought to attain would willingly favor its repeal were some alternate method that gave promise of better results offered as a substitute. In my judgment it will be so difficult for our people as a whole to agree in advance on what the substitute should be, and so unlikely that any one method will fit the entire nation, that repeal will be far less possible if coupled with an alternate measure. For that reason I the more strongly approved the simple, clear-cut position you are proposing to recommend and which I shall count it not only a duty but a privilege to support.

My hope is that the tremendous effort put forth in behalf of the Eighteenth Amendment by millions of earnest, consecrated people will be continued in effective support of practical measures for the promotion of genuine temperance. To that cause my own efforts will ever be devoted.

Very sincerely,
JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr.

U. S. GUNBOAT RESCUES SHIP

SHANGHAI, June 7.—(INS.)—The United States river gunboat Oahu today rescued the British steamer Wanliu perilously aground in the Upper Yangtze 40 miles below Chunking, and is standing by to prevent raids by Chinese bandits.

Mails and bullion aboard the Wanliu were taken off by the British steamer Kiawo which stood by until the American gunboat arrived.

During the night Chinese soldiers along the river bank fired on the Kiawo, demanding that a boat be sent ashore. The captain refused and signaled the Oahu which sped upstream shelling and machine-gunning the Chinese until they dispersed.

Pittsburghers Take Honors at College

SELINSGROVE, Pa., June 7.—Two Pittsburgh seniors received highest honors at Susquehanna University commencement yesterday. Andrew Kozak, receiving a science degree, was valedictorian, and Lewis R. Fox, receiving an arts degree, was salutatorian. Two other Pittsburgh students receiving degrees were T. P. Adams and Reed Speer, both of Crafton, bachelor of science degrees.

Boy Saves Chum From Drowning

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 7.—Adolph Stoyak, 9, is alive today because George Sanders, 12, knew what to do. Sanders dived into a swimming pool near the old Etna furnace site, brought Stoyak to shore, rolled him over a barrel and took him home.

Two Riders Injured As Motorcycle Burns

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 7.—Frank Roberts, 31, and L. M. Miller, 29, of Morgantown, W. Va., suffered serious burns when a motorcycle on which they were riding burst into flames at Vestaburg.

Lawrence County Roads to Be Oiled

Commodore Perry Flagship May Float Again

ERIE, Pa., June 7.—(AP.)—The U. S. S. Niagara, Perry's flagship in the battle of Lake Erie, may float again.

The Niagara Commission is split today, some favoring floating the ship and others wanting to keep in on the bay slip.

The guns that poured fire on the British will be dismantled this week.

The state provided $50,000 to recondition the vessel.

Leads
by
E. HALL DOWNES
Tomorrow
2:30 P. M.

Another Contract Bridge lecture—in response to numerous requests. Mr. Downes considers this the most helpful and interesting lecture in his entire course on Contract Bridge.

This lesson will not include leads, but the proper response to leads, and will be found highly profitable to both beginners and advanced players.

Admission 50c

Auditorium, Seventh Floor

Make-up Mirrors

You know the mirrors! Those affairs that give you a normal reflection on one side . . . and on the other, a reflection that shows up practically every pore in your whole countenance! A wonderful help for making up, for shaving, for skin treatment. Choice of a number of styles, on handles and in cases, at 85c.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

L-o-n-g-e-r W-i-d-e-r Hosiery

A boon to those women who require outsize, or unusually long stockings! Two styles—our "Longfellow" hose, at least 34 inches long, in chiffon and semi-service weights . . . and outsize chiffon and semi-service stockings with extra width at the top—available now in the popular Horne shades, at just $1.00.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Put All Your Eggs in This

Refrigerator Basket

This modern wire basket—7x7x3¼ inches—disproves the old proverb. You save much space when you replace the old egg carton with one of these neat little baskets. And they're good for holding fruit, too. The air is allowed to circulate all around the contents, thus precluding moisture. 25c.

A larger size, 7x14x3½ inches, 50c.

. . . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Get Your Boy a Pair of

"Yankers"

Nothing will give him a greater "kick" than these new riding style breeches that are ready for any adventurous sport! They promise plenty of service through a long vacation season, too, at this small price. Covert cloth, with suedecloth at the knees, like riding breeches. With web belt. Tan, gray. 8 to 20 years. 85c.

. . . Horne's, Third Floor . . .

Spend a Comfortable Summer in

Voile Foundations
$5.00

Horne's Corset Section has long been "all things to all women" in the matter of correct and satisfactory foundations. That's why we've provided a great summer special like this one—offering fine foundation garments for everyone from young things with 26-inch waists to matrons with 46-inch busts!—contradicting that false impression that cool foundations are only for little figures!

Garments of double, fine French voile and ventilated elastics—that let in lots of air and let out the heat.

Side-Hook Girdles—lightly boned; define high waistlines.

Corsettes—net, voile, or lace tops.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Plenty to Tuck In!—Extra Size

Red Label Sheets

81x108 Inches (42x36-Inch Pillow Cases, 20c Each) $1.00

Red Label, to hundreds of Horne customers, means uniformly high quality and consistently low price—but this extra-large size sheet at $1.00 offers a greater value than ever. The trend is towards larger sheets that can be tucked in generously at top and bottom to give a smooth, unwrinkled bed . . . and here is the opportunity to have a plentiful supply at little cost.

Other sizes in these fine hemmed muslin sheets:

63x 99-inch	75c	72x108-inch	95c
63x108-inch	80c	81x 99-inch	85c
72x 99-inch	80c	90x108-inch	$1.15

Are You Looking for Something EXCLUSIVE?

—See These Frocks with Gypsy Scarf Designs

The answer to the call for exclusiveness, quality and "something different!"

They are of a beautiful, rich crepe, whose "feel" bespeaks its pure silk quality; and the unique gypsy scarf patterns are skillfully hand-blocked. White, with designs in navy or black, and peach-beige with brown . . . And, grand as they are, they're assuredly washable!

The Women's "Sunshine Corner" discovered them, and annexed them exclusively to Horne's, for Pittsburgh.

Waynesburg Trial Delayed by Illness

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 7.—Trial of James Barnhart and Arleigh Tennant, charged with the shooting of Barnhart's sweetheart, Miss Mary Temple, near her home at Oak Forest, last April, has been postponed to September because of the illness of Barnhart's father, J. F. Barnhart of Cumberland Township. Defense attorneys said the elder Barnhart was to have been an important witness.

A. P. AND RADIO HEADS HONORED

DES MOINES, Ia., June 7.—(AP.)—Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, and Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, received honorary doctor of laws degrees yesterday from Drake University.

Aylesworth, son of Barton O. Aylesworth, president of the university from 1889 to 1897, delivered the commencement address to the 225 graduates.

He drew a contrasting picture of the overflowing granaries of the country, while on the other hand, he pointed to 9,000,000 American unemployed, "ready to compete with you for an opportunity to work," He added:

"We have failed to keep the balance between mass production and mass consumption."

He saw an encouraging angle, however, in the fact that some of our great leaders are seeking solutions to our economic ills."

New U. S. Ocean Liner Named Washington

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—The second of the transatlantic liners now being completed for the United States Lines will be christened Washington when it is launched next August at the Camden, N. J., shipyards of the New York Shipbuilding Company.

A. A. S. Franklin, chairman of the board of directors of the Roosevelt Steamship Company, which operates the lines, said the name was selected by the directors as a fitting tribute to the first president in this bicentennial year.

French Import Law Affects Pa. Plants

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania glass manufacturers who ship plate, window and rough cast glass to France will be affected by import quotas on those products ordered by the French government early this month.

France fixed no individual quota for the United States. The quota for this country is included in that for a group of nations not singled out.

'Alphabet' Tree Bears Initialed Leaves

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 7.—There's an "alphabet" tree in the yard of Isaac Sypolt at Albrigha, Preston County, that turns out initialed leaves.

Mrs. Sypolt found one leaf that had more than its share—five letters plainly marked across the widest portion of the leaf.

The letters, N-G-E-O-C, defy interpretation, but they must mean something in the opinion of the tree's owner and others of the family.

Licenses Free on 'Get Married Day'

GREENVILLE, Ky., June 7.—(AP.)—Tomorrow will be "Get Married Day" in Muhlenberg County. All who wish to launch marital barques are invited to get their licenses then without costs. The reason is the apathy toward marriage hereabouts lately which the county is anxious to have something done about.

WALKER SECRET TO BE BARED

NEW YORK, June 7. (AP.)—The name of the mysterious person whose identity was carefully guarded during investigator Samuel Seabury's two-day clash with Mayor James J. Walker will be laid before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Seabury produced evidence that this person received payments from the Mayor and from Russell T. Sherwood, missing accountant who handled nearly a million dollars in bank and brokerage accounts. Walker has admitted paying $7,500 to the mysterious individual, but has denied Sherwood's expenditures of $75,000 on the same person were on his behalf.

Seabury, attempting to link Walker with Sherwood's huge financial transactions, will use the evidence in an attempt to show the accountant was the Mayor's fiscal agent.

Seabury's brief against Mayor Walker, in which he will not make a plea for the Mayor's removal but will analyze the evidence and leave it to Gov. Roosevelt to decide whether executive action is warranted, is expected to be in Albany late this week.

6 DIE IN CRASH OF AMBULANCE

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., June 7 (AP.)—Six persons were killed and another seriously injured early today when an ambulance speeding to a hospital with an injured 3-year-old girl collided with an automobile at a street intersection.

The dead were Richard J. Bloemaker, 40, his daughter, Emma Bloemaker, 3, Policeman John Knorr, driver of the ambulance; Mrs. J. A. Rodecker, 45, William Rodecker, 21, driver of the automobile, son of Mrs. Rodecker, and Mrs. Edward Smith, sister of Mrs. Rodecker.

Rodecker was a student at Georgetown University, Washington, and he and his mother and aunt were returning home after attending commencement exercises at the university yesterday.

The Bloemaker child suffered a cut on her forehead in a fall from her crib and was being taken to the hospital for treatment.

VOTE ORDERED BY HINDENBURG

BERLIN, June 7.—(AP.)—President Paul von Hinderburg will issue a decree calling a general election for July 31, it was announced today.

His dissolution of the Reichstag by decree last week made the election compulsory under a constitutional provision which requires an election within 60 days after the Reichstag is dissolved.

The cabinet of Chancellor Franz von Papen was completed today with the appointment of Hugo Schaeffer, president of the Federal Social Insurance Board, to the post of Minister of Labor.

Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and his recent cabinet colleagues sought to refute in a public statement charges of the Von Papen government that they had left Germany bankrupt.

It was impossible to save Germany from the consequences of the World War depression and the resulting unemployment, Chancellor Buening and his associates contended.

Sentenced 10 Years For Carnegie Murder

Richard Bell, Negro club manager, of Carnegie, pleaded guilty to murder today in the death of Joseph Brooks, Negro, also of Carnegie, April 2, in a quarrel over a debt. Visiting Judge O. C. Kent fixed the crime at second degree murder and sentenced him to serve from 10 to 20 years in Western Penitentiary. Bell's son, James, 16, alleged to have aided his father to escape after the killing, was sent to Huntingdon Reformatory.

Trade Body Dry Poll Procedure Explained

Possibility of the use of Allegheny County voting machines and the setting aside of several days for voting so as to enable the 5,000 members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce an opportunity to vote on the liquor question, was discussed yesterday as the chamber awaited details of the forthcoming prohibition referendum, which were to be given to the membership at a meeting today.

An overflow crowd of local business men was expected at the meeting when James S. Crutchfield, president of American Fruit Growers' Association and a director of the Pittsburgh chamber, was to tell about the referendum and the procedure to be used.

Conductor Killed In Fake Holdup

WARREN, Pa., June 7.—A fake holdup ended fatally here early today when Ernest F. Johnson, Warren, conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was shot by S. C. Mullen, a fellow employ, also of Warren. Johnson died en route to the Warren Hospital in Mullen's arms. He was shot when he attempted to frighten his friend in a joke robbery. Mullen was released by Warren County authorities.

Verdict of Suicide In Parsonage Death

HILLSBORO, Ore., June 7.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Koeber, 78, who was found fatally burned in the basement of the Free Methodist Church parsonage here last Wednesday.

She died within two hours without making a statement. Jammed into her mouth were several splinters and chips of wood. Mrs. Koeber was found by her daughter, the Rev. Nathalia Koeber, pastor of the church, who was a witness at the inquest.

Even though many of our June weddings are being kept small and simple in setting, nevertheless they are distinctive, and of course give us the romantic glamour we expect of the month of roses and brides.

A simple home wedding with only families and a few close friends present was held yesterday at 4 o'clock in the Joseph Horne Holmeses home when their daughter Mary Blair Holmes became the bride of Leavitt Corning, Jr.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, of Calvary Episcopal Church officiated with a pre dieu having ferns and tapers placed on either side as the setting.

Satin Gown

The lace trimming the bride's wedding gown of white satin made in an old-fashioned style was first worn by the bride's great-grandmother Anne Robinson and has been worn by four generations of brides. Two deep flounces of the lace and a bertha trimmed the dress and the veil was of lace cascading from a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white gardenias.

Gwendolen Holmes, who was her sister's only attendant, wore yellow tulle suggestive in mode of our grandmothers day with wreaths of flowers embroidered in wool decorating the skirt. Her hat was of leghorn with a wreath of daisies, and her flowers were arranged in a Colonial bouquet.

Townsend Corning was his brother's best man. A small reception followed. After a honeymoon Mr. Corning and his bride will be at home in San Antonio, Tex.

* * *

Elizabeth Booth Miller daughter of the William Booth Millers of Sewickley will be a June bride. She has named Wednesday, June 29, as the date for her marriage to Kirtland Cutter Gardner, Jr., son of the Kirtland Cutter Gardners of Springbank, Coraopolis Heights.

To Wed June 29

* * *

Barbara Ziegler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Ziegler, of Neville street, has named June 24 as the date for her marriage to E. Alexander Hill, son of the Elgin A. Hills of Fifth avenue.

At the ceremony to take place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the Ziegler home, Mary Ziegler will be her sister's maid of honor and Mary Louis Dicken and Katherine E. Stewart will be bridesmaids.

Samuel Sumner Scott will be best man, and Porter Sawyer Kier and Robert William Pratt will be ushers.

Mrs. Henry D. Scully and Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman are at the Hotel Del Monte, Del Monte, Cal.

Magdalen J. Erb And Ambridge Man Marry

Announcement is made of the marriage on Wednesday morning, June 1, of Miss Magdalen J. Erb, of Geyer road, Mt. Troy, to Anthony Uebelacker, of Ambridge, Pa., which was solemnized at a nuptial high mass at St. Aloysius' Roman Catholic Church at 9 o'clock. Officiating was the Rev. J. Hungerman. The church was decorated with Boston and ciboilum ferns and white peonies.

The bride wore a gown of white point lace, and a veil of tulle finished with a cap of tulle embroidered with pearls and caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried white lilies.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ida Pellegrini, who wore blue georgette with pink accessories and carried pink roses and larkspur, and Miss Mildred Pfeifer, niece of the bride, who wore pink georgette with blue accessories and carried pink roses and larkspur. Margaret Pfeifer and Bernadette Erb, small nieces of the bride, were flower girls wearing orchid and green georgette and carrying afterglo roses. Henry Kaufhold was the best man and ushers included Clarence Kablach, George J. and William R. Pfeifer.

Bridal Party

A reception was given in the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Uebelacker sail Thursday for a honeymoon in Europe.

Another annual flower show and luncheon is scheduled by the Rockledge Garden Club for Monday. The luncheon will take place at the home of Mrs. W. L. Dipple, William Penn highway, and the show at Mrs. Sidney A. Challant's home, also on the highway. Yesterday the members met with Mrs. R. T. Rossell, South Homewood avenue, and heard a talk on roses by R. C. Jordon of Greensburg. Mrs. J. S. Foster reported a rose lecture which she had heard.

Most Original Appointments Mark Affair Honoring Publicity Group and Club Editors

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. Charles L. Reizenstein, famed among her friends for her originality in entertaining, lived up to her reputation yesterday when she gave a luncheon in her home, South Aiken avenue. Mrs. Reizenstein is retiring chairman of publicity for the Pittsburgh Council of Jewish Women and her guests included the retiring and incoming publicity department members of Council and the club editors of the newspapers, together with Mrs. Leo L. Half, Council president.

Instead of a cloth the table was spread with newspapers, and as "doilies" there were pages from Council's model press scrap book, a length of cellophane covering the entire board. In the center of the table mounted on the bound press books, was a cellophane-covered typewriter and beside it the customary reservation card marked "Press."

Appropriate little favors were found at each place, telephones marking those of the newspaper women, and the place cards were most original appetizers with the names "written" in cheese. Tiny boxes of matches were covered with clippings from the club departments of the papers and even the food was served in shape and manner to conform to the general club idea. The candies were chocolate letters.

Unusual Cards

Instead of vases of flowers there were little heaps of Council year books and other publications. Mrs. Reizenstein remains in Council's official family as vice president representative of publicity.

An imposing list of patronesses is announced for the benefit bridge which the Pennsylvania College for Women members of the College Club will have on Saturday. The affair, as you know, is intended to raise funds to furnish the Cora Helen Coolidge room at the new College Club and will be held at P. C. W. in Woodland road.

Bridge Sponsers

The list, which is too long to publish in its entirety, included Mrs. William Nimick Frew, Mrs. George Hamilton Flinn, Mrs. S. W. Cunningham, Miss Jane McDonald, Mrs. Charles H. Spencer, Mrs. James H. Gray, Mrs. F. W. Boland, Miss Marion Jobson, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. J. W. MacCloskey, Jr., Mrs. Charles L. Taylor, Miss Catherine Sayres, Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. Alexander Murdoch, Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, Jr., Mrs. George M. Swan, Mrs. Howard Beatty Smith, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer and Mrs. James Lockhead.

Mrs. George Wilmer Martin is chairman of patronesses.

Officers of the Woman's Club of the Bradford Woods Community Non-Denominational Church are to have a luncheon in the home of Mrs. James Leighton on Friday at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Frank Orr Johnson will address the club on "India."

* * *

Mrs. Alfred Martin, who has been president of the Oakmont Nursing Association for many years, has been re-elected as have the other officers: Mrs. Harry Oberlin and Mrs. William Thompson, vice presidents; Mrs. David Frawley, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Stanley Ecker, corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Lee Paul, treasurer.

Re-elect Officers

On Friday afternoon the Squirrel Hill Community Club will make its annual award of cash prizes to the two students having the highest scholastic standing in Roosevelt School. Miss Louise Blessing, principal of the school and a member of the club, will be the principal speaker.

To Make Awards

The club will close its season with a garden luncheon at the home of the new president, Mrs. J. B. Connally, Beechwood boulevard, on June 24.

* * *

Preceding each regular meeting next year the Tourists will have a lesson in English under the direction of Mrs. W. O. Schoonover. The members motored to the Pines for their closing meeting yesterday. Six new members were admitted. Mrs. O. L. Clovis, the new president, was in the chair for the first time, and the subject for next year, "The Tourists in Wonderland," was announced by Mrs. H. C. D. Weber.

English Lessons

Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, Congress of Clubs president, and a Tourist; Mrs. R. W. Johnston, Congress past president and a Tourist, and Mrs. D. M. Campbell spoke briefly, and a Colonial sketch was given in costume by Mrs. H. D. Everett and Mrs. W. B. Hartley, with Mrs. S. L. Hines accompanying.

Actors are the most miserable, unhappy, unsure people in the world underneath their exterior of self-confidence, Florence Fisher Parry told the Women's Press Club yesterday. Actors don't live their parts; if they ever once forget their audiences they are impostors, she said.

THE GINGHAM INFLUENCE FINDS FASHION'S FAVOR ON CONTINENT

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh
Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, June 7. — This is the year of the gingham influence in fashions. Anything marked with the tiny stripes, checks, plaids and dots that have come to be associated with ginghams, is practically certain of fashion success.

* * *

GINGHAM prints are much in evidence. New silks show allover patterns that were at one time identified with aprons and children's dresses. Sweaters are knitted into cross-stripes and fine plaids, combining as many as five colors in a single design. Even woolen fabrics are printed in tiny gingham-like designs.

* * *

NOT ONLY prints, but weaves, as well, effect this same naif manner. Textures affect surfaces that look as if they were printed stripes or cross-barred designs. Sometimes the color throughout the weave is uniform.

* * *

THERE IS a criss-cross effect in the bag in the sketch, from Marouf. It is made of straw and trimmed with kid in some contrasting color. The bag is made especially practical via its leather lining and an attached key-ring that is leather-covered.

* * *

THE MAGGY-ROUFF blouse in the sketch carries out a gingham pattern in the weave of its jersey. It combines three colors—light and dark beiges and brown—a combination which makes it adaptable for wear with either brown or beige suits.

With Mrs. Wyn B. Morris as hostess, the Edgewood Cot Club will have its annual bridge luncheon at the Edgewood Country Club on Monday, completing its activities until September.

Closing Season

* * *

Women from 11 counties will attend a Women's Christian Temperance Union regional conference to be held in Ridgeview Park, July 14 and 15, under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. J. Gibson, president of the Allegheny County Union. The conference is one of six which will be held in different parts of the state during the summer.

FROM THE LIPS OF A CHILD
by ALBERT DORNE
MAMA, AUNTIE MAY'S SWEETIE IS DOWNSTAIRS
HUSH, DORIS, LITTLE GIRLS MUSTN'T TALK THAT WAY
SO HE'S BACK, WON'T TAKE 'NO' FOR AN ANSWER, EVIDENTLY
I BELIEVE MAY REALLY LIKES HIM, BUT SHE SAYS SHE CAN'T MARRY A MAN WHO IS CARELESS ABOUT 'B.O.'
NEXT DAY
I SAW YOU AT OUR HOUSE LAST NIGHT, CALLING ON AUNTIE MAY
OH, HELLO DORIS! HOW ABOUT HAVING AN ICE CREAM SODA WITH ME?
YOU'RE NICE. I LIKE YOU, AUNTIE MAY DOES, TOO. SHE SAID SHE'D MARRY YOU IF IT WASN'T FOR 'B.O.'
ARE YOU SURE SHE SAID 'B.O.'?
I NEVER FELT SO CLEAN IN MY LIFE. ME FOR LIFEBUOY—AND NO MORE 'B.O.'
SIX WEEKS LATER
I'M GOING TO HAVE DORIS FOR FLOWER GIRL AT OUR WEDDING
GOOD! SHE DESERVES IT

PLAY SAFE ABOUT "B.O."
(body odor)
NO ONE ever means to let "B.O." (body odor) offend. Here's the way to make sure that we won't. Keep pores clean, purified, deodorized by bathing regularly with Lifebuoy. A delightful soap and a real economy. The big, generous cake serves every toilet need: hands, face, bath, shampoo. Lathers instantly—abundantly—in hot or cold water, hard or soft. This searching, purifying lather keeps pores fresh and free from odor. Removes germs from hands — protects health. Its pleasant, hygienic scent vanishes as you rinse.
Complexions improve
Lifebuoy's bland, creamy, deep-cleansing lather gently washes away pore-clogging impurities — makes complexions glow with healthy radiance. Adopt Lifebuoy.

Life's too short to wash handkerchiefs
End this repulsive job by using KLEENEX disposable tissues

STILL washing handkerchiefs? How out-of-date . . . and how unsanitary!
End this unwholesome task today. Just buy a box of Kleenex. It's packed with handkerchief-size tissues, made of softest rayon-cellulose. You use a tissue, then destroy it. No washing. No self-infection, as from a handkerchief used over and over. No laundry bills.
Handy, you bet! And safe, sanitary, comfortable. You'll never go back to handkerchiefs.
Kleenex is fine for children. Fine for many other purposes, too, besides handkerchiefs. Use it for babies, when giving cod liver oil or feeding.
Use Kleenex to polish spectacles, bathroom fixtures, mirrors, furniture. Ideal to blend powder and rouge, to remove cosmetics thoroughly.
'KERFS are handkerchiefs nice enough for any occasion—made of Kleenex, smartly bordered. Try them for tea napkins, too.
KLEENEX disposable TISSUES
Germ-filled handkerchiefs are a menace to society!

CANCER CLINIC NOW IN OWN BUILDING

Organization Formed Here 9 Years Ago to Fight Disease Grows Rapidly

From a small beginning in a few rooms at 1901 Fifth avenue nine years ago, the Pittsburgh Skin and Cancer Foundation has moved into its own building at 4518 Winthrop street, with complete clinical and research equipment, according to announcement today.

Backed by leaders in philanthropic and church activities, the foundation, under Dr. Lester Hollander as director, has steadily increased in its service and effectiveness, its sponsors say. Recently because of economic conditions, demands on the organization have rapidly increased.

SPACE INCREASED

In its new quarters, the third time enlargement of its facilities has been necessary, the foundation has about 6,000 square feet of space. The equipment includes a modern laboratory, four X-ray machines, double dental unit and instruments for detecting and treating cancer and other serious and chronic skin diseases.

Always conservative in its methods, its officers point out, the foundation "has been unaffected by fads and fancies which have been created in immature reports from time to time, the short life of which has proved most efficiently their worthless nature."

JUDGE REED FOUNDER

The watchword of the foundation is "early recognition and early treatment of cancer."

A. E. Braun is chairman of the board of directors, and Mrs. W. S. Moorhead is chairman of the Women's Dispensary Board Organization, composed of 50 prominent Pittsburgh women.

The late Judge James H. Reed is recognized as the founder of the organization, it having been through his initiative that a board of 20 originally was created, many of whom are still identified with the work.

Cubans Reduce Tariff on Motors

HAVANA—(INS.)—The Cuban government has granted a 33 per cent reduction in duty on engines or motors which may be imported into Cuba, providing they use as fuel "a mixture of gasoline and alcohol," in a proportion to be defined in a measure of law to be enacted soon. Many sugarmill distilleries are preparing to alter their machinery to produce alcohol of sufficiently high test to admit of admixture to gasoline for motor fuel.

Banned from State For Death of Kin

GREENUP, Ky.—(INS.)—Jack Allen, 21, has been expelled from Kentucky forever.

This sentence was passed upon him by Judge Harvey L. Parker, Jr., in Greenup Circuit Court here when he appeared to face trial on a charge of willful murder of his cousin, J. R. Allen, 22. The family did not want to prosecute and the state agreed to the banishment.

Find Lone Portrait Of Mission Founder

TUCSON, Ariz.—(INS.)—The only known picture of Father Eusebio Kino, founder of 28 missions in California, Arizona and Sonora, Mexico, and the first white man to discover that California was not an island as depicted by European geographers, has been found in a historic cathedral here. It was painted by Miguel Cabrera, Mexican artist of the eighteenth century.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(Give a look and hate a teen.

That George Arliss in "The Man Who Played God" appears as a stone-deaf guy who has mastered lip reading. So what? So this: In one scene a visitor enchanted by the Central Park view as seen from the Arliss apartment exclaims: "How beautiful." And Mr. Arliss cries in back of her replies: "I thought so, too, at first. Look; he's starting in already!"

That a restaurant in Palm Springs, Cal., where movie stars dine, serves steaks at $5 per. Chicago ain't mean, them cats.

That the hats nurses wear indicate the name of the hospital at which they receive their training.

That the huge kerchiefs worn about the shoulders of Indian women mean that they are married.

That it costs more to ride in a carriage in Bermuda than in any other country and you can't play backgammon there, either.

That there is an institution for the deaf and dumb in downtown New York where street signs read: "Make No Unnecessary Noises!"

That you cannot purchase certain headache relief tablets in the states of Iowa or Minnesota. Or all laws?

That Babe Ruth drinks a quart of aqua every day.

That Spain sold us the Philippines for twenty millions, you know. But did you know that Spain never owned them?

That the most difficult orchestral accessory to master is not an instrument but a piece of stick—the baton. You can learn to toot a sax in a few months but it takes years to expertly handle the baton.

That a "perfect 36" dress is a perfect 38.

That the superstitious believe that unless the trunks on toy elephants turn up—they will prove "unlucky."

That if you have the Prince of Wales over to your house it is good etiquette to replace his entire room with new stuff.

That if the tinfoil under the top of the bottle reveals a perfect bulge—then the contents have not been cut.

That those lads who get on trains to check up on fares and conductors are known to railroad men as "White Rats."

That Casey Jones' widow never got a cent of royalty from the famous song. His memory, however, still is respected by engineers, who toot their whistles when passing his mound.

That in France an unwritten law is "Never mention the word depression." If you do your listeners walk out on you.

That the romantic phrase "He looked into her eyes" is an impossibility. "Izzatso?" Then try it on her tonight!).

That it cost the U. S. $100,000 to imprison A. Capone.

That the height of wasting time was achieved by a naturalist who discovered there are 4,081 muscles in a caterpillar.

That a person speaking into a microphone in New York at one end of the studio would be heard in San Francisco before a person at the other end of the studio could hear him.

That the entire series of columnist movies got their titles from here: "Blessed Event," "Is My Face Red" and "Okay, America!"

That a Los Angeles judge requires all litigants to shake hands and smile at each other as their cases are called.

That among other ironies consider this square block: The 2d Street side is a row of rag-picking shops. The 3d Street side is a special hangout for the Bowery scum. And completely enclosed, to form a backyard for the square block, is New York's most exclusive and select cemetery—where 1,500 former society members are interred.

That Italy owns the Garibaldi home on Staten Island.

That a gas station located on the sunny side of a street gives you less for your coin than one in a shaded area.

That if you crumple up this column, moisten it and add common soda, it will make a dandy aluminum cleaner.

That Helen Cant, ex-show girl just selected as "Miss America," wears flannel nightgowns even in the summer.

That the best of the week's sallies include: B. Bernie's retort to a panhandler: "Have you change of a write-up?" and Wilson Mizner's: "Hell is paved with sheets of blank white paper."

208 GRADUATES AT BUCKNELL

Hoover Gets Invite To Cleveland Opera

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS.)—President Hoover received a special invitation from the people of Cleveland and Cuyahoga County yesterday to attend their summer season of grand opera in the lake front stadium June 29 to July 6.

Allan Gillmore, special representative of Mayor Ray T. Miller, Douglas S. Campbell, of the Cleveland committee for summer opera, and Rodney C. Sutton, secretary of the committee, presented the bid. Mr. Hoover told them he would like very much to go, but doubted if his plans made it possible.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A new play by William Shakespeare might be the claim of some enterprising press agent concerning "Troilus and Cressida," were that play being presented by some commercial producer instead of the Players Club which now is offering it in New York. It is new in the sense of never having been presented professionally in this country. The cast includes Otis Skinner, Edith Barrett, granddaughter of Lawrence Barrett, Blanche Yurka, Eliot Cabot, George Gaul, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, Jerome Lawler and Eugene Powers.

* * *

A compilation of matters theatrical last season in New York, made by the New York Times, shows that "Counsellor At Law," with 245 performances at the time the figures were jotted down, and still running, led the dramatic productions of the season. For musical shows that honor goes to "The Cat and the Fiddle," 279 performances and still at it. The heaviest flops were "Mr. Papavert" and "Bulls, Bears and Asses," two performances each.

* * *

David Manners, having completed the film "Cronner," will next work in "They Call It Sin," in which Loretta Young will have the featured role. The latest bulletin is that Joan Blondell, instead of Ann Dvorak, will have the featured role in "Central Park" when that film is shot this summer, partly in the scene that furnishes the title. Charles Grapewin, stage comedian, will be in support of George Bancroft in "The Challenger," in which Wynne Gibson will be the featured femme. Minna Gombell will help Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor in "The First Year" film. Charlie Chaplin will arrive back in the U. S. in about a week, Seattle being the town that will welcome him from Japan, last point of a world tour. "10,000 Years in Sing-Sing," by Warden Lawes, will be filmed by Warner Brothers, with George Brent featured.

Movie Doubles to Be Selected Tonight

Entrants for Warner Brothers' movie double contest," which is to be part of the second annual Pittsburgh "on Parade" revue, opening next Friday in the Stanley, must be at the Harris Theater at 7 o'clock tonight. Whether contestants have sent in their photograph or not, they must appear at the Harris tonight. The judges will be the three dramatic critics of Pittsburgh daily newspapers.

The cast of the second "Pittsburgh on Parade" revue will have more than 150 local performers as well as Joe Penner, Sylvia Froos, radio singer, and others from New York. It will be Dick Powell's farewell show of the summer.

Jolson Tries Songs in 'Frisco

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 7.

Al Jolson's recent personal appearance engagement in San Francisco not only netted the comedian a neat sum of money, but promises to set a fashion in trying out songs for talkie musicals.

The comedian now feels confident he has two hit numbers in "There's No Color Line Around the Rainbow," a spiritual and "If I Have a Five-Cent Piece."

"A man may be able to tell you whether a song is fair or not," says Jolson, "but not even experts can accurately predict a hit. But the public can.

"In the past, a lot of film musicals have suffered from pre-bor'e songs. We think the personal appearance tryout will prove a way of avoiding this."

In his new picture, as yet untitled, Jolson will sing six numbers. San Francisco audiences heard several of them. The rest are being completed by the comedian and Irving Caesar.

Al Jolson

Shooting will start on the picture some time this week with Harry D'Arrast directing, and with Madge Evans, Harry Langdon and several other important players in the supporting cast.

Hollywood is laughing at John McCormack's bon mot.

Someone told him Columbia is filming "The Bitter Tea of General Yen."

"Not sexy enough," snapped John. "They should call it 'The Bitter Yen of General Tea'."

When her contract is up in August, Juliette Compton will not re-sign with Paramount. The actress wants to have a try at the free-lance game. Her latest role was "The Other Woman" in Ann Harding's picture, "Westward Passage."

Juliette Compton

In private life, Miss Compton is the wife of James Bartram, of London and more recently of Hollywood.

RATOFF GETS OFFERS

Film producers sat up and took notice when Gregory Ratoff almost walked away with the picture, "Symphony of Six Million." As invariably happens, the character actor promptly was swamped by offers. But other studios found that R-K-O had put him under contract. As next best thing, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is borrowing Ratoff for an important part in the Cosmopolitan production, "Skyscraper Souls." Edgar Selwyn directs this one.

WHAT GOSSIPS SAY

Chee Ak, Hollywood's Eskimo cameraman and actor, leaves today to join the W. S. Van Dyke Company at Point Barrow. I haven't had time to find out whether he is acting or grinding a camera.... Charles Farrell was the only star of first importance to play in the motion picture tennis tournament. Though there are many good players in the film colony, they shy at exhibition matches.... Wallie Berry fought a storm for four hours flying to his camp in the High Sierras. He had to detour by way of Death Valley to push his plane through.... It is amusing, that faux pas of El Brendel. The other day, a photographer came up to take pictures of El's home. After posing in all rooms of the house, the comedian slid back a secret panel and uncovered a wall safe. The photographer took a picture of it. Two hours later, El showed up at the Fox studio in a panic. The publicity department destroyed the negative.... Eddie Cantor will leave soon for San Francisco to make personal appearances.... Buster Keaton is back on the set again after his recent collapse.

Screen Bills Of Future

The Stanley's annual local talent entertainment, "Pittsburgh on Review," presented by a company of more than 100, augmented by Joe Penner and Sylvia Froos, will begin Friday. It will be Dick Powell's last show for the summer. The screen will offer "Young America," featuring Doris Kenyon and Spencer Tracy.

"Sinners in the Sun" will be presented on the Penn screen Friday, the cast including Chester Morris, Carole Lombard and Adrienne Ames. The stage presentation will be "Broadway Revue," in which Harry Rose will be featured.

Elissa Landi, Neil Hamilton and Ralph Bellamy are featured in "The Woman in Room 13," which will be the principal photoplay of the Fulton bill that opens Thursday. It is a romantic film with the element of mystery largely in evidence.

Ann Dvorak will be blonde in a large part of "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain," which opens Friday on the Warner screen. Lee Tracy, reporter of "The Front Page" of the stage, follows the same calling in this film.

"Careless Lady" will be the screen attraction in the Enright, begining tomorrow, and in the Davis Friday. There will be a preview of it following the last show of "Two Seconds" in the Enright tonight. It features Joan Bennett.

Following the final showing of "Hotel Continental" in the Sheridan Square tonight, there will be a preview of "Nice Women," which will begin a three-day engagement in that theater tomorrow. Sidney Fox is in it.

Cinema Bills Soviet Film

By EDWARD W. GOSS

A film made in Soviet Russia and entitled "Alone" is current in the Avenue Cinema.

"Alone" is a poor picture. What little enjoyment can be found in the whole affair is due to the fairly efficient acting of the feature player, Elena Kuzmina.

Elena plays the role of young school teacher assigned to teach in a Siberian village. Now this is very tough on Elena because she loves a lad in Moscow, but she sees. The Soviet Union never allows love to interfere with work, it seems.

As is expected, the young school marm encounters terrible hardships in the bleak land of Siberia. She befriends the poor and bares her firm white teeth at the village's rich man. You know what that means.

There are long stretches in "Alone" which are mainly devoted to scenes of desolate waste land and evidently filmed to create atmosphere. They do give the audience a sketchy idea of how terrible Siberia must be, but at the same time they become tiring.

A travelogue of Manchuria, more entertaining than the feature, also is on the bill.

BITS OF LIFE

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

I HAD AN interesting chat with Jack Osterman the other afternoon. Jack's a changed man these days. Hasn't had a drink in five months and the ride on the water wagon has done him no end of good. The keenest of the Broadway wits, Osterman will undoubtedly regain his former popularity as soon as the theater returns to normalcy.

We got to talking about the depression. That's the most popular form of amusement around town these days.

"Mark," said Jack, "do I look healthy to you?"

"I should say you do, Jack," I returned. "You look like a new man. Your eyes are as clear as they can be. Your mind is sharper than it was in the days when you'd paralyze them every Sunday night at the Winter Garden. "You—"

"That's enough," he interrupted. "I asked you that question in order to tell you a story—and not to have you tell me a column. That health angle is a funny thing. And I've been doing my best to find out what it's all about."

"What are you talking about?" I questioned. "What health angle?"

"Well," he went on, "it's this way. At the opening of one of the hotel roofs the other night, they had me up as a master-of-ceremonies. It was a class joint, and all the birds who had millions before the depression were out in full force.

"Before the night was over, I had to spend a few minutes at practically every table in the place. And I never heard so much crying in all my life.

"It finally got so bad that I fell into the mood myself. I listened as long as I could to one ex-millionaire and finally interrupted him.

"'That's too bad, Arthur,' I said, 'but how about my case? I'm not making the money I once did either.

"'Jack,' he cried, 'don't talk nonsense. You've got the most precious thing in the world—your health. You're young and you're healthy. We older fellows are going to have a tough time, even though we still have a million or two in the bank. We're going to find it hard to start over. But not you.

"'No, sir. When you say you haven't very much, you're fooling yourself. You have health, my boy. Health, which is something that means more than all the money in the world.'"

The comedian paused. He shook his head.

"Would you believe it, Mark," he continued, "I heard that exact same spiel from seven or eight men on that one night. Everywhere I sat, somebody leaned over and told me not to worry bcause I had my health. After a while, the thing began to get me. Never in all my life had I attached quite so much importance to health.

"About 10 of us went over to Reuben's Restaurant for an early morning bite. When we were through, the waiter handed me the check.

"'I haven't any money,' I told him, 'but I have something that is better than cash. Do you mind if I pay you off in health?'

"And what do you think happened, Mark? They threw me out on my ear!"

* * *

ALONG somewhat similar lines is another of Lew Brown's slightly insane notions. This one has to do with two men who sat down one afternoon and began to talk on the topic of which one had the better right to commit suicide.

"No question about it, Jim," said the first man. "Look what's happened to my business. Completely ruined. And as if that wasn't bad enough, my wife elopes with my chauffeur.

"What is there left for me? What kind of a future am I facing? Surely nobody in the world has a better right to end it all."

The other man waved a deprecating hand.

"You're talking nonsense, Frank," he asserted. "Do you think your troubles compare with mine? That's almost a laugh. I failed two months ago.

"You say your wife eloped with your chauffeur. Well, so what? My wife is still with me—so who got the worse break there? More than that, there was a fire in my house the other night and half the place was burned out. And when did my insurance run out? You guessed it. Only 24 hours before.

"And you have the nerve to sit there and tell me that you're a better suicide case that I am?"

The first man arose.

"Jim," he cried, "we've been the best of pals through the years. We were practically raised together and we haven't disagreed on many things. But when I tell you that the depression hit me harder than it did you, I know what I'm talking about.

"I have a better right to kill myself than you have. And if you weren't such a thick-headed fool you'd agree with me in a minute."

The second man arose.

"Who's a thick-headed fool?" he growled. "If you're referring to me, you're making a mighty big mistake. I've got a good mind to slap you right on the nose."

The first man laughed nastily.

"Ho, ho," he howled. "If that isn't the laugh of the season. You'll slap me eh?"

His pal clenched his fists.

"You think so, do you?" he shouted. "Well, how do you like this?"

His fist shot out. So did the other man's. And an hour later, when the police broke in, they found that the two men had killed each other!

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Junior and Roderick Acquire Taste for Adventure

As Junior whispered his discovery to me Roderick spoke to the other side of me.

"What's the fuss?" he demanded with the average small boy's insistence upon being included in any secret.

"Look across at that old fence post—'way a piece the field the one by the big tree," Junior answered, still whispering. "Don't you see something white on it?"

"Heck! Yep," Roderick assented excitedly, but keeping his own voice down to a stage whisper.

"Was it there a minute ago?" Junior asked. "I was looking straight over there and I didn't see anything. Then I was talkin' to Mums and when I turned back there it was. Don't you see, Mums?"

My eyes followed the direction of his pointing finger and with an increased tempo of my pulses I saw that there was something white flapping above the fencepost.

"Mayn't we go down and see what it is, Mums?" Junior coaxed. "Mayn't we? We were the first ones to see it, I'm sure."

"No, we weren't," Roderick said with deep disgust. "Look at those older kids. They always beat us to everything."

BOYS DISAPPOINTED

From the barn Hank and Bill had suddenly emerged and we saw them also pointing toward the white something—I was sure it was a cloth suspended from a stick fastened to the fencepost—at which we were looking. Then they turned and sprinted for the house.

"They're coming in to tell Dad and Uncle Harry," Junior said. And as Roderick echoed, "That's what they are going to do," the two small boys fairly danced up and down in an agony of exasperation.

"Why do they always have the best of the stunts?" Junior demanded. "Just because they're bigger? Can't we go out there, Mums, and get that? We could run terribly fast, if anybody chased us."

The light of high adventure was in their eyes and faces and mother-like I hated so to disappoint them that my refusal was not as drastic and decided as I am afraid it should have been.

"I am so sorry, boys," I said, "but you know that there is danger out beyond those posts and we're trying to keep you safe. However," as the small faces lengthened ludicrously but pathetically, "if you'll promise to be cheerful no matter what the decision is, I'll ask your father to see if he can think out some plan by which you may go out there. But you may not go alone. That's one thing of which I'm very sure."

STAGE WHISPERS

"We don't care, just so we get there," Junior said stoutly, and Roderick echoed the assertion. Then, with patent recollection of an inexorable rule of their training, they chorused emphatically: "And we won't tease. You'll see."

"I'm sure you won't," I said. "Now stay here quietly until I've had a chance to see your father. But, remember, you are not to speak of this before your grandmother or Katie. They wouldn't understand."

I had spoken in a low, mumbled tone, and they answered in the same stage whisper they had used ever since their discovery of the white something upon the distant fencepost.

"We won't say a word," they murmured together. "But you'll come back and tell us one way or the other, won't you, Mums?" Junior added.

"Yes, I'll be back right away," I promised, and went swiftly down the stairs to the living room. I arrived there [illegible] time to meet Hank and Bill rushing in from the barn.

"Where are everybody?" they asked excitedly.

"If you mean Uncle Dicky and Mr. Underwood, crawling on his hands and knees through the window opening from the veranda side, I were having a smoke and a confab out here. What's all your excitement about, please, and why such long faces?"

TELL ABOUT DISCOVERY

Hank snickered appreciatively but Bill was grave.

"We think there's something outside all right, but we ought to know about it," he said.

"All right. Show me," he was. Mr. Underwood, explained the circumstances. He and Dicky were in the most row both regarding the boys' interest.

"There's something white on the fence, way over the other side of the cornfield, which wasn't there five minutes ago," he explained gravely. "Hank and I have been patrolling up and down and we just stepped inside the barn to speak to him a minute and when we came out again there it was."

"It wasn't there when you went in?" Harry asked.

"No, I'm sure it wasn't, am I?"

Then Dicky's voice had a sudden inquisitorial note. "The person who put that thing on the fence must still be very near there. And you both came away and left the place unwatched."

DOG BEING HELD AS 'ALIEN'

DETROIT (INS)—Henry, chipper wire-haired toy terrier, may become a dog without a country.

What happens to Henry is dependent upon the outcome of immigration charges against his master and mistress, Henry Randall, 58, and his wife, Frances, 51.

"We just came over from Canada to do some fishing," explained the Randalls to American immigration authorities when arrested near the Detroit River. Immigration officers say they are hitch-hikers.

The Randalls were denied Henry as well company. He was taken to the dog pound as the first canine immigration prisoner.

Aircraft Leaders To Attend Meet

AKRON, O. (INS)—Leaders in the field of lighter-than-air aeronautics from all parts of the nation will gather here June 21-22 to attend the dedication of the Guggenheim Lighter-Than-Air Research Institute. The institute will be the most complete in the nation.

Man 79, Woman 76, Wed in Poorhouse

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (INS)—Joel Harris, 79, and Mrs. Cynthia Savage, 76, found romance at the end of the long trail over the hill to the poorhouse. Harris and Mrs. Savage, both residents at the county home for the poor, decided to wed and officials consented.

Hobby Development Studied in Europe

NEW YORK (INS)—The development of hobbies and avocational interests through a program of physician education is America's solution of the leisure time problem, according to Dr. Jay B. Nash, professor of education at New York University, who, with a score of students, has just sailed for Europe for a three-months study of recreational and avocational programs practiced successfully there.

Members of the party will meet well known German, Finnish, English, Danish and Austrian authorities in sport and recreation.

Gold Hunts Pushed To Assist Jobless

TUCSON (INS)—Striving to relieve unemployment by sending trained gold prospectors into the mountains, the University of Arizona college of mines has inaugurated a short course in the finding of precious metals. More than 150 have enrolled, including 20 women.

Through extension courses, several hundred men and women already have started prospecting. Dr. G. M. Butler, dean of the college, estimates that there are several thousand more prospectors in the hills and canyons of the Southwest now than there were when the big strikes of the '80s and '90s were made.

Judge Candidate Travels on Bicycle

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (INS)—A bicycle will be the means of conveyance for John Gamble when he tours the country campaigning for election as Cowley County probate judge.

Gamble made an agreement with a friend that he would ride the bicycle or walk from sunup to sundown while campaigning. From sundown to sunup he may ride in an automobile if it is driven by someone else.

MOST TIRES have sled-runner ribs in the tread-center

GOODYEAR puts traction HERE where it belongs

If you know your SILENCE and SAFETY

UNLESS you're willing to pay your good money for a back number when you buy tires—here are two pictures of vital interest to you.

In these pictures you see the two types of treads used on all the tires offered for sale today.

At the left is the smooth center tread, politely called by the tire industry a "rib center."

At the right—the Goodyear All-Weather.

Look at the "rib center" tire and you see gripless sled-runners of rubber in the middle of the tread where the tire contacts the road.

Look at this new Goodyear and you see traction in the tread center—big husky blocks of rubber—keen-edged—deep-slotted at an angle which means grip and stop, no matter which way a car wants to slide.

Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tires give you the type of tread shown at the right—Goodyears provide the complete and sure-footed safety of traction in the center of the tread where it belongs.

But this year Goodyears give even more. They give you safety and silence both in the first noiseless non-skid tread, the new Silent All-Weather.

Prices Record-breakingly Low!

Never in Goodyear experience—never in all tire history—have the prices of Goodyear Tires been as low as they are today. Don't try to guess them by what you last paid for tires. They're 50% lower than they were five years ago—30% lower than in 1929. And your money today buys the handsomest, toughest, longest-wearing Goodyear All-Weather ever built. Think of that, and ask yourself: Why buy any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more!

TUNE IN on the Goodyear Program every Wednesday night over N. B. C. Red Network, WEAF and Associated Stations

What with new cars becoming faster, more powerful every year, it's well to remember that brakes may stop the wheels, but only TIRES can stop the car—and those tires must have traction.

What with engines and bodies built quieter than ever before, it's worth while to watch the tires you buy, and make sure they roll without rumble or hum.

Millions of motorists have discovered the superior safety of the All-Weather Tread. That is one of the big reasons why more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

When you buy tires, get the newest and safest and best. All you need to do is ask yourself the simple question: "Why be satisfied with any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more?"

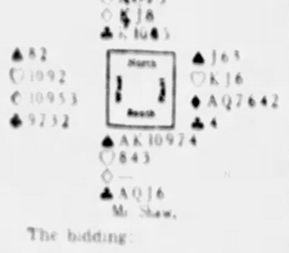
CONTRACT BRIDGE -:- How to Play and How to Win -:- By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Redemption of Overbidding By Good Play Is Thrilling

The contract player has, in many hands, an opportunity for two thrills. The first occurs in the bidding of the hand, which is a prediction of the number of tricks that can be taken in the play. The second, particularly when the hand has been somewhat overbid, is the opportunity for brilliant and accurate play to redeem the errors of overbidding.

My mail today brought me the hand below from Mr. Edmund P. Shaw, of Rutland, Vt., who states that the bidding was "nothing extraordinary—perhaps not correct," but that the end-play pleased him greatly.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Mr. Shaw.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
5 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North's forcing takeout was, to say the least, over-enthusiastic. The principle of the forcing takeout is to force only on hands upon which game is practically assured. In other bidding situations, where partner has opened the bidding, the correct principle is to respond as the makeup of the hand suggests and permit the natural and orderly development of the bidding. North's hand contained, it is true, three honor tricks, plus the value of the queen of partner's bid suit, but the distribution of the hand was barren and its value in play was likely to be confined to the value of the taking honor tricks in the hand. Hence, game at anything other than no-trump was not nearly a certainty, and the forcing takeout was thus not justified. For North to force on this hand and then issue a slam invitation by the bid of five spades was, to say the least, optimistic. Fortunately, Mr. Shaw, through good play, redeemed the overbidding.

West opened a trump, which was not his best lead, and Mr. Shaw drew the adverse trumps, then took four rounds of clubs, the last being won in Dummy. Correctly reasoning that East's double was probably based on the Ace and Queen of diamonds and the King and possibly Knave of hearts, Mr. Shaw now executed a clever end-play by leading the King of diamonds from the Dummy. East played the Ace, and South discarded one of his losing hearts.

East's hand now contained the King, Knave and six of hearts and the Queen and seven of diamonds. Whatever lead he made, South was sure of his contract. As actually played, East led the Queen of diamonds, South ruffed, led a small heart, played the Ace in Dummy, and discarded the losing heart on the established diamond Knave.

Good play had corrected the overbid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South, dealer. Both sides vulnerable. East-West: Part-score 60. The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♡	Double	?

What should East bid, holding:

♠ 6 2 ♡ K 8 ♢ Q 10 9 7 4 3 ♣ A J 8

Answer—Redouble. An attempt to intimidate the opponents and prevent them from bidding the full strength of their hands. A redouble in this situation usually infers to partner that the player holds the balance of honor strength (not necessarily with support for partner's suit) and a heavy penalty is in sight. East's diamond length and distribution preclude this possibility and indicate that the opponents, if unmolested, will push the diamond contract beyond its depth. Hence the attempt to intimidate them. The diamond length, furthermore, provides a safe haven in case partner makes a premature penalty double on the strength of the redouble.

Fay King Advises Foes to Keep Secrets Exchanged During Friendships

WELL, ONE THING FINE ABOUT HER, SHE DOESN'T BETRAY PAST FRIENDSHIP!
WE AREN'T FRIENDS NOW, BUT I STILL RESPECT HER CONFIDENCES
ONLY TROUBLE MAKERS ENCOURAGE DISLOYALITY
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Some girls are quick to form chummy friendships with other girls.

They go about everywhere together. They confide their secrets. They share their boy friends' attentions and entertainments. They swear this friendship shall endure all their lives.

But some misunderstanding breaks this friendship. And they become as bitter toward one another as they had once been trusting and confiding.

Too often when this turn comes they go about betraying all the confidences they had exchanged.

This is a sorry mistake and only diminishes their own worth of character in the estimates of those who will or must listen.

How much wiser and more worthy she will be considered if she still respects confidence with the same loyalty in the present as in the past.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Going Barefoot Is Frequent Cause of Hookworm

For many years little was known concerning hookworm. The disease was common, particularly in the Southern states, but there, as elsewhere where persons go barefoot and in this way contract the disease, its true nature was unsuspected. It was estimated at one time that more than 39 per cent of school children in the South had this disease, and though the disease is not as prevalent as formerly, a recent publication announces that hookworm victims are still to be found in some states.

Dr. Copeland

Hookworm is caused by small worms which enter the body through the skin, reach the circulation and eventually are carried to the intestines. There they burrow into the walls of the intestine and do severe damage to the health of the individual, before they are eliminated.

In 1915 the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission discovered that the disease could be prevented. To accomplish this, they found it necessary to pass sanitation laws and to instruct the public in personal hygiene and the dangers of walking about barefoot.

"Uncinaria Americana" is the scientific name of the worm that causes this disease. It is often referred to as the "germ of laziness," because its victims have no "pep" or strength. They show definite signs of backwardness and have low resistance to disease.

At first they complain of minor stomach disturbances. These symptoms disappear upon the taking of food. There is a yearning for odd articles of diet, such as clay, dirt, resin, chalk and hair, because eating these substances gives relief and comfort.

The hookworn sufferer has a pale complexion, is thin and undernourished, complains of dizziness, palputation and shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion, and soon becomes mentally dull and physically unfit for any kind of work.

Children with this disease have protuberant abdomens and are far below the average size. They are retarded in mental and physical development, shiftless and irresponsible, and eventually become a burden to the community.

Fortunately the treatment of this disease is simple. "Thymol" or "carbon tetrachlorid," is the remedy, and often just a few doses clear the intestines of all the worms and eggs of the hookworm. It is estimated that a single dose will remove 95 to 100 per cent of the worms.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Would You Choose Fun and Freedom or a Family?

Marriage—or a career? Fun, frills and freedom—or a family?

As a matter of fact, Louise is married already, but, being a modern missis with a job, she wonders if she should let a little thing like a husband cramp her style.

Her lady boss assures her she shouldn't.

"Why waste your life on a man whose idea of life is an easy chair and a pile of magazines? Bury yourself in the country and raise a bunch of youngsters? You're crazy! Think of the future you can have if you'll stick with your job! Think of the fun."

So Louise is thinking—and asks our co-operation.

HUBBY STAYS HOME

"Dear Sally—

"I'm coming to you to see if you can play referee for me. Maybe the gang can help, too. I need a few facts.

"I had an unhappy childhood—on a farm—but the unhappiness was a family condition. Well, to get away from that, and find adventure and happiness, I came to the city. For five years I have worked, climbing slowly but surely upward, and I know myself and my ability well enough to know that when things open up, I'll be sitting pretty.

"Three years ago I married. He really is a wonderful man. We were very happy, but now I am drifting. He is very quiet, and is entirely content to stay home all the time and read, while I crave fun and liveliness.

"It is perfectly all right with him if I go out, even if he knows some man will bring me home. He trusts me, and this quality makes me love him.

"However, I do want fun, and I love to be active. So I am afraid—afraid there will be one dance too many, or something, and I'll fall out of love with him. I know I can't go on looking to some one else to take me out, and neither can I stay at home forever, reading.

WANTS HAPPY HOME

"He doesn't care for cards. He doesn't care to talk. He doesn't care to do a thing that I do. He is awfully good to me, but with a sort of brotherly attitude—not like a husband.

"I've tried to talk to him, and find out what his attitude is, but he only says, 'Do what you wish. It is your life.' And so I don't know what to think.

"I can't make him out—unless he thinks he is standing in the way of my success. My boss has talked and talked of all this, and of my work, trying to make me see that a husband and a home are not everything. She never married, but followed a career and has made good.

"I do want my home, but I want it happy, and it seems to me that the only way would be to have children. Yet, as my husband is only working part time now, we couldn't support ourselves on his salary here in town, so I have to work.

"His father has a large ranch, and has been after him to come there. Do you think we should go? There would be everything, fresh air, milk, sunshine, for children; but of course if we go, I will have to give up my work, and there will be no shows, no dances or dinners, no silk undies—just necessities.

MARRIAGE SLIPPING

"Do you think if I went, and had that family, it would fill up the empty space in my heart—the empty space that cries for amusement and accomplishment? Would I be a fool to give up the wonderful opportunity to work that is ahead of me?

"I love my husband, and I want children. We can't have them in town. It wouldn't be fair to them, the way our finances are. I like my work, too. But if I keep on as I am now I can feel my marriage slipping, slowly but surely.

"What shall I do? What do you think? "LOUISE."

What do I think? Plenty! But I'm not going to say it yet. First the gang shall have its chance. So here goes the gong for the free-for-all.

What's your advice to Louise, partners? Suppose you were in her shoes? Which would you choose—fun and frills and freedom, or family? Kids, or careers?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Invite Them

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last summer when we were on our vacation we met two charming young men who helped us to enjoy a pleasant two weeks. They live in another state, but they have been over to see us twice since that time. Our women's auxiliary is arranging a formal spring dance. Would we be making a social "faux pas" if we write them an invitation to attend?

BETTY AND JEAN.

Not at all. These young men have certainly shown the right spirit of friendship and have planned kind hospitality for you, and I think that you are quite socially justified in extending this hospitality to them.

Generous Thought

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine left his gloves at my house. They are a little soiled. Would it be proper to clean them before returning them, or return them in their present condition, as he left them at my house. Some of the girl friends tell me that it isn't correct to return anything to its owner in a soiled condition, and others say they wouldn't clean a pair of gloves for any man.

PUZZLED.

It would be gracious of you, and generous in plan, if you have the gloves cleaned, or if you clean them, before you return them to their owner. Just as you would have a handkerchief laundered before you return it.

TIME TO ENTER FILM CONTEST STILL LEFT

First Movie Lovers' Picture Republished to Give All Chance at $2,500 Prizes

It isn't too late to enter the Sun-Telegraph Movie Lovers' Contest.

In another part of today's Sun-Telegraph readers will find contest pictures Nos. 1 and 2, which, if they did not start yesterday, will put them on an even footing with all others.

Twenty-five hundred dollars is a lot of money to give away under the present economic condition, but it is because of these conditions that the Sun-Telegraph makes this liberal offer. It fully realizes that the winning of liberal cash prizes will be more welcome under the present conditions than ever before.

BEAT DEPRESSION

In fact the Sun-Telegraph has worked out a plan in this contest by which readers of this newspaper can easily beat the depression—where they can earn sums of money in sufficient amounts to make them feel that the "good old days" are really here again.

In all there are 148 cash prizes offered totaling $2,500 with $500 as the possible first prize. Then there are prizes of $250, $175, $125, three at $75 each, seven at $50 each, 10 at $25 each and so on, until the entire $2,500 is distributed according to the rules of the contest.

FASCINATING GAME

Readers will find it an easy fascinating game with fair chances of winning much needed cash rewards. To participate however entrants must be registered.

An enrollment blank is printed on another page in this issue of the Sun-Telegraph. Clip it out or make a copy of it and mail at once. Then go on with the contest—you may get a happy surprise when it is all over.

You will find the first two contest pictures in the same announcement with the enrollment blank in today's Sun-Telegraph.

Good luck to you!

Reed Favors Swedish Rum System, Is Report

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

Senator David A. Reed according to word from Washington is considering the advisability of laying before the Republican national convention a proposal for a twentieth amendment to the Constitution, which would permit the Swedish system of federal liquor control. It will be recalled that some weeks ago the Senator wrote to one of his constituents that he favored something approximating the Swedish system rather than the old or present method of dealing with alcoholic appetites in the United States.

Should the Senator proceed with his idea, it first would be advanced before the caucus of Pennsylvania delegates to the convention. Accepted there, instructions would be issued to Pennsylvania's member of the national resolutions committee to insist upon the inclusion of such a suggestion in the party platform. If the Keystone delegates turned thumbs down, the matter probably would be allowed to drop.

Reed is chairman of the committee of five Pennsylvania delegates selected to receive resolutions from their colleagues, then recommend action. It is to this committee that the resolution of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell for complete repeal of prohibition has been referred.

Indications now are that the Senator will be in Chicago for at least some period of the convention, possibly until the platform is adopted. It is agreed that, even if Congress is not adjourned, a Senator can, by securing a pair with some opposition Senator, go to the convention without shirking his national duty. The tax bill has passed and relief measures either will have passed or be in stages of debate where the absence of a few senators will make no difference.

Delegates Undecided On First Ballot Vote

The six Democratic delegates elected in three Allegheny County congressional districts where the primary preference vote favored Al Smith rather than Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, have not yet determined how they will vote on the first ballot. These six gentlemen all ran as Roosevelt delegates and it was well known that they favored the New York executive.

But at the same time they subscribed to the "delegates' statement" on nominating petitions, declaring they would before the convention support the candidate for President of the United States receiving the highest number of votes in their district, agreeing to "use all honorable means within my power to aid in securing the nomination for such candidate for President."

It is agreed that this statement has no standing in law, but it has been regarded as something of a moral obligation in the past. The delegates admittedly wish to vote for Roosevelt, they advocated his nomination in their campaigns, but he did not receive as many votes as Smith in their districts, the Thirty-second, Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth.

Last night the delegates met with Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence, ardent Roosevelt champion, but it was explained they were merely discussing arrangements for their trip to Chicago.

It is probable these delegates will reach no final decision on their course until they gather in Chicago, June 26, for a caucus, though between now and that date there will be frequent and serious discussion of the subject. It is important, because the Roosevelt following wishes the influence of every vote it can gain on the first ballot in an effort to sway other delegates.

* * *

Republicans in Two Similar Predicaments

In two districts the Republican delegates have something approaching the same predicament. In the Thirtieth and Thirty-fourth the successful candidates agreed to advocate the nomination of the preference of the voters. The name of President Hoover was not on the ballot, and former Senator France, of Maryland, received the votes of such electors who expressed themselves on the presidential nomination.

The candidacy of France, however, was never taken seriously, and many voted for him without knowing who he was, or even what his name meant on the ballot. Strictly interpreted, however, these four stalwart regulars from Pennsylvania should give France a vote, unless it be accepted that a preference is not expressed where there is but a single name on the ballot.

Charles Dorrance, of Scranton, delegate to the Republican convention, and a militant wet, was one of those who prevented consideration of prohibition repeal by Republicans at their caucus May 14. He did so because he was hopeful that by withholding action greater concessions might be secured from the national administration in the creation of a platform. But his views on the subject, and the attitude he will adopt in the showdown at Chicago, are summed up in a letter to Dr. J. Alvin Orr, of the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side. In replying to Dr. Orr's opposition to resubmitting the Eighteenth Amendment, Dorrance wrote:

"I appealed to the citizens of this community (Scranton) for election as national delegate on the platform of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, so there need be no question in their minds nor in yours as to where I will stand in Chicago."

Mr. Dorrance is in a fair way to be received back in the fold of his liberal associates of the 1930 campaign.

BAN ON SUNDAY SHOWS BALKED IN FRANKLIN

Council Majority Delays Ordinance as Pastors Denounce Performances

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 7.—If Franklin's blue law advocates wish to stop Sunday night movies before July 5 they must call on the county detectives or the District Attorney to act.

City Council by a 3 to 2 vote decided to postpone consideration of an ordinance which would impose fines up to $300 and imprisonment in the county jail from 30 to 90 days for each offense.

The vote came after presentation of the "Keep Sunday as it is" proposition by pastors of four of the city's largest churches, and by letter sent to Mayor H. C. Ferringer by the pastor of one other. The pastor of a sixth declared his congregation had gone on record against Sunday "violation of the law."

SEES MORAL HARM

The Rev. Dr. Benjamin Bunn Royer, of the First Presbyterian Church, reporting a congregational vote of 400 in protest, and similar action by individual classes of the Sunday School, viewed the attempt as "undermining the character and moral life of the community."

He called on Manager L. T. Houghton, of the Orpheum Theater, to "respect the law of the state, the traditions of the community, and keep your theater closed on Sunday."

Houghton replied:

"We want fair play, and we don't like the idea of class legislation. Treat all alike."

The Rev. S. S. Clark, Baptist minister, said there were good movies and bad, but that he was opposed to Sunday shows. He added:

"If this ordinance is enforced, I want to see action taken against tobacco stores and filling stations on Sunday."

DELAY FORCED

Mayor H. C. Ferringer and Councilman Lester Harrison wanted to pass the Sunday theater ordinance on first and second reading, but Councilmen Thomas Elliott, Arthur Wilson and King Gilliland won their fight for "further consideration of the whole matter" and a fixed delay of one month.

One hundred forty letters received in one mail were placed on file, along with several petitions, signed by 20 to 350 taxpayers and churchgoers.

Sunday evening picture programs have been arranged by his theater for all Sundays in June, according to announcement by Houghton.

$100,000 SHOP PROPOSED AT PITT

Engineers Would Erect Memorial to Stewart, Instructor for 47 Years

A new Pitt experimental engineering shop at an estimated cost of $100,000, to perpetuate the memory of Reid T. Stewart, veteran professor, who is in his forty-seventh year at the University of Pittsburgh, was proposed today before the Pitt Engineering Alumni Association.

Sketches of the proposed building were submitted to the group meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel, by Paul L. Hay, of the class of 1895. The advantages of such an experimental structure were explained by W. A. Weldin, president of the association.

No plans have been made for funds, it was explained, the project being a part of the general plan for the advancement of the Pitt engineering school as outlined by the association.

In addition to the building, the plan includes the establishment of a chair in experimental engineering by a fund for an instructor.

Trade Recovery Chairman Named

E. N. Hunting has been appointed temporary chairman for the district for the National Committee for Trade Recovery. The committee will seek to bring about the construction of worthwhile public improvements, Hunting said, declaring wharf improvement in Pittsburgh is a sample of the kind of work favored.

RIIS ASSAILED BY FORMER EMPLOYE

Men 'Worked in Circles,' Ex-Landscape Architect Testifies in Audit Quiz

A landscape architect, who worked a month and a half for the county, found so many blunders at North Park that he resigned rather than assume responsibility, he told the county government investigators today.

He related that he was paid $120 a month after being promised $150 by Director of Parks Paul B. Riis that he found valuable machinery lying around the North Park golf course and the men "working in circles" at the time he was engaged a year ago.

Recently the witness, a graduate of the University of Illinois stated he had told C. M. Barr, county commissioner, if Riis was getting more than $2,000 a year he was overpaid. Riis draws $8,000 from the county.

Other statements at today's session of the probe included the following:

County screenings and asphalt were used to resurface a road 200 feet long leading past the home of State Senator H. P. Brandt on the Perry highway to a cemetery. This road is said to be used generally by the public.

Residents with buckets obtained coal from County Warehouse No. 1 near Emsworth and loads of coal were sent to the home of Joseph Lorenzo, former head of the landscape division.

County laborers painted the home of a man named Francier, one of the division bosses; a driveway was built for a Mr. Watterman in Castle Shannon.

THRONGS WATCH WOMAN LEAP

A woman who, in view of a carnival throng at the Exposition Park grounds, leaped from the Manchester Bridge last night, was reported in fair condition in Allegheny General Hospital today.

Women and children screamed when the woman, who said she was Olive Sinclair, 36, of 96 Fountain street, North Side, climbed the railing of the bridge and leaped. She landed in the soft mire at the water's edge and was not injured seriously.

Waist deep in the mud, the woman was pulled out by William Harper and R. Howard, occupants of a houseboat nearby. Police were summoned and they took her to the hospital. In the woman's purse, police said, they found a letter which indicated that she had been despondent over injuries suffered in a fall some time ago.

FATHER AND SON HELD IN THEFTS

A father and son were being held for court today, accused of stripping fittings and furnishings from newly-completed vacant houses in the Mt. Lebanon district.

Justice of the Peace E. B. Bishop, of Mt. Lebanon, at a hearing last night ordered Steven T. Wasecko, 55, of 3 Clara street, Castle Shannon, held on three charges of receiving stolen goods. He posted $500 bond on each charge. Wasecko's son, Urban, 20, was held on seven charges, three of breaking and entering, two of burglary and two of larceny. Bishop ordered him place in jail until the District Attorney's office fixes the amount of his bond.

The son was arrested Sunday night by Motorcycle Patrolman James Potts, who testified he caught the youth after a long chase when he found him looting a vacant house in Hoodridge avenue, Mt. Lebanon. Police said the son implicated his father.

California Avenue Widening Approved

An ordinance providing for the widening of California avenue from Sedgewick street into a 70-foot thoroughfare was passed by City Council late yesterday.

The widening and opening will eliminate two dangerous grades and a bad angle on the roadway.

MINERS URGED TO STAND FIRM

Idle employes of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation heard addresses yesterday by members of the United Mine Workers and the National Miners' Union at an outdoor meeting in a field near Mine No. 8, Coverdale. The men were urged to "show a united front against unfair wage cuts."

1,600 Ask Mifflin Annexation by City

About 1,600 names are attached to a petition filed in Quarter Sessions Court by Mifflin Township citizens, asking annexation to Pittsburgh. Notice of the action was given to Mayor Charles H. Kline, and the next step will be the presentation of a consent ordinance in the City Council.

The township, lying between the city and Homestead, probably will vote on the question in the fall.

Mercer Steel Mill Resumes Activity

FARRELL, Pa., June 7.—After being down for several weeks, the Mercer works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company resumed partial operations yesterday. An order for 300 tons of steel was obtained from a large automobile concern.

Artist Probes Secret Of Da Vinci's Colors

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP)—An attempt to rediscover Leonardo da Vinci's secret of mixing colors will be made by Julian Binford, winner of the $1,500 Edwin L. Ryerson traveling fellowship for 1932, awarded by the Art Institute.

The award, announced yesterday, was for Binford's composition for a mural for the World's Fair Hall of Science, depicting a futuristic laboratory. Binford believes modern chemistry will reveal Da Vinci's secret.

Double-Header To Save Nation Due in Chicago

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Next week we'll all be in Chicago listening to the politicians racing up the aisles and uttering the shrill cries of their species.

The boys will swing from bough to bough in their efforts to save the nation from a fate worse than debts.

The twin conventions are both scheduled for the big auditorium. The Republicans hold their's first. They know that when the Democrats get into a building you can't get them out.

They'd still be in old Madison Square Garden if Tex Rickard hadn't torn it down.

We don't think this convention will be such a muchness for radio entertainment.

There's plenty to talk over, but nothing to shout about.

And most of the subjects will have to be handled in whispers.

FIGHTS WITH AX FOR CHILDREN

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP)—Four undernourished children, clothed in rags and trembling with fear, were rescued today from a fanatical mother, who had held them prisoners at home for six months.

The mother, Mrs. Edna Scherer, 40, fought off police for half an hour with an ax before she could be subdued and taken to Psychopathic Hospital.

Two of the children—Henry, 18 months old, and Charles, 3 years, had not been out of the house for six months and were found in the basement.

Neighbors said Mrs. Scherer feared social welfare workers who called at the house but were consistently repulsed would harm the children. Four of her other children are in orphanages.

OPEN DIVISION OF UNIVERSITY

Formal opening of the Downtown division of Duquesne University, in the Fitzsimons Building, was observed today, after a public inspection.

The Downtown division comprises the schools of Law, Theater, Arts and Dramatic Literature, Business Administration, Department of Commercial Education and the offices of the Alumni Association.

The committee in charge of the opening included Dr. Hugh C. Muldoon, dean of the School of Pharmacy, chairman; Dr. John E. Laughlin, dean of the Law School, and Dr. Albert B. Wright, head of the Department of Business Administration.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

We never realized that elections were so near till we see by the papers that each political party has "some" plan of relieving the unemployed. They have been unemployed for three years, and nobody paid any attention to 'em, but now both parties have discovered that while they are not working, there is nothing in the Constitution to prevent them from voting.

Will Rogers

So Democratic campaign leader "Hooey" and Republican Leader "Baloney" say: "We have to do something about this. Miss Secretary, reach in the bag and get out some of those old campaign promises. We will dust 'em off and use 'em again this year. And remember, no matter what the other side promises, see their promises and raise 'em two more."

Yours, WILL.

Classified Ad Printing Held Public Service

Classified advertising pages of the newspaper serve as the quotation board for the masses, according to C. W. Horn, of New York, supervisor of classified advertising for Hearst Publications, today attending the annual convention of the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers in William Penn Hotel.

Declaring the classified department the greatest public service appearing in the newspapers for the masses, he said:

"Classified chronicles the values of real estate, it reveals the rental trend, it reflects the value of the motorist's automobile through the used car columns. Too, it serves as the bulletin board to connect employer with employe. It is the advertising voice of the masses, carrying a news value of its own. Such gossipy news as who is selling their baby buggy, disposing of their shotgun and other articles of value no longer needed by the owner who might be your next door neighbor.

"When present-day conditions exist, classified becomes even more important. The shrewd shopper finds in its columns the greatest value for his money. The advertiser is offered a great advantage."

Horn discussed sales plans and methods before delegates of larger papers at the morning session. A discussion session of sales staffs was conducted by J. A. Finneran, of New York. J. H. Butler, of Houston, conducted a discussion for smaller paper representatives. Basil L. Smith, Philadelphia, and Loyal Phillips, Nashville, were afternoon speakers.

COURT TESTING ASSESSMENTS

A legal test of the general increase last year of property assessments in the Nineteenth Ward is pending in Common Pleas Court in the first of a score of appeals being heard by Judge George V. Moore. H. L. Dietrich appealed from a valuation of $9,640, a 44 per cent increase on his property at Grandview avenue and Oneida street, used as a filling station, contending that $5,000 would be fair.

The assessment rate is $18.18 a square foot, while other filling stations in the vicinity are assessed about $3 a square foot, he averred. Chief Assessor Thomas J. McMahon explained the basis for the assessments when the hearing started yesterday.

Popular protest was voiced against the advances when they were made.

COLLIE'S BARKS SAVE MASTER

To his collie dog which awakened him by barking, Emil Zavella owes thanks for escaping with his life from the fire which destroyed his house and cottage in Beech Hollow, Versailles Township early today. Zavella however lost $700 which he had borrowed from his self to pay his taxes.

Because of the heat Zavella deserted his six-room house and slept in the adjoining cottage. His family was visiting in McKeesport.

When the collie's barking roused him he rushed out only to see the house in flames. The fire soon reached the cottage. By the time firemen arrived the two structures were skeletons. And the drawer in an upstairs room of the house in which Zavella had left the money was in ashes.

JULY 4 MUSIC FUNDS SOUGHT

An appropriation for $600 to provide music for the city's July 4 celebration was in Council's hands today for action. The money is designed for music at Schenley Park where the All Nations Festival will be held. The Bureau of Recreation headed by W. C. Batchelor, will supervise the day's activities.

IRISH, ENGLISH MEET IN PEACE

DUBLIN, June 7.—(INS)—In an atmosphere of friendliness unlike their recent bitter exchange of notes, President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State Executive Council and British Minister of the Dominions J. H. Thomas conferred today on problems relating to the imperial conference at Ottawa.

The conference, held at De Valera's suggestion, began shortly after Thomas arrived here with Viscount Hailsham, Secretary of War, and W. J. Dulanty, Irish Free State High Commissioner in London. After the conversation Thomas entertained De Valera at luncheon.

De Valera is scheduled to go to London on Friday to continue the negotiations.

DUQUESNE, PITT TO GIVE RULE LAW DEGREE

Similar Honor Planned For Bishop Kelley at Memorial Hall Exercises

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania, will receive the degree of doctor of laws from Duquesne University at the fifty-fourth annual commencement exercises in Memorial Hall tomorrow night.

A similar degree is to be conferred upon Dr. Rule at noon tomorrow at the University of Pittsburgh exercises at Pitt Stadium.

The speaker of the Duquesne commencement, Bishop Francis C. Kelley, of Oklahoma City, will receive the same degree. The degree of doctor of science will be conferred on Brother G. Dician McGurk, dean and professor of comparative embryology, LaSalle College, Philadelphia.

John B. Harvey, university registrar, announced that degrees will be conferred on 203. Due to the extension of the law school to a four-year course, the graduating class from that department will be far below normal.

An academic procession of 350 faculty members and students will march into Memorial Hall tomorrow night.

ESTATE OFFERS PLAYGROUNDS

An offer to purchase city property in congested sections for playground and recreational purposes by the Frederick C. Renziehausen estate has been received by City Council.

The offer stipulates that properties be improved by the city before purchase by the estate. Playground centers, under the plan, would be known as the "Sophia Evert Playgrounds."

Present plans call for the purchase of sites on the North Side, South Side and the Hill district. The proposal was to be discussed in Finance Committee today and probably referred to the Bureau of Recreation for further study.

Guest Dissappears With Suit, Jewelry

Police today were searching for a stranger who, after accepting the hospitality of Sam Derry, 3826 Mary street, South Side, and being his guest for a week, disappeared with Derry's stickpin, a ring and suit of clothing valued at more than $100. The stranger, who told Derry he was in financial difficulties, is believed to have come to Pittsburgh from Aurora, Ill.

RAMBLES IN RADIOLAND -:- Ben Bernie Marks Anniversary

Rapee Begins New WCAE Program

Mr. Rapee

J. Aiken Edens, baritone and 1931 winner of the national radio auditions, is co-starred with Erno Rapee and a concert orchestra in a new series of Atlantic Service Musicales, beginning tonight over an NBC network including WCAE at 9.

The feature heard weekly replaces the broadcasts formerly heard on Wednesday nights over the same network and consists of a varied presentation of classical and semi-classical music. The program marks Rapee's second inaugural broadcast of a new series within a week. Last week he started a musical tour of the world with a classical revel in Madrid.

Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, is presented under the auspices of the Republican party as guest speaker during the cigaret hour on WCAE tonight at 10. Louis Sobol pilots the magic carpet to San Francisco for music by Anson Weeks and back to New York for Russ Columbo's Orchestra.

The O. Maestro, Ben Bernie, celebrates his first anniversary on that mad series with a special program over WJAS tonight from 9 to 9:30. The program originates in Baltimore.

Program Pointers

Some of the most popular song successes of the past 20 years, including Irving Berlin's "I Want to Be in Dixie," are featured by Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit during their broadcast over an NBC network including WCAE tonight at 8. The program also includes "After the Ball," "Good Night Little Girl," "Mary's a Grand Old Name" and "Melody Man."

Miss Sanderson

Miss Sanderson who for 21 years was a member of the vaudeville team of Van and Schenck, is interviewed by Bob Taplinger during the "Meet the Artist" broadcast on WJAS today at 5:15.

Georgie Price gives his impression of Bing Crosby singing on WJAS tonight at 7:45. For good measure, he also gives his idea of how Noel Coward and James Cagney would sing the same tune, "Good Night, Sweetheart."

"Joe Palooka," prize ring comic, being groomed for his championship bout with Max Smellinsaltz, airs his troubles and foibles on a new schedule beginning tonight—on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8:45 p. m.

"The Legend of Taj Mahal," an original radio play by Burke Boyce, head of the NBC continuity department, is revived on KDKA at 9:30. It has to do with an Indian emperor who is imprisoned by his own son for extravagance in building a tomb for his favorite queen.

Russ Smith, former Sunrise Serenader, is featured with the Kit Kat Orchestra during the second of the twice-daily dance marathon broadcasts from Motor Square Garden on WJAS at 10:45.

Eisa Duga, Pittsburgh concert soprano recently heard on KDKA, returns to present another quarter-hour recital tonight at 8:30.

Fan Fare

Petite Sylvia Froos, the CBS songster, spends her time these days between broadcasting and daily voyages up and down Long Island Sound. She'll interrupt this schedule long enough, though, to come to Pittsburgh Friday to appear at the Stanley Theater for a week. In between broadcasts, rehearsals and vaudeville appearances, Ward Wilson, the NBC mimic, is studying eccentric dancing. Blossom Seeley indulges in no hobbies and only one form of athletics—an occasional game of tennis.

Miss Froos

George Bernard Shaw was asked to come to America to be commentator during the Republican and Democratic conventions, but refused.

It was revealed recently that Jack Pearl and Freddie Rich are cousins. Both are heard over the same network and were reared in the same section of New York's East Side, but never appeared together professionally until CBS's recent presentation of "Broadway" on an international exchange program with the British Broadcasting Company.

Billy Jones is just recuperating from a bad case of artificial sunburn. He fell asleep while toasting under a sun-lamp.

The correct title of this picture is:

The correct title of this picture is:

Follow The Clues Every Day and Beat the Depression

Distributed throughout the WANT ADS in today's Sun-Telegraph you will find the titles of several popular motion picture plays. One of these titles is the correct answer for Movie Lovers Contest Pictures No. 1 and No. 2, herewith printed. Which are the correct titles? Find them and write the names below the contest pictures. Do not submit any pictures until the end of the contest.

It Isn't Too Late! Get in This Fascinating Game Today! Win Your Share of $2500.00 in Cash Prizes. You Have a Chance to Win as High as $500.00 in One Cash Prize.

148—Cash Prizes in All—148

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES—READ THE PRIZE LISTS

(1) The Movie Lovers contest will consist of a series of 60 cartoons to appear in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—one each day for 60 consecutive publication days—Starting Monday, June 6th. The contestants are to find the correct title for each picture from a list of motion picture titles that will be printed every day, scattered among the WANT ADS every day throughout the life of this contest. Mere lists of answers will not be accepted as an entry. The answers must be accompanied by the pictures you think said answers represent. Do not submit any pictures or answers until the entire set of 60 has been printed. Entrants are advised against an elaborate arrangement in submitting entries. Remember, the awards will be made for correctness of identity of the pictures, correct spelling of titles in your entry and neatness. Misspelled titles in your entry will be counted as total errors.

(2) The contest is open to everyone living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh, with the exception of employes of the Sun-Telegraph and of WCAE, Incorporated, or any member of their families.

(3) As explained in the list of prizes herewith printed there are three divisions or classes. It is not necessary to subscribe or send in a subscription to the Sun-Telegraph to compete for one of the Class A prizes. The class B prizes are open to entrants who send in one six-month subscription for the daily Sun-Telegraph. Class C is open to entrants who send in two six-month subscriptions to the daily Sun-Telegraph.

(4) There is a total of 148 prizes in the Sun-Telegraph Movie Lovers contest. The maximum amount to be paid out in prizes is $2,500—the smallest amount is $525.00. There will be only one first prize awarded, one second prize, etc. In other words, a contestant submitting the largest and neatest number of correct answers, according to the rules, will receive the first prize regardless of what class he or she is in, but the amount to be paid such prize winner will be determined by the class he or she is in. The same rule applies to each of the 148 prizes. In case of tie, contestant so tied will be paid an equal amount of the prize which they are tied—subject to the above classification rule.

(5) It is not necessary to buy a copy of the Sun-Telegraph in order to compete for these prizes, but it is absolutely necessary that each contestant shall have on file in the office of the Sun-Telegraph an enrollment or registration blank, form of which may be clipped or copied from the Sun-Telegraph. Please pay particular attention to this stipulation. In the meantime, if you prefer, tracings of the contest pictures will be accepted and for this purpose you may have free access to the files of the Sun-Telegraph at the Sun-Telegraph office or at the leading public libraries.

(6) The Contest Editor's decision on all matters pertaining to this contest is absolutely final and legally binding and this is an express condition accepted by the entrant in filing the enrollment or registration blank.

(7) The contest will close at midnight Friday, August 6, 1932. All sets of pictures and lists of answers must be delivered to the office of the Sun-Telegraph by mail or by hand before midnight Friday, August 12th. Entries received later than this date, governed by the postmark or the time of the hand delivery, will not be considered. Address your entry SUN-TELEGRAPH MOVIE LOVERS CONTEST EDITOR, POSTOFFICE BOX 594, PITTSBURGH, PA.

OPEN TO ALL!
Open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls, living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh. You must, however, register to enter. It isn't too late to send in your name on the blank at right or on a copy of this blank. Bear in mind you cannot win unless you try, and these liberal prizes are more than worth trying for in these days of widespread depression. It isn't too late to enter today.

Bear in mind, you must have one of these Registration Blanks, or a copy of it, properly filled in, on file in the office of the Sun-Telegraph. Send in your entry blank today. From time to time you will be mailed helpful hints on the contest.

Yeggs Seize $69, 50 Shares of Stock

Silent confidence in the recovery of the stock market seemed to be expressed today by the robbers who broke into the International Harvester Company office at 810 West North avenue, knocked off the safe lock and took, besides $69, 50 shares of Parmelee stock. The stock recently sold for 25 cents a share. The 50 shares were in the name of F. W. Hammon.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

Jovial Uncle Bob and little Betty come to the microphone again tonight at 6 to read the Sun-Telegraph comic pages during a gay 15-minute broadcast from the studios of WCAE.

Broadcasting the latest news flashes direct from the Sun-Telegraph editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Peggy tips Pittsburgh shoppers on the most outstanding bargains of the day in the city when she gives her "Peggy's Tips" talk tomorrow morning at 9 from WCAE.

Due to the absence from the city of George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, who was heard over the NBC network last Saturday, the weekly "Plays and Players" talk from WCAE tonight at 7 is omitted. However, plans are being made for Mr. Seibel to broadcast again next Saturday from Pittsburgh. Next Sunday he is scheduled to make an address in Cleveland.

QUAKE TOWN DECLINES AID

EUREKA, Cal., June 7.—(AP.)—Officials of this Northern California coast town, center of an earthquake which early yesterday claimed one life and caused damage estimated at more than $5,000, today declined offers of aid.

In reply to an offer from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the Eureka Chamber of Commerce telegraphed:

"Property damage is confined to minor losses such as broken windows, fallen chimneys and cracked plaster. Business is not interrupted."

Mrs. Walter McCutcheon was fatally injured as a chimney crashed through the roof of her home. Her husband suffered a broken leg and their 4-year-old son was slightly injured. Ralph Young, a bakery worker, also was injured.

Earthquake Rocks Town in Portugal

LISBON, June 7.—(AP.)—A severe earthquake shock occurred at Benavent, 60 miles from here, today. No one was reported injured.

Father, Boy Drowned In Swimming Pool

WAXAHATCHIE, Tex., June 7.—(AP.)—Leonard Wynn, 35, farmer, and his son, Charles, 4, drowned in a pool near Waxahatchie, yesterday when the father was seized with cramps while swimming with the boy on his back.

Mrs. Wynn plunged into the water in a vain effort to rescue them. In her haste she fell from an automobile and suffered a fractured arm.

Crack British Train Sets New Speed Mark

LONDON, June 7.—(INS.)—The London-Cheltenham flyer of the Great Western Railway today had broken its own record, claimed to be a world mark, for speed on a start to stop basis.

The crack train, pulling seven coaches weighing 340 tons, covered the 77¼ miles between Swindon and Paddington in 56 minutes and 47 seconds, averaging 81.6 m. p. h. The highest speed reached was 92 m. p. h.

MURRAY AGAIN GUARDS BRIDGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7.—(AP.)—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray had another "army" out today to protect the free Red River bridge on the Oklahoma-Texas border against what he terms "inferior federal courts."

Four National Guardsmen were bivouacked at the bride, between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Tex., under orders from the Governor to keep the span open. He ordered out the troops after Federal Judge John C. Pollock, sitting at Kansas City, Kan., yesterday overruled Oklahoma's motion to dismiss a suit of the Red River Bridge Company to close the free bridge.

Gov. Murray declared the guardsmen would remain at the bridge until he is satisfied the structure, one of the principal crossings into Texas, "is going to be left alone." The bridge was built jointly by the States of Oklahoma and Texas.

The Red River Bridge Company, owner of a parallel toll span, sued for closing or control of the free bridge until it could collect alleged damages of $250,000 through tolls.

TIME CHANGED IN RATE FIGHT

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 7.—Daylight saving time has been adopted in Council in its battle with the A. G. and E. company for lower electric light rates. At a meeting last night Council passed a resolution making daylight saving time observance compulsory in this city beginning next Sunday.

The light company was also notified that all light contracts will be ended 90 days from July 1 and that the company must install incandescent lights in place of all arcs now in use.

The committee appointed to meet with General Supt. Pierce reported him as saying that the company was "not playing Santa Claus to anyone."

Borough Treasurer F. M. Binson reported that the $5 a light cut promised recently had not gone into effect.

You see I had two extra rooms we never used and I got to thinking: Why not rent them?—we can certainly use the money—since Jim's not working. My neighbor had told me how she had rented a room through a Classified Ad in the Sun-Telegraph, so I thought I'd try too. Well, I did, and sure enough I rented both rooms—to two very nice young men who were looking, they said, for nice rooms in a comfortable home like mine. I'm glad I did, for we like the boys very much and that money certainly is a life saver.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

MacFayden Pennant Aid. O'Doul Praises Brown.
Faith in Van Mungo. Hard Job for Paddock.
Senators Seek Hurler. Max Explains Defeat.

NEW HURLER GIVES YANKS FLAG EDGE

NOTHING IS CERTAIN in baseball, and even the best looking trades sometimes fail to pan out according to promise. But it looks as though Joe McCarthy turned his pennant possibilities into a most probability by the deal in which he obtained Danny MacFayden from the Red Sox as an addition to the Yankee pitching staff. Even before the Boston deal, the New York club had looked like the strongest all around outfit and the best flag prospect in the American League, and Mr. McCarthy himself had expressed the conviction that if he could land one more starting pitcher he would be able to go right through to the championship.

Joe McCarthy

MacFayden appears to represent all the additional mound strength needed. His record this year shows how little a record of games won and lost is worth, for though he has lost more decisions than any other flinger in the majors, being charged with 10 defeats against only one victory, the poor mark may be attributed to the weakness of the club he had at his back. In reality, the bespectacled pitcher is one of the best right handers in his league, and if he doesn't supply all that the Yanks needed to make them pennant winners many baseball men besides McCarthy are off in their estimates.

THOUGH VAN MUNGO had to be taken out of his last three games, Manager Max Carey will not admit that the pitcher's failure to go the distance was due to a loss of strength as a result of the system of working him every third day. Max is confident the youngster will do his best pitching if that arrangement is continued.

There is little doubt that Mungo has earned the iron-man honors among the pitchers for the early part of the season. From May 16 to June 5, inclusive, he started seven games in 21 days, or an average of a game every three days, and from May 21 to June 5, inclusive, he started six games in 16 days.

CONVINCED THAT HE'LL never be able to make a successful fight against the Yanks and A's with the smallest pitching staff in either major league—he has only seven flingers in Crowder, Weaver, Burke, Fischer, Brown, Marberry and Ragland—Walter Johnson is again trying to induce some other manager to trade a hurler to the Senators.

MacFayden got away from him because the Red Sox wanted Joe Judge or Joe Kuhel as one of the Washington players in payment. Johnson refused to part with either at the time, but it is said he may now be willing to consider almost any proposal that will give him a capable slabman. The continued drive of the Yankees and the splurge of the A's have caused no little worry around Washington.

THE SECRET OF good hitting, according to Rogers Hornsby, is knowing the strike zone and swinging only at good balls. "And I don't mean what the umpire thinks is the strike zone, or the pitcher or the catcher," he adds, "I mean YOU have got to KNOW the strike zone. As to coaching youngsters in hitting form, like golfers, baseball is different from golf. In golf, you just hit a ball. In baseball, a man is throwing it at you. You're in competition, and it makes a great difference. Form doesn't mean a thing. You can use any form."

Jack Miller

THOUGH HORNSBY'S BOYHOOD idol was Ty Cobb, Rogers says the late Jack Miller, one-time McKeesport player on County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield's club and later a Pirate star, did more than any one else to help him with his batting in his early days as a Cardinal rookie.

The Cub manager denies the old story that Miller Huggins, while directing the St. Louis club, changed him from a choke hitter to a free swinger. He says he was a free swinger when he came up, that Huggins made him shorten up, and that later, when he had taken on more weight, he went back to swinging from the knob.

LEFTY O'DOUL can't understand why Pitcher Bob Brown, of the Braves, who has defeated the Dodgers four times this season, isn't started regularly against all of Boston's opponents. O'Doul declares Brown has the best fast ball he has seen since he came into the National League.

"It's on top of the plate before you think it's there, and it skips like an oyster shell over water," Lefty said in describing Brown's swifter. "I was bearing down against him in the ninth inning the other day. It was our last chance. I tried to hold my bat out and just meet the ball. No good. Popped up to shortstop."

WHILE THE DISCUSSION of Charley Paddock's Olympic chances continues, Braven Dyer recalls that nine sprinters made the United States team in 1928. They were Frank Wykoff, Bob McAllister, Henry Russell, Claude Bracey, Charley Borah, Jackson Scholz, Henry Cummings, James Quinn and Paddock. They were used in 100 or 200 meters or on the 400-meter relay team. Of this group, Wykoff alone is now running, and it is assumed that Wykoff and Paddock are the only ones who will try for the 1932 team. With only Wykoff returning from 1928, eight places are open, and the leading men for these berths are figured to be Bob Kiesel, Hec Dyer, Ralph Metcalfe, Eddie Tolan, Don Bennett, Emmett Toppino, Derby, of Princeton, and Jack Burnett, with consideration due also to George Simpson, if he recovers his form.

TO MAKE THE team therefore Paddock must beat out one of those eight. Kiesel is undecided about competing. Dyer and Derby will concentrate on the 200 meters, and Wykoff, Toppino and Metcalfe will stick to 100 meters. From the standpoint of experience in competition, it looks as if Paddock will stand his best chance in the 200.

It was in this event that Charley made the 1928 team, placing second to Borah in the American trials. Whether he can do it again is a question, particularly if he has to run several heats. Four years is a long time, once a sprinter's legs have begun to creak.

APPARENTLY NOT BELIEVING that there is any chance of his being beaten by Jack Sharkey in their title fight two weeks from tonight, Max Schmeling says he may go to England in September to meet Larry Gains, Canadian Negro heavyweight.

Schmeling points out that such a match would be a natural in England because Gains is the big shot over there at present on account of his recent victory over Primo Carnera. The champion sees promise of a big gate in the fact that Gains and Carnera were able to draw 71,000 persons and $150,000.

Max Schmeling

MAX WAS ASKED for the truth about his first fight with Gains seven years ago in Cologne, of which several versions have been given. "I was only a novice and Gains was not so hot then himself," Schmeling related. "He had been beaten by several fellows. I was sick that night, but my manager and I needed the money and the doctor consented to let me box. In the third round I became so sick, though I hadn't received even one hard punch, that the referee stopped the bout and it went as a technical knockout. But I was not once on the floor, nor was I cut up or hurt by any punch. After the fight, I had a fever of 104 and was in bed for a long time. But Gains had nothing to do with it, and he will admit that himself if he is asked.

ARMOUR, SMITH AND SARAZEN QUALIFY

SANDWICH, England, June 7 (AP)—America's "big three" in the British Open golf championship, Tommy Armour, defending champion, MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen, safely qualified among the leaders today for the 72 holes of medal play, proper, and home-bred British golfers furnished all the fireworks.

Mac Smith and Armour had 36-hole totals of 146, Mac Smith with 73-73 and Armour with 75-71, and Sarazen, one of the leaders yesterday with a 73, took 76 for a 36-hole total of 149.

Alfred Robert Bradbeer, young Somerset professional, held the lead with only a few scores yet to be posted with a fine total of 141, adding a 71 today to his 70 of yesterday.

The main interest, however, was furnished by Eric McRuvie, young Scotch amateur, and Walker Cup player, and Don Curtis, English professional, who scored 69s over Prince's par 74 stretch to break the course record of Jock Hutchison and Arthur Havers by two strokes.

THOMPSON CARDS 158

Two American amateurs among the early finishers also apparently had qualified. Robert Sweeney, American student at Oxford, scored a 76 today and had 75-76—151, and Douglas Grant, American living in London and a member at the Royal St. George's, scored a fine 72 over his home course for a 36-hole total of 152. Ross Thompson of Uniontown, Pa., was on the border line with 80-78—158.

Among the better-known British professionals well up in the field were Arthur Havers, last Briton to win the title, in 1923, with 148; Archie Compston, 149; A. H. Packham, 148; Tom Green, 148; George Duncan, 147, and R. A. Whitcombe, 146.

The 100 low scorers and ties will start all over again tomorrow at Prince's course with an 18-hole round tomorrow, another 18-hole round Thursday and the final 36 holes for the 60 low scorers Friday.

PURSEY IN COMEBACK

A brilliant 70 over the rugged Prince's layout brought Walter Pursey, Seattle pro, back into competition with a total of 151 after a discouraging 81 yesterday, all but wiped him from the competition. His round came within a stroke of equaling the new course record.

Gordon Smith, Palm Beach (Fla.) professional who had an 88 yesterday, did not turn in his card.

Mac Smith showed his ability to get out of trouble over St. George's course where tall uncut grass makes a wilderness of the rough. He was bunkered three times, but still got his par figures. His approach to the seventeenth green from a bunker being outstanding. His putting touch was a bit off, however, as he needed three putts on three greens which is not Mac Smith putting. His longest successful putt was one of 10 yards. His card:

Out 4 5 4 4 5 4 3 5 3 37
In 4 4 4 4 5 3 4 4 3 35 72 149

SARAZEN DISSATISFIED

Sarazen made some costly excursions into the tall rough and found numerous bunkers to send his score 4 over par.

His outward nine was without unusual incident, except for a long putt he holed on the first, but he was in the bunkers on the fifteenth, sixteenth and eighteenth holes coming home. He also took 3 from the edge of the green on the eighteenth and made a wry face as he turned in his card. His card:

Out 4 4 4 4 5 4 3 5 3 36
In 4 4 4 4 5 3 5 4 4 37 73 149

Armour's iron shots were as crisp as ever and he had only two putting lapses at the first and sixteenth greens, where he missed three-footers, but several long putts compensated.

The American drove prodigiously. At the seventh, the ball traveled a full 340 yards from the tee, to the amazement of the spectators. His card:

Out 5 4 5 4 4 4 4 4 5 39
In 4 4 3 5 4 5 4 4 4 37 76 149

Harry Vardon was out of the tournament with 165, as was James Braid with 166, but Abe Mitchell was well up near the lead with 146.

Mountaineer Nine Defeats Alumni, 6-2

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 7.—West Virginia University's varsity baseball team yesterday defeated the Mountaineer Alumni nine, 6 to 2, in the final event of the local collegiate sports season.

Capt. Staub second base starred with three doubles and a single out of four trips to the plate and made two spectacular one-handed catches for putouts to end his career. The score by innings:

Alumni 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 x 4
W. Va. 1 0 0 0 2 0 1 2 x 6 13 2
Batteries: Riley and Hodges; Haden, Shafer, Erb and Haddad, Doyle.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A MOUND OF EARS—The Mimidzuka rises over the spot where the Japanese buried the ears of 10,000 Korean soldiers, the casualties of a single battle in the Japanese-Korean War of 1598. Japan invaded Korea at the instance of the Taiko Hideyoshi, whom the Chinese call Saru Kuan (the Crowned Monkey). The Japanese were prevented from annexing Korea by the interference of a Chinese army. But to "save their face" they carried away with them 10,000 pairs of Korean ears as a symbol of their triumph.

COCHET WINS FIFTH TITLE

AUTEUIL, France, June 7.—(AP)—French worries over defense of the Davis Cup have been lessened to an appreciable degree by the brilliant play of Henri Cochet in winning the French hard-court tennis singles championship.

The French ace climaxed a week of easy singles victories by beating George de Stefani, of Italy, 6-0, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, in the final round yesterday. He won much as he pleased. De Stefani taking the third set only because Cochet obviously let down after he had captured the first two so easily.

It was the fifth time Cochet had won this title and his second championship of the tournament just completed. He and Jacques Brugnon won the men's doubles.

Helen Wills Moody won the women's singles, and with Elizabeth Ryan, the women's doubles as well.

Cochet shared with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody the distinction of having won two titles. He paired with Jacques Brugnon to win the doubles. Mrs. Moody won the singles and paired with Elizabeth Ryan to take the women's doubles. The other title went to England, Fred Perry and Betty Nuthall defeating Mrs. Moody and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., in the final of the mixed play.

Herron Captures Bond Club Event

S. D. Herron, with a low score of 78, led the field in the annual tournament of the Pittsburgh Bond Club at Shannopin yesterday. Glen Guy had a low net score of 65.

The Kiski teachers defeated a Taylor Allderdice faculty team at Kiski yesterday, 12 to 6. Deevers, of Allderdice, had the best medal score, an 88.

Reese to Remain At Second for Cards

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—(AP)—Jimmy Reese, infielder, purchased from St. Paul by the Cardinals, looked so good to Manager Gabby Street in his first game that he'll be kept at second base for the time being.

Reese replaces Frank Frisch at the Keystone sack, the latter being shifted to third to fill the gap left by the ailing Sparky Adams. Frisch, on the sick list himself for some time, is scheduled to assume his new post in the game at Boston this afternoon.

I. C. 4-A MARKS BETTERED

By JESS CARVER

A very careful and ding-dong-edly thorough tabulation of the best times and distances turned in so far by eastern college stars eligible and nominated for the annual I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships at Berkeley, Cal., July 1 and 2, brings to light the astonishing fact that no fewer than seven of the marks set up in the I. C. 4-A meet last year have been bettered or equaled by the boys this spring.

Two tri-state district sprinters, Woody Harris, of Pitt, and Gordy Fraser, of West Virginia, are among the select group who have bettered 1931 times. Fraser, clocked in 9.6 for the century in a dual meet with Pitt, equaled Frankie Wykoff's time of a year ago. Woody Harris, with his sensational 21 flat 220-yard dash effort, bettered by four-tenths of a second the time of Eddie Tolan, of Michigan.

Provided the easterners do not lose their edge and form on the Coast, it may be that the buggy may be put before the horse and contrary to the usual order, eastern stars outshine Pacific coasters right in their own back yard, which will simply scald the feelings of the westerners.

Of course, western athletes too have turned in some dashing performances this year, with the flying Ben Eastman and his habit of cracking world records every time he puts down his dogs.

The leading eastern performers to date with the record of last year's winner follow:

100-yard dash—Fraser, West Virginia, 9.6; Harris, Pittsburgh, 9.7; Jacobs, Colgate, 9.8; Wykoff, 1931, 9.6.

22-yard dash—Harris, Pittsburgh, and Derby, Princeton, 21 seconds; Eddie Tolan, Michigan, 1931, 21.1.

440-yard dash—Carr, Pennsylvania, 48.4; Derby, Princeton, Warner, Yale, and Healey, Penn, 48.8; Vic Williams, southern California, 1931, 47.4.

880-yard run—Hallowell, Harvard, 1.52.8; Runaway, Penn State, 1.54.4; Eastman, 1931, 1.54.4.

Mile run—Mangan, Cornell, 4.17.2; Hallowell, Harvard, 4.12.4 indoors and 4.18.4 outdoors; Dawson, Princeton, 4.15.6 (approximate); Hallowell, 1931, 4.18.

Two-mile run—McCluskey, Fordham, 9.17.6 (indoors); Keenan, Massachusetts Tech, 9.28.6; McCluskey, 1931, 9.28.6.

120-yard high hurdles—Record, Harvard, Wakefield, Colgate, Breitinger, Syracuse, and Bath, Michigan State, 15 seconds. Record, 1931, 14.6.

220-yard low hurdles—Scarlett, Princeton, 23.6. Record, Harvard, Yates, Yale, and Liberty, Michigan State, 23.8; Payne, Southern California, 1931, 23.6.

Shot put—Jones, New York University, 50 feet; Gilhare, Brown, 49 feet 10½ inches; Hall, Southern California, 49 feet 1 inches.

Discus throw—Crowley, Yale, 152 feet 1 inch; Lepis, Manhattan, 145 feet 1 inch; Jones, Stanford, 1931, 159 feet 2½ inches.

Javelin throw—Metcalf, Dartmouth, 202 feet; Warntz, Colgate, 193 feet 10 inches; Kenneth Churchill, California, 1931, 220 feet 11 inches.

Pole vault—Pierce and Thompson, Yale, 12 feet 6 inches; Graner, Southern California, 1931, 14 feet ½ inch.

High jump—Bacon, William and Mary, 6 feet 4 7-16 inch; O'Connor, Columbia, 6 4; O'Donnell, 1931, 6.5.

Broad jump—Townsend, Syracuse, 23.8; McNally, Holy Cross, 23 1-58; Barber, Southern California, 1931, 25.3½.

The Tipoff

Steve Hamas, the former Penn State all-around athlete, who has made a name for himself and trouble for the rest of the boys in the boxing game since leaving school, was in town yesterday, sticking around here after attending commencement exercises at Westminster College, where his kid brother, young Johnny, was graduated.

Two other prominent college sport stars were in town and one of 'em is staying over. Marchy Schwartz and Noral Hoffman, two of Notre Dame's most famous, popped in yesterday morning. Schwartz left last night for Chicago, but Hoffman is remaining over.

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—Weather permitting, the Pirates will begin their first eastern invasion at Baker Bowl here this afternoon, the dangerous Phillies to furnish the opposition. The Pittsburghers are in exclusive possession of third place as they open against the seaboard club and Manager George Gibson states his players, with the exception of Capt. Pie Traynor, are in excellent condition. Pie will continue in action, but it will be several days before his sore throwing arm is O. K.

Larry French is pointed and then some for first clash with the Quakers. The fighting lefthander, accompanied by Steve Swetonic, another of the star Buccaneer sharpshooters, came over from Pittsburgh yesterday, in advance of the main squad of players, which reached the City of Brotherly Love this morning. French was ready for action against the Cubs in Chicago Sunday, but the game was canceled on account of rain. If he is able to hold his edge he is likely to be a tough pitcher for the Quakers to solve.

ELLIOTT PHIL CHOICE

Manager Shotton is expected to counter with Lefthander Jim Elliott, who has shown unusual mastery over the Pirates since he moved from Brooklyn to William Penn's bailiwick. Elliott was tough on the Rovers last season, and he threw them back in Pittsburgh a few weeks ago.

The Pirates will remain in Philadelphia through four days, single games being scheduled on each afternoon. Friday night they expect to move in on Bill Terry and his Giants on the Polo Grounds. Needless to state, the Freebooters will be anxious to note how the New Yorkers perform when away from the McGraw influence.

After staging four fights with the Giants, the Buccos will swing into New England and Boston town. They are slated for five contests in four days with Bill McKechnie's Braves. Two games are down on the books for June 17, which is Bunker Hill Day.

CLOSE WITH DODGERS

Brooklyn will be the last spot visited by the Pirates on their present jaunt. Max Carey's crew and the Pirates will meet in four clashes before the Pittsburghers retrace their steps homeward. They are due to take on the Reds at Forbes Field on June 24 and 25.

Gibby and his players face the impending test with much optimism. They have won 15 out of their last 21 battles, and nearly all of these fights have been staged against very keen competition.

The Quakers figure to make the going rough for the Bucs. In Chuck Klein, Pinky Whitney and Don Hurst they have the best "wrecking crew" in the league. In their last 15 games they have averaged 11 hits and better than seven runs per contest. The Phils' "Big Three" contributed 10 of the team's 21 hits as the Dodgers were swamped, 15-7, yesterday. Klein hit his fourteenth homer of the season, and Hack Wilson got his ninth and tenth circuit swats for Brooklyn.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CHICAGO, June 7.—Thank heaven we will be out of Chicago before the national conventions break loose here this month. It's bad enough living in the same town with Congress without running into a herd of delegates. Because no matter who he's pledged to, a delegate always looks uninstructed.

Nick Altrock

And, when you figure it out, how's this country going to find if business is just around the corner with Congress only running around in circles?

Well, our Washington club starts its first western invasion today and we will have the White Sox for duck soup and the Browns for dessert. Detroit and Cleveland may turn out to be a couple of tough steaks, but our batters are ready with their toothpicks.

LUTHER LEADS DISTRICT OPEN QUALIFIERS

FORMER W. PA. CHAMP SHOOTS FINE 147

By TOM BIRKS

Shooting brilliant and consistent golf over 36 holes of Oakmont's treacherous layout, Ted Luther, former West Penn Open champion and professional at the Valley Heights Country Club yesterday, led seven qualifiers from this district for the National Open tournament to be played at Fresh Meadow, L. I., June 23, 24 and 25. Ted shot a 73-74-147 to pace the field by six strokes.

When the 36-hole grind was completed, the following six had qualified along with Luther: Sam Parks, Jr., Summit Hotel and Golf Club, Uniontown, 73-80-153; Monty Oneretta, Schenley Park, 76-78-154; Joe Ludes, Oakmont Country Club, 76-78-154; Rader Jewett, Wheeling, 76-79-155; Vincent Eldred, Highland, 78-79-157, and Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland Country Club, 81-78-159.

O'HARA WINS PLAYOFF

Tied with O'Hara at 159 were Toots Erath, of Edgewood; Emil Loeffler, Oakmont, and Jack Cawsey, of Tampa, Fla. The playoff became necessary when Ray Babcock, who led the amateur contingent home with an 81-76-157, decided to withdraw.

Erath and Cawsey found the traps on No. 1 hole and neither holed out. Emil and Pete had fives. Emil ran into a peck of trouble on No. 2, pushing his tee shot against the fence bordering the roadway, and he conceded the seventh place to O'Hara when the stocky Irishman dropped his second shot dead to the pin.

Parks and Luther played superb golf in the morning round, both finishing with a 73. Erath, the blond Edgewood boy, kicked in with a great 75 and his effort, too, was marked by steady, straight-line golf.

Only once in the two rounds did Luther falter. This was on the eleventh hole of the afternoon round. His tee shot was straight down the middle, but he pulled the face of his club across the second and landed in the trap to the right of the green. His first explosion did not move the ball, and his second effort, followed by two putts gave him his only 6.

PARKS PLAYS WELL

Parks, former Pitt captain and Highland Country Club star, now the pro at the Summit Hotel and Golf Club at Uniontown, was in a tough spot. Sam, who had the fatherly advice of Daddy Parks, was playing in the threesome directly behind the flying Luther, and the plaudits of the gallery urging the Valley Heights star along served as a tonic for Sam.

Perry Del Vecchio, who usually can be counted upon to come through in a tournament, found everything going wrong. He worked hard in the morning round, but could not break 80.

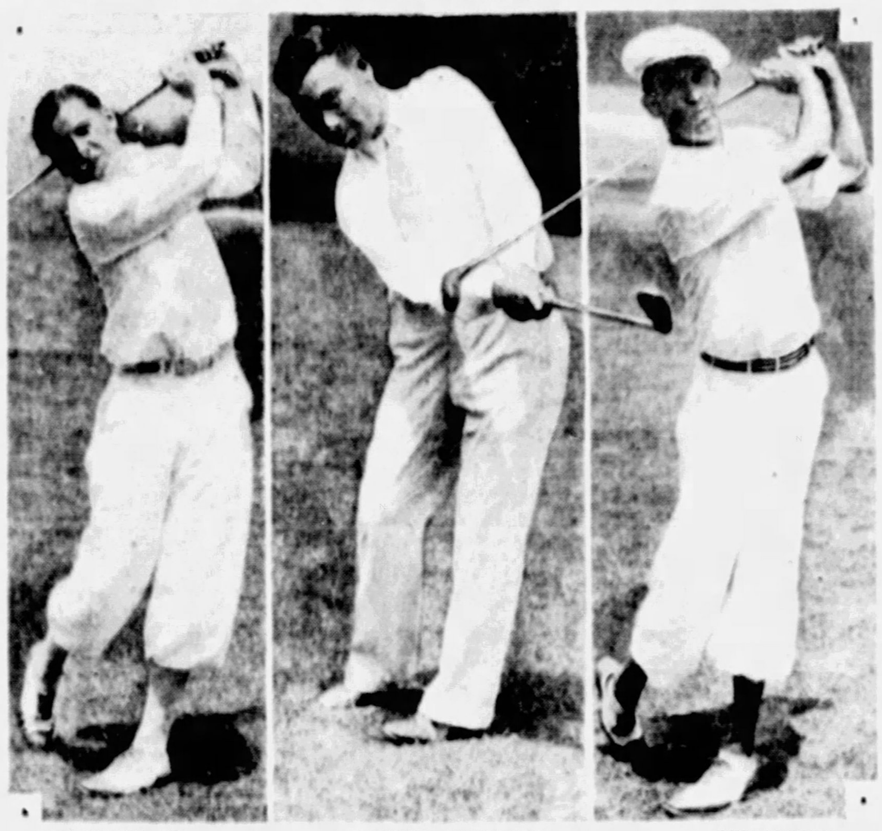
QUALIFIERS FOR OPEN TOURNEY



SAM PARKS, JR. EDMOND ONERETTA TED LUTHER

Three of the qualifiers for the National open tournament in the 36-hole test over the Oakmont Country Club course yesterday. Luther led the field with a fine 147. Parks, a recent amateur, was second at 153 and Oneretta, assistant professional of the Schenley Park public course, tied for third at 154. Other qualifiers were Joe Ludes, Oakmont; Rader Jewett, Wheeling; Vincent Eldred, Highland, and Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland. Ray Babcock, Oakmont amateur, qualified, but withdrew. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

was decided in yesterday's sectional qualifying rounds in 20 districts when 106 pros and 10 simon-pures gained the right to compete at Fresh Meadow.

Previously 34 players had been declared exempt from the qualifying test, these including 31 low scorers in the last open; Tommy Armour, now defending his British Open title, and two foreign stars, Tomekichi Miyamoto, of Japan, and Jose Jurado, of Argentina.

Among those who failed to qualify yesterday were Don Moe, of Portland, Ore., former Walker Cup player; Chick Evans, former open and amateur champion; Cyril Tolley, George Voight, Maurice McCarthy, Gene Homans, Jesse Guilford, Charley Hall, Emmett French and Gus Moreland.

LEHMAN, GOODMAN IN.

Of the 10 amateurs who qualified, Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, and Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, were the most prominent.

Among prominent professionals, Bobby Cruickshank, Long Jim Barnes, Paul Runyan, Clarence Clark, Willie MacFarlane, Jock Hutchison, Joe Kirkwood, Fred Morrison and Abe Espinos, all made the grade.

The lowest 36-hole score of the sectional play was turned in by Francis Schneider at Dallas. He posted a pair of 68s for 136.

The leaders in each of the 20 districts follow:

Dallas: Francis Schneider, Dallas, 68-68—136; Al Espinosa, Jim Fogarty, St. Louis, 69-69—138; Atlanta: Dan Gose, Birmingham, 69-71—140; Philadelphia: George R. Smith, Moorestown, N. J., 73-69—142; Boston: Jack Carter, Quincy, 71-71—142, and Jack Williams, New Haven, 70-72—142; Kansas City: Harold McSpaden, Kansas City, 70-72—142; New York: Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., 71-71—142; Cincinnati: Otto Hackbarth, Cincinnati, 74-68—142; Cleveland: Ernie Share, Akron, 72-71—143; Buffalo: Charles Boyer, Fischer, Exter, 68-75—143; Denver: Ky Laffoon, Denver, 69-75—144; San Francisco: Benny Cohen, Oakland, 72-67—144; Minneapolis: Lester Madison, Phoenix, Ariz., 72-73—145; Pittsburgh: Ted Luther, Pittsburgh, 73-74—147; Los Angeles: Fred Morrison, Pasadena, 70-77—147; Washington: Robert Barnett, Washington, 76-71—147; Gene Larkin, Washington, 77-70—147, and Al Houghton, Washington, 72-75—147; Detroit: Leo Fraser, Saginaw, Mich., 73-73—146; Portland: Otto Eldred Zimmerman, Portland, 72-75—148; Omaha: John Morris Lincoln, Neb., 77-73—150; Chicago: John H. Bird, Milwaukee, 76-75—151, and Bob MacDonald, Chicago, 74-77—151.

LIL STONER RELEASED

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 7.—(AP.)—Outright release of Lil Stoner, veteran pitcher, was announced by the Fort Worth club of the Texas League today.

CREW CAPTAIN RESIGNS POST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 7.—(AP.)—The voluntary resignation of Thomas E. Armstrong as captain of the Harvard varsity crew has been accepted by the committee on the regulation of athletic sports at Harvard, of which the oarsman is a student member.

Armstrong, however, will remain on the squad and will report to Head Coach Charley Whiteside today at Red Top, Conn., where the Harvard crew is training for its objective race with Yale at New London, on June 24.

Earlier yesterday, the administrative board, Harvard disciplinary body, investigated the circumstances which led to Armstrong's arrest, and four hours' detention, on a drunkenness charge on May 28, a few hours after the Harvard varsity was defeated by the Syracuse and Cornell eights.

The board voted to reprimand the oarsman, whose home is in Dallas, Tex., but took no action that would interfere with Armstrong's graduation late this month or affect his athletic standing.

Browns Defeated By Brewers, 2-1

MILWAUKEE, June 7.—(AP.)—The Milwaukee American Association team defeated the St. Louis Browns in an exhibition game here yesterday, 2 to 1. The visitors were held to five hits. The Brewers found Polli, who won 22 games here last year, for nine hits, including a triple and double by Gullic. The score by innings:

St. Louis (A)	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	5	0

Batteries: Polli and Bengough; Kesserich, Stile and Young, Crouch.

DONCHESS TO GRADUATE

Joe Donchess, All-America football star, will be graduated from the University of Pittsburgh medical school tomorrow. Donchess played end on the Panther eleven.

REDS RELEASE HEILMANN

CINCINNATI, June 7.—(AP.)—Failing in his comeback attempt, Harry Heilmann, once among the leading batsmen of big league baseball, has been given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds.

Heilmann contracted arthritis before the opening of the 1931 season and was useless throughout the year. This season he felt confident he could once more take his place in the lineup, and Dan Howley permitted him.

The old power of his bat and of his throwing arm was gone and could not be won back, however. With the approach of the time when the Red squad must be cut to the 25-player limit, it was decided to cut him loose.

Heilmann came to the Reds from the Detroit Tigers in 1929, in a cash deal. He batted .333 in 1930, the season before his illness began.

Babe Swat Star As Yanks Win

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 7.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees defeated the Grand Rapids Ramonas, a semi-pro team, 10 to 0, in an exhibition game yesterday. Babe Ruth hit two doubles and two singles. The score by innings:

									R.	H.	E.

Batteries: Rhodes and Jorgens; Bequin and Sullivan.

HALVERSTADT ADVANCES IN NET PLAY

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 7.—(AP.)—Jim Halverstadt, of Atlanta, entered the third round of the national clay courts tennis tournament today by defeating Dub Boyer, of Dallas, 6-2 and 6-2, in a second-round match.

Ed Buchart, of Louisville, was eliminated, 6-2 and 6-2, in a second-round match by Fred Andrews, of Birmingham.

John Robinson, of Blytheville, Ark., passed through the second round by the default of Tommy Anderson, of Nashville.

In a first-round match, Burtz Boulware, of Tampa, defeated James Kell, of Topeka, Kan., 6-4, 6-1.

I. C. 4-A Entry List Announced

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—The entry list of the fifty-sixth annual track and field championships of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., at Berkeley, Cal., July 1 and 2, shows 375 athletes nominated from 40 Eastern, Mid-Western and Far-Western schools.

New York University heads the list with 35 nominees, closely followed by Southern California with 33. N. Y. U. will not send that many men West, however, the Eastern representation being limited because of expense.

Harvard, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Yale are other Eastern schools with large entry lists.

Michigan and Michigan State are the two Mid-Western schools sending representatives, while the four California universities are the Far West's standard bearers.

German, Argentine Stars Enter Grind

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP.)—Paul de Bruyn, Germany's hope for the Olympic marathon, and Juan Carlos Zabala, Argentine distance star, have sent in their entries for the national A. A. U. 15-mile championship, which will be run Saturday.

The City League first-half title race, somewhat less hectic now that the Book nine has entrenched itself safely in the lead with a 9-to-4 win over the defending champions from Dormont, is resumed this evening with three games on the tab.

The Books are idle but Dormont faces trouble with the Geniers at Stowe. The City League champions received a tough blow at Altoona when Honey White was hurt and he probably will be missing for a couple of weeks. Jimmy Mitchell, however, will be back at the hot corner. Jimmy is just about good enough to play on any man's ball club.

N. S. THOMAS CLASH

Art Rooney will send his North Siders into action at the Salt Works against J. L. Thomas Williams, of Wilkinsburg. George McFarland and Dutch Carpenter are requested to report at the grounds in time for the game.

The Carnegie American Legion is looking for a big turnout this evening when the club opposes the Pittsburgh Crawfords. Young Jim Crandall will pitch for the Legion.

The Homestead Grays found the submarine ball of McDonald too tough last evening and dropped a 2-to-1 verdict to the Washington Pilots in an East-West Negro League contest at Greenlee Field. McDonald turned the Grays back with five scattered hits.

Pitcher Kremer, of the Bellehoover-Allentown Merchants, hurled a no-hit, no-run game as his team defeated Greenfield last evening, 4-0.

In the City League, beside the Dormont-Book game, the Ferris Club and Reliance Life tied at 3-3 and J. L. Thomas walloped Homewood, 19-2.

A FRANK CONFESSION
—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

Soon after this was done, we found that, although the great majority was pleased, some users complained quality was not up to standard.

We learned why. Our equipment had not been equal to the task of producing millions of blades at high speed without a certain variation in quality that affected a small portion of our output. As a result some blades that left the factory were not as good as you had a right to expect. Immediately we directed our principal effort toward the achievement of uniformity. Everything within our power was done to end variation. More than this—impossible as it seemed of accomplishment at the time—we set out to develop or find a better production process, having as a major requirement the elimination of varying quality.

We discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality.

We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment.

Now we announce today's Gillette blades, made by the new management. The usual superlatives have no place in this sincere statement of ours, so we will let the quality of the blades speak for itself. The green Gillette package remains unchanged, but the blades are new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

You can try today's Gillette blades without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are superior, return the package and your dealer will refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of these Gillette blades, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package. Cellophane wrapped.

The thrill that made the opening show of the season at Motors Bowl a success were missing last night as only one of the four scheduled 10-round battles produced real action and it was marred when the officials kicked around the decision with the result that the crowd set up such a noisy demonstration that the main bout involving a world champion will in all likelihood not be announced.

Tony Herrera of Chicago, a lonetime favorite here, was declared the winner in the semi-final contest although Eddie Wolfe of Memphis clearly had the edge. The judges, Gus and Jack Simos voting for Wolfe and Freddie Lang calling it a draw, Red Robinson decided in favor of Herrera.

WOLFE GETS OVATION

Herrera won only three of the 10 rounds, the fifth, eighth and ninth with the first two even. Tony was dropped for no count and had his left eye cut in the third round. Beginning with the fifth round he began to put some steam behind his blows and for a time it appeared as if he had Wolfe on the road to defeat as he slowed him down with a body attack but Wolfe then calmly turned over to countering against Herrera's forcing tactics and outhit him for the honors.

Wolfe, who was making his local debut, was given an ovation as he left the ring. He scaled 140 pounds again 13½ for Herrera.

MARINO OUTCLASSED

The main bout was no contest, with Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion outclassing Tony Marino of Duquesne, a recent graduate from the preliminary ranks to such an extent that he was able to toy with him throughout and wound up the last round clowning. Wolgast was too fast and too ringwise for Tony, who, while a great prospect, clearly had been rushed along too fast and was not yet ready for such classy competition. Tony could not locate the Midget and missed many more blows than he landed. He kept trying very seriously, but he never had a chance and didn't come close to winning a round as he absorbed a boxing lesson that should stay with him a long time. Both scaled 116 pounds.

Jack Kilbourne of Chicago 157½, who knocked the Bowl fans out of their seats by the decisive manner in which he stowed away Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., in a punch two weeks ago, almost put them to sleep as he clinched through 10 rounds with Angel Cliville, Porto Rico Negro, in a bout that followed the windup.

KILBOURNE LACED

Patient to a fault in waiting for opportunities to uncork his right, Kilbourne fought for all the world like old Michael McTigue at the latter's worst, and took a bad shellacking. He also lost every round, was floored for nine in the sixth and no count in the ninth and did a lot of tincanning to last the distance.

It wasn't Cliville's fault that it wasn't a good fight. He did all of the fighting that was done and was hit cleanly only a few times. He scaled 162 pounds.

Ray Collins, of Erie, 142 pounds, slugged it out with Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, 139½, as long as he could, which was until 2 minutes 13 seconds of the fourth round had elapsed, when he was dropped in a heap for a knockout in his own corner under a shower of punches after having been

Between Rounds

Manie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, will be meeting Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, for the third time when they clash in the main bout at Comiskey Park tomorrow night. Both of Rosenbloom's battles were fought in 1930, with Rosenbloom, the winner on a foul in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden, New York, the first time, and via the decision in 10 rounds in Chicago later.

Paolo Walker, who meets Dan Lowe in a ten-round welterweight in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night, has fought most of the leading 147 pounders in the East and should make matters plenty interesting for the several conquerors of Jimmy Belmont, who has been coming along in fine fashion under the management of Gus Cann.

Pete Trucano takes Frankie Grande in the semi-final to the Eddie Shea battle at Zorella match at Aspinwall Friday night. Others on the Mario George Parisi, Pete Johnson opposes Eddie Andrews and Leo Sheppard engages Don Mallard in a six-round preliminary.

Pat Abate, Penn Hills welterweight, who is undefeated in six starts, is matched to box Frankie Portland, lightweight, who has been on the Bess of Hardin attraction for months and Wednesday.

Isadore Castanaga, the Spanish heavyweight who meets Hans Birkie of Cuba tonight in the main bout of the Queensboro Club in New York, tonight is highly touted. It is claimed he has scored 20 knockouts in 34 battles in four years. He has been in the United States only a few weeks. Birkie had Steve Hamas on the floor in their bout.

An amateur boxing show to be held within the next six weeks, is being planned as a benefit for the Jewish Home for Babies.

Ralph Cerra, of Carnegie, is back from New York, where he has been engaged in a six weeks' stay. He boxed at Madison Square Garden, Ridgewood Grove, Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, and Yankee Stadium, New York. Cerra is matched to box Mario Bisaccia at Duquesne Thursday night in a ten-round bout.

The Junior Belmont Bills Holt bout will go on after the main bout at Crescent Field tomorrow night.

The Marine of McKeesport has taken a lay-off on account of conflicting dates with the Navy, but will be back in the ring after two weeks of rest. He has been out of the game for about two months.

Frankie Brunick, of Erie, and Bobby Wallace, of Cleveland, meet in the main bout at Erie Thursday night. Frankie won their first battle at Erie but was decisively outpointed in a return bout in Cleveland. They are fighting at 135 pounds. Lew Major and Mike Mathison, of Erie, box the six-round semi-final. Major, a newcomer to the game, has been showing well in his first two starts. Mathison is a veteran of 50 battles and has been in the ring with the best.

Frankie Wolfe, Erie lightweight, who has been on the Bess of Hardin attraction for months, is matched to box Frankie Portland, lightweight, who has been on the Bess of Hardin attraction for months, at Aspinwall Friday night in a six-round preliminary.

STOCK MARKET LIST RETAINS FEEBLE TONE

Special Selling Checks Impending Advance as B. M. T. Proves Soft Spot

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—The stock market remained rather feeble today, although it offered somewhat better resistance than it did yesterday.

But the bond market continued to maintain a good tone, the dollar was again firm in the foreign exchange markets, and pressure was mostly lifted from the wheat market so Wall street did not find the day particularly depressing. The market was firm for a few minutes in response to enactment of the tax measure but special liquidation cropped out here and there later.

Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit was again a soft spot off more than 3 points to a new low. Peoples Gas rose nearly 2 then reacted to show a similar loss. American Telephone lost a couple of points as did Auburn. The list showed signs of rallying before midday but special selling appeared in General Foods off 2 and again imported a heavy tone. Drug lost a quick and miscellaneous issues off a point or so included American Can, Union Carbide, Public Service of Ne Jersey, United Gas Improvement, North American, Corn Products Barden, National Biscuit, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Tobacco B, Raynolds B and Woolworth. National Distillers Products and Corn Products Refining rose about 1½ points, presumably reflecting developments in the prohibition controversy, but then reacted. Owens Glass gained 2 in a thin market.

News of John D. Rockefeller's abandonment of the prohibition cause was not greeted with the bullish demonstration that has attended various "wet" developments in past. When professional traders were more active, it became a fashion to couple market upturns with rumors of impending anti-prohibition developments. Conservative security analysts, however, have been cautious in attempting to forecast the effect of changes in the prohibition laws on individual securities. An important factor in Wall street "wet" proclivities has been the belief that a change in the laws might solve the important problem of providing government revenues, but now that the federal tax measure has been enacted, that aspect of the matter has become less interesting for the moment.

Such selling as came into the market in selected issues again seemed to be of the character of that which preceded the recent recovery, the selling out of long holdings to raise cash. Special developments, however, affected isolated issues. Auburn reacted on rumors that it would shortly announce a price reduction. R-M-T was presumably affected again by discussions of th dividend, and the necessity of meeting the $13,500,000 note maturity August 1. The dividend is being more than earned, t is understood, but some reduction may be made in order to reduce indebtedness.

The consolidate condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities attracted some attention, particularly in showing an increase of $46,000,000 in "all other" or commercial loans. Rather than reflecting success in credit expansion, however, it was suggested that much of this resulted from the sale of acceptances in this market by foreign central banks, in connection with their recent repatriation of balances. There was marked letup, however, in the closing out of loans against security collateral, that item declining only $3,000,000.

Humble Oil Meeting July Bond Maturity

HOUSTON, June 7.—Humble Oil and Refining Company will pay off on July 15, this year, the 5½ per cent debenture bonds maturing on that date. At the end of 1931 there was a total of this issue of $22,761,000 outstanding. In addition, there are 5 per cent debenture bonds due in 1937 of which $20,183,000 was outstanding at the close of last year and which will remain outstanding.

Daily Oil Output Gains 1,580 Barrels

TULSA, June 7.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended June 4 totaled 2,169,905 barrels, an increase of 1,580 barrels over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Nevada Suspends Ely Operations

NEW YORK, June 7.—Following the example of other large producers, the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company has shut down its mine, mill and smelter in the Ely district of Nevada, the suspension to run for six weeks.

BANK LEADERS COULD HELP TURN TIDE

Real Banking Leadership Would Bring Agreement To Expand Investments

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, June 7.—Politically minded persons are inclined to exaggerate the real power of bankers. They regard them as first causes of economic movements.

As a matter of fact they are really cogs in the machine. Sometimes they exaggerate boom swings by being too optimistic during booms and too pessimistic during depressions; at all times the cost. But at best they collect commissions from productive work. Finance after all is only the bookkeeping side of business.

Mr. Rukeyser

Illustrative of this fact an incident occurred the other day on the main floor of one of the principal banks in Wall street. A senior officer of the bank was berated by an important customer for the failure of the banks to translate the excess reserves resulting from the bold open market operations of the Federal Reserve banks into loans and investments. He said challengingly to the banker:

"Why don't you loosen up a little."

To which the banker replied:

"There is nothing that we'd like better than to lend $1,000,000 to your company."

The businessman rejoined:

"What use could we make of a $1,000,000 loan, with trade so stagnant. You find me some customers and then I'll take the loan."

This all gets back to the central need of augmenting purchasing power.

No individual bank feels warranted in bucking the trend, but the banks collectively could help to reverse the trend. Real leadership would result in a round robin agreement among the banks to emulate the principle of the German standstill agreement and not reduce aggregate loans and investments in the next six months. It would be preferable to agree to expand them by a specific amount, such as 5 per cent.

Expanding investments would entail repurchasing bonds by banks from their customers to whom they sold them in recent months of frantic liquidation. This would mean that the customer would make a profit out of the trade with the bank—and that would be news.

In connection with the appointment of committees of businessmen and bankers in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia to devise ways to make sound use of credit and capital the simple statement by Paul H. Nystrom, Columbia authority on the economics of distribution, should be the guiding motto:

"Business will get better when businessmen go out and make it better."

The country needs some shirt sleeve selling, some confidence behind advertising and a little more old-fashioned boosting.

'Frisco Refinancing Program Worked Out

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Plans of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Company for a financial reorganization as suggested by the Interstate Commerce Commission were said today to have been practically completed.

A formula for reducing the road's interest charges must be submitted to the I. C. C. by July 1. It was on this understanding that the federal body approved a loan April 29 of $1,800,000 to the carrier from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Motor Production Gained Last Week

NEW YORK, June 7.—Reflecting a further advance in Ford output, automobile production increased in the week ended June 4. Actual production, according to Cram's automotive reports, totaled 50,443 units, which compares with 47,127 units in the previous week and 65,786 units in the corresponding week of last year. Ford production is reported at 21,000 cars weekly, while Chevrolet remains at about 13,000 cars weekly.

Atchison Loadings Decline for Week

CHICAGO, June 7.—The Atchison Railway during the week ended June 4 handled 18,907 revenue freight cars as against 21,826 cars in the week preceding and 26,829 cars in the like week a year ago.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Norfolk and Western Railway in May loaded 51,671 revenue freight cars against 76,062 cars in the same month last year.

Land Bank Double Assessment Sought

ST. LOUIS, June 7.—(INS.)—Suit to assess stockholders of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank under the double-liability provision of the bank's charter, was filed in United States District Court here yesterday by C. N. Partridge, of Kansas City, holder of a $4,000 bond of the bank.

The bank went into receivership last week after failing to meet interest payments.

Move to Foreclose On Roxy's Theater

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Foreclosure proceedings against the Roxy Theater Corporation were instituted yesterday by the Continental Bank and Trust Company, as successor trustee, under a $4,250,000 mortgage made by the corporation in return for a loan on October 25, 1929.

The orginal trustee was the late Herbert S. Martin.

Japanese Cancel Gerli Silk Deal

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP.)—Silk futures on the National Raw Silk Exchange advanced from 6 to 9 cents a pound yesterday on the news from Tokio of the Japanese cabinet's cancellation of the sale of 108,000 bales of raw to Gerli & Co., of New York. The rise was the sharpest recorded this year.

WALL STREET WEARS

That National Steel will maintain its $1 annual dividend rate at the meeting this week.

That the new German government may issue short term notes to commercial banks.

That National Cash Register may show a loss of $1,000,000 for the first half-year.

COTTON FIRMS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, June 7.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 7 to 9 points on trade buying and covering. July sold at 5.20.

The comparatively light demand was readily supplied by further near-month liquidation combined with some Southern and local selling, however, and after advancing to 5.58 at the start, December reacted to 5.53, with active months generally showing net gains of 3 or 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

Final action on the tax bill in Washington, removing one of the uncertainties of recent weeks, was considered a favorable feature, but trading continued quiet, and there was probably some local selling on reports of an easier tone following an irregular opening in the stock market.

The reaction from the opening advances carried the market back to about yesterday's closing quotations. Offerings were not heavy and after declining to 5.12 for July and 5.50 for December, prices steadied on trade buying and covering. At midday December was selling at 5.56, with active months showing net advances of 3 to 7 points.

LIVERPOOL, June 7.—Cotton, 3,000 bales, American nil. Spot, quiet; prices 8 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 4.67; good middling, 4.27; strict middling, 4.17; middling, 4.12; strict low middling, 4.02; low middling, 3.92; strict good ordinary, 3.72; good ordinary, 3.42. CORPORATE EARNINGS

Utilities Power and Light Corporation and subsidiaries and controlled companies for the year 1931 shows consolidated net income of $4,643,830 after interest, subsidiaries preferred dividends, minority interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., against $7,256,640 in 1930. This is equal after preferred dividend requirements to $2.14 a share on $1,642,971 shares of class A stock, including scrip outstanding at the end of the year, against $4.05 on 1,555,370 shares of class A stock, including scrip outstanding at the end of 1930. The balance after deducting $1,162,744 class A dividends was $345,381 for the year 1931, equal to 12 cents a share on the common stock outstanding at the end of the year against 93 cents a share on combined class B and common shares in the preceding year.

Studebaker Motor Car Company of America reports for the year ended October 31, 1931, net loss of only $266,276 after depreciation, losses from branch operations and other deductions, compared to net loss of $1,161,666 in the preceding year.

Harvel Leather Company reports for the March quarter net loss of only $10,444 after taxes and charges, compared with net loss of $54,647 in the first quarter of 1931.

BASIC POINTS

TO BE CONSIDERED IN ESTABLISHING

A LIFE INSURANCE TRUST

2. The Amount of Income Desired

IT is important that the man engaged in accumulating an estate to provide for the care of his family or other dependents after his death should give careful attention to the annual amount of income which will be required to meet the needs of those dependents.

Therefore, in determining the sufficiency or insufficiency of your present estate—which may consist of cash, securities, real estate, and other property as supplemented by Life Insurance—you should measure its size in terms of its normal income producing power, and not in terms of the principle sum.

A comparison of the amount of income your present estate is capable of yielding, with the amount of income you have decided upon as necessary to provide for the care of your dependents, will indicate immediately whether or not it is advisable for you to increase your present estate by the purchase of additional Life Insurance.

The officers of the Trust Department of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh will be glad to discuss with you, your attorney, and your insurance counselor the drawing up of a Life Insurance Trust Agreement suitable to your needs. If you would like to have complete information on Life Insurance Trusts, we suggest that you send for our new booklet entitled, "The Life Insurance Trust Plan of Conserving and Distributing Your Life Insurance Estate."

Jeanette and Leland United When Facts of Tragedy Are Revealed

CHAPTER VI

"But Jeanette, it is all so easy to explain it—"

Jeanette tried to turn away. He reached out to take her arm and stop her.

"Don't touch me," she cried sharply.

"But, Jeanette—"

She turned and slipped away between a couple of women who had stopped to see what was going on.

Others were looking. Leland couldn't make a scene. He went back to Maxin's office thinking that Jeanette would come up later.

Jeanette did not appear, but sent up some of her work by a messenger boy. She had seen Leland turn back into the office building and suspected that he would be in the Maxin office.

She could not force herself to meet Leland again. It seemed to her that no woman could have been more insulted than she for this man had turned away from her almost at the altar and had gone back to another.

That was the way she looked at it. Nothing could condone this, she believed. She was too proud to discuss it. She had never told her sister about finding Leland and the woman and child in the woods.

Mr. Maxin had hesitated about discussing Leland's return after Jeanette had said, "It cannot be mentioned, he is utterly impossible."

Poor, romantic old bachelor Maxin felt badly about this situation. Leland had told of his intended long journey to various countries and Maxin invited him out to his country place for dinner. Leland had been there a number of times.

JEANETTE VISITS

Out at the handsome country place they discussed plans for more books. Leland was grateful for Maxin's diplomacy, for not once did he mention Leland's sister nor the tragedy. Leland always thought of it as a tragedy, not a murder, since Lola had explained about Harlow's attack on her.

Leland had hired a car to drive out to the Maxin place and, standing at the library window, he asked Maxin if he had parked it too far down the driveway.

"Oh no," Maxin said.

"Then no other guests are coming?" Leland felt relieved and came back to his chair.

"By jove, I hear a car now," Maxin said, excusing himself.

He went out into the hall and a moment later came beaming into the room with Jeanette by his side!

Poor, good-hearted, blundering old Maxin. Leland knew then, was trying to help him.

From Jeanette's expression of horror and anger Leland realized that she had no idea he would be there.

Maxin was quick to see that something was terribly wrong. Jeanette had turned as if to run away and Leland had arisen in considerable confusion.

ASKS ABOUT WIFE

Maxin caught Jeanette's arm.

"Just a moment, folks, please," he said. "Just a word from a wise old man. I love brightness and happiness, so do you. I know love when I see it. I know that you two love each other. What are bygones? Let them go—they have nothing to do with my dear friend Forbes except to prove him to be a tender and a chivalrous man."

Jeanette faltered and Leland bowed but remained silent.

"Please, at least let us go through the evening and the dinner normally."

Jeanette bowed then and walked over to Leland.

"Good evening, Mr. Forbes," she said, without offering her hand.

Good evening, Jeanette."

Her eyes flashed angrily at him for using that name.

How is your wife, Mr. Forbes?" she asked coldly.

Bless my soul!" Maxin cried. "Forbes isn't married."

I know it," Jeanette said, icily. I was asking about his common-law wife."

She said it quite sweetly, but her eyes were hard and cold as she stared at Leland.

Leland wanted to shout, "You little fool, she is my sister!" He dared not do this, on Lola's account. Her safety was still uppermost in his mind.

Maxin was also staring at him as if expecting a denial. It seemed to Leland that words would be futile and silence worse. There was but one thing to do, and he did it—he rushed to the hall, grabbed his hat and out to his hired car. The lights were on. He jumped in, started the motor and backed suddenly down the drive.

Behind him arose a sudden shriek of terror.

Leland almost collapsed. He feared Jeanette had run out after him in the dark and that he had backed into her. Stopping the car, he leaped out and around to the rear.

A woman lay in the drive, but it was not Jeanette. He did not recognize her. Maxin was running out then. Leland picked up the slight young woman and started for the house.

"I backed into her, afraid she's badly hurt," he said as he went in and put her on the couch. Maxin and Jeanette went to her at once.

"Why, it's Lily," Maxin exclaimed.

"Lily?" Leland repeated, dumbly.

"One of my maids—"

The girl stirred and sat up.

"Fortunately for you, Forbes, she's evidently not badly hurt."

Leland realized now that old Maxin was furious at him.

"Mr. Forbes has a great facility for hurting girls," Jeanette said, staring at him.

IMPORTANT NEWS

"Gosh!" exclaimed the girl, staring at him. "Say, you scared me pink. What Mr. Forbes are you anyway? Say, are you Mrs. Harlow's brother? You look like her."

"Never mind!" Leland cried. "You are him. I remember now—"

Leland put his hand over the girl's mouth.

"Will you kindly leave us alone for a few minutes?" he implored.

Maxin and Jeanette, after asking the girl if she were hurt and being assured that she had only fainted from fright when the car backed down on her, left the room.

"Why did you ask me if I were Mrs. Harlow's brother?" Leland demanded.

"Because—well, you see Harlow shot himself and—"

"What? What's that? Harlow shot himself?" Are you sure?"

"Sure I'm sure, Mr. Forbes. And why poor Mrs. Harlow ran away after that dirty low-down husband of hers was finally dead and him trying to kill her—well, it gets me."

Leland sat down on the couch beside the girl.

"Are you sure?" he asked, trying to keep his voice from trembling. "Very sure that Vance Harlow shot himself?"

"Of course I'm sure, and I've got clippings and my name is on 'em and my picture, wait, I'll get 'em."

The girl recovered from her fright and, faint, went out. Maxin came in.

REPORTED AS SUICIDE

"The girl has gone for some important clippings, may we use a small room?" Leland asked excitedly.

Without replying Maxin opened a door to a small den. The girl came down and they went in that room, but Leland did not close the door.

The girl had evidently told the truth. Leland cursed himself for not getting the newspapers after he returned and learning how the news had been handled.

There were a dozen clippings. A couple of the clippings had headlines to the effect that Harlow was dead and his wife gone, but all the others were to the effect that he had killed himself.

There were pictures of Harlow, of Lola and of Lily, the maid, who was so closely connected with it. Lola's note to her husband, telling him that she was leaving him forever was also reproduced and many of the stories were to the effect that Harlow had killed himself upon finding this note.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

One newspaper story made Leland furious. It was about his disappearance and there was a paragraph to the effect that he had gone to find his sister, fearing she had run away with some man.

After Leland had gone through all of these clippings Lily turned to him.

"Your sister was awful good to me and I'm going to come across with the truth to you. I'd been out walking with Tom, the chauffeur, for a little, that night. When he drove away to get gas I started across the back yard and heard a shot. Gee, I was scared. I thought Harlow had killed his wife. I grabbed a big knife in the kitchen as I ran through but at the living room door I lost my nerve. Mrs. Harlow was on the floor, so white I thought he'd killed her. He stood there with a revolver in his hand. I thought he was goin' to shoot again and I yelled. He was so scared he dropped the gun. I made a leap to get it and in the scramble it went off. Mr. Harlow dropped and I was scared blue."

The girl hesitated and choked a little with excitement.

"Is this true?" Leland demanded, so sternly that the girl shrank back.

"You ain't going to tell on me are you? I'll swear I didn't say it if you do."

"No-no. I want the truth."

"Well, I dropped the knife and then picked it up and put it in the kitchen. Cook was out and the chauffeur gone for gas. I went out and walked around, frantic, but I got my nerve and came back after I'd walked around for half an hour, trembling all over. I decided to go in and scream and call the cops and say Mr. Harlow had killed his wife and himself. Gee, I nearly dropped, for when I got back there was no sign of Mrs. Harlow or the baby, so I telephoned the cops just as you read in the clippings."

FITS LOLA'S STORY

Leland Forbes nodded.

"Yes, Lola told me she had fainted and then when she recovered, she ran away with her baby—she—well, she was under a terrible mental strain."

"Then you know where Mrs. Harlow is?"

"I will discuss that later, go on."

"Well, the cops came and I had found that note and when they read it they said he had killed himself because of the fact his wife had left him. You bet I didn't say a word, only that I had been out in the back yard and ran in when I heard a shot."

Leland had no reason in the world to doubt this girl's story. It fitted perfectly to all that Lola had told him. He understood then, it was quite clear to him. Harlow had not been hurt when the gun went off as he struggled with his wife. He believed he had killed her when she dropped in a faint. Then, as Lily explained, he got the fatal bullet as he struggled with the girl. It all fitted perfectly. Lola had recovered and disappeared while the girl paced the back yard, shivering with fear.

Leland looked up at a sound. Jeanette was standing in the door.

"I listened, Leland. I had to—and I'm not ashamed. Oh, Leland!"

She ran to him and he clasped her in his arms.

FINAL UNDERSTANDING

Maxin came in then.

"I'll see that you are rewarded," Leland said to the maid. She understood and left the room, making Leland promise to be sure and return her clippings.

"Oh, Leland, you might have trusted me—I'd have married you if you killed him yourself!" Jeanette was quite serious.

"How about me, dear?"

"I saw — I heard, what else could I think, the child's name was Leland? I never connected you with any tragedy. I never read about it or knew that you had a sister."

"True enough," Leland agreed.

Then, briefly, as Jeanette sat beside him and he held her hand, he told his story.

"We believed—we feared there was another man mixed up in it, Forbes," Maxin said, honestly enough, "and that you had gone searching for your sister and the supposed other man."

"People who know us surely never believed that!"

"Sorry," and then Maxin beamed on them.

"You two can take a honeymoon trip down into the Argentine and bring your sister home, Forbes," he said.

"We will be married and start tomorrow—if Jeanette is willing."

"Willing? Oh, Leland, I'd start now if it wasn't too late to be married tonight."

Maxin looked at them and tiptoed gently out of the room, closing the door.

Even old bachelors know when to leave lovers alone.

Faith Baldwin's novels, often printed in these columns, are always welcome to lovers of fine fiction. Tomorrow the first installment of her newest serial—"Skyscraper"—will appear in the Sun-Telegraph. This is a thrilling story of love on the 50th floor—of big business, adventure, ambition and the battles of wits day after day in the world's tallest building. Don't miss the first installment of "Skyscraper" tomorrow.

"Leland, I'd start now if it wasn't too late to be married tonight!"

Synopsis

Leland Forbes and Jeanette Maxse meet in Virginia and fall in love. Just before their marriage Leland's sister comes to him and tells him that in self-protection she killed her brutal husband. Leland takes her and her baby into the Blue Ridge Mountains to hide, leaving a mysterious farewell note for Jeanette. Later he takes his sister to South America and comes back home. Jeanette thinks that the woman he has been with in the mountains is his common-law wife and when he meets her she tells him before he can explain that she despises him.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The children of McKeesport last Saturday held a general election of officers at the regular meeting of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, which meets at the Memorial Theater.

Harry Blumenthal was elected to the office of Grand Jester and the following boys and girls were chosen to serve with him on the board of governors: Frank Wood, Alex Simms, George Grubb, Anna Mae Savolike and Millie Pielman. "Cookie" Olsen, 616 Walnut street, McKeesport, also was elected the "official reporter" for this chapter. These youngsters will serve for the next four meetings.

MEMBERS ENTERTAIN

After the election of officers the following members entertained: Billy Mossburg, Irene Vadas, La Verne Carr, Vera Hollywood, Dorothy Smith, Thomas Anderson, Betty Kelly, Blair Sutton, Jr. The highlight of the entertainment came when Manager Joe E. Murdock sang and danced his way right into the hearts of the boys and girls.

Elizabeth Wolf, a cute little miss from the Mann School of Dancing and a member of the Junior Komic Club, acted as mistress of ceremonies at the Ambridge Chapter, introducing to the members Jane Smith, Gertrude Kline, the Antonellie Sisters, Mary Pass, Mary Lazar, Jane Guziak, Ethel Seaser and Jimmy Brown. These talented youngsters sang or danced for the enjoyment of all the old members and the new boys and girls that joined before the meeting started. Those joining the club Saturday were: Ethyl Dorchek, Kate Jusick, Helen Garko, Joe Borowski, Anna Bealak, Mike Pastrick, William Wright, Dorothy Syka, Francis Fullerton, Florence Fullerton, Margaret Wiltshire.

HOW TO JOIN

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, school you attend, date and year of your birth, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Or you may join at any of the following theaters, where the Junior Komic Club meets on Saturday: Arsenal, Ambridge, Belmar, Cameraphone, Davis, Etna-Harris, Enright, Grand (Greensburg), Kenyon, Manor, Memorial (McKeesport), Mt. Oliver-Harris, Plaza, Rowland (Wilkinsburg), Schenley, South Hills, Washington, at Washington, Pa.

A Duty No Senator Should Shirk

Before the Senate passes and sends to conference the War Department appropriation bill for 1933 every senator in Congress owes to himself, his state and the nation an imperative duty that no senator can delegate or honorably evade.

This is the bounden duty of exposing, rebuking and repudiating the indefensible action of the House in summarily reducing from 12,000 to 10,000 the commissioned strength of the regular army.

This reduction would eliminate, not temporarily, but permanently, 2,000 trained officers by retiring them immediately from active service.

This reduction was voted by the House at the instigation of its most fanatical Pacifist Congressman Collins of Mississippi, chairman of the sub-committee which organized this sapping expedition against the national defense.

It was voted under the two-fold and utterly false pretense that the military situation throughout the world justifies, and the economic emergency in this country demands the nullification of the national defense act of 1920 and the crippling of our land forces which the adoption of this fatuous proposal would involve.

Pacifist Collins permitted no hearings to be held upon this proposal, no military authority to testify regarding the world's military situation or our own.

Pacifist Collins may not know, but every senator of the United States knows, that Europe is smouldering, Asia is on fire and vast troubles await solution on every hand.

Who is Pacifist Collins to say that these solutions will never again be by violence and that even what is left of our military establishment is more than we shall ever need again?

And where is the economy in eliminating 2,000 trained officers from any further active service?

When the House voted to eliminate these 2,000 trained officers from the active list of the army it acted under the misapprehension that this reduction would effect a real saving of $3,814,825 annually.

When Senators come to examine this claim they will find that this alleged saving is in fact not a saving at all but a great waste.

During their army careers the United States has expended on these 2,000 officers $6,800,836 in giving 35 per cent of them their initial military education at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

To maintain the military usefulness of these 2,000 trained officers, as well as to secure their services, the estimated sum of $167,720,000 has been expended on their pay and allowances.

To send this group of 2,000 trained officers from their present stations to their homes will entail a further expenditure of $644,000 for travel pay and allowances.

Unless the Senate purges the War Department appropriation bill for 1933 of this dangerous and idiotic joker this investment of over $175,000,000 will be scrapped, because the United States will receive no further return from it.

In addition to the great loss the United States will sustain in losing the services of these competent officers, who have been educated at the national expense, the United States will sustain a further loss of $108,023,184.

This is the total retired pay which these officers will receive from the date of their premature retirement under the Collins bill as it passed the House, until they reach the normal retiring age of 64.

In short, the Collins bill proposes to scrap all the investment which has been made in the education and training of these officers, and furthermore to load up the Treasury with a fixed charge of $108,000,000; and finally, and worst of all, dangerously to weaken our national defense in order that some pin-headed pacifist Congressmen may lie to their constituents about alleged savings they have not made.

Such a preposterous legislative proposal is not economy. It is folly and traitorous folly at that.

The "Bonus Marchers"

Supt. Walsh Wisely Discriminates Between Communists And Loyal Veterans.

Notwithstanding the lapse of 14 years the people of Pittsburgh still remember gratefully, and always will remember, the services rendered, the hardships endured, the sacrifices made and the risks taken, by the American soldiers of 1917-18.

Hence there will be general approval of the policy announced by Supt. Peter P. Walsh for dealing with the "bonus marchers" who pass through Pittsburgh on their way to Washington. If they are loyal to the government, they are to be kindly received.

Walsh declares, on the other hand, if his agents find Communists among the marchers who denounce the government and call for its overthrow, they will receive no consideration.

The public will agree that such discrimination is justified.

Dead Letter or Repeal?

Self-Respect Requires That the Blue Law Be Eliminated From the Statute Books

The manager of a moving picture theater in Franklin, Pa., after paving the way with several free Sunday shows, gave an exhibition last Sunday for which an admission fee was charged.

He boldly announced that he was challenging the Blue Law of 1794, which forbids commercial activities on Sunday.

In Erie movies and professional baseball games have been given on Sunday for years without interference by the police. Public sentiment there is against the Blue Law.

Public sentiment is against the Blue Law nearly everywhere in Pennsylvania, but the law is quite generally enforced in the case of theaters, though ignored so far as soda fountains and many other things are concerned.

Possibly the Franklin theater man will "get away" with his defiance of the Blue Law. Possibly the law will become a dead letter.

But Pennsylvanians' self-respect requires that it be repealed.

When Three's a Crowd -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding

They're arm in arm, Three Musketeers;
One has a trunk, and one long ears.
The other one is just a dark
And most unwelcome Question Mark.

'Tis said that two are company
And that a crowd is made by three.
If you don't think that this is true,
Note the expressions of those two!

A Heartening Sign

Bankers' Support of the Bond Market Is a Vital Contribution to Stability.

By JULIUS G. BERENS

Financial Editor, New York American.

THE country is intensely hungry for constructive action against the ruthless deflation.

How significant is the markets' cheer even at the mere rumor of a "bond pool."

Such an operation, whether it be termed pool, or bond-buying movement, is indicative of co operation for the common welfare.

Personally, we consider "pool" an ill advised description of such a meritorious effort.

But whatever the cognomen, the fact that banking powers finally are joining in this most commendable work is in itself a distinctly heartening sign of the times.

THE man out of work, or the ordinary layman, may not feel greatly enthused over all this talk of a bond pool, supporting the bond market, etc.

But in truth such efforts are a vital contribution to financial and industrial stability. Stability in turn will lead to betterment.

Bonds form the base for virtually all our great financial institutions. Commercial and savings banks, insurance companies, trust companies, estates—all are universally dependent upon stability of bond quotations, of the bond market.

Anything accomplished toward stemming the violent, alarming deflation in bond values is a tremendous step forward toward relief from depression.

IN short, bonds form the backbone of our financial structure. Of course, bankers would hardly be anxious to enter a bond-buying movement unless they visualized eventual handsome profits.

Is it too much to hope that a similar opinion among bankers may not develop in other directions, that the financiers of the nation will be convinced that deflation has run to needless lengths and that their co operative action can prevent further unnecessary distress to the entire community?

BROKEN HEARTS

By Winifred Black

He's back on the range again—the good-looking cowboy who married the rich girl, and went to New York to live.

They say the rich girl's heart is broken. I shouldn't worry much about that, if she were a friend of mine. Hearts don't break so easily nowadays.

Time was when once in love was forever in love, for a woman.

Twenty-five years ago, no circle was complete without a wistful maiden aunt who took care of her brother's children, mended her brother's socks, answered her mother's letters and always shed one or two silent tears whenever some old-fashioned person sang "In the Gloaming" or "Goodbye Forever."

The maiden aunt had been happy once, happy and beloved, but somehow or other she lost the lover. He either died or stepped out and married someone else, and the maiden aunt put his picture away in some secret place, and kept a faded rose or so somewhere on the premises, and made up her mind to go through life broken-hearted.

No more! Broken hearts are quite out of the fashion, and nobody has any patience with them at all.

The rich girl in this particular case was awfully in love—desperately, madly, blindly in love—with the cowboy.

I don't blame her, do you?

I never see a trail of rich young women coming out of a smart church in a shower of rain, and watch one of them stepping under the umbrella held for her by a strong, broad-shouldered, fresh-colored young chauffeur, that I don't wonder what she thinks when she looks at him and remembers the hollow-chested, round-shouldered, spindle-shanked persons who sit next to her at dinner, and ask her to dance at very dull parties.

Probably the good-looking cow puncher was the first real man the rich girl had ever had a chance to know.

Not much of a man, maybe. No particular brains, and nothing especially remarkable about his character, either; but a man, for all that.

Out there on the range he was something a good deal like a king—he with his horse and his saddle, and the way he could sit sidewise and roll a perfectly good cigaret while the horse was doing all kinds of high, wide and fancy stepping.

Maybe he did say queer things about "not seeing nothing nowhere," and "me and my pony," but what's a little grammar anyhow on the range?

But in New York I suppose the good looking cowboy wasn't as good looking as she had thought he was—not in his New York clothes.

I wonder what was the last straw that broke the camel's back of that marriage. Did the cowboy eat with his knife, do you think?

And as for the cow puncher himself, I'd like to hear his side of it, wouldn't you? They say he couldn't bear being the poor husband of a rich woman. True to type to the last, wasn't he?

I think the rich girl was lucky. She had her romance, and the man she was in love with ran true to form to the very last.

I wonder how many years it'll be before the sound of a horse's hoofs in the moonlight will make the rich girl who married the cowboy just a little bit sentimental?

She'll probably marry again, one of her own kind. I don't know, but I'm a little bit sorry for her second husband.

The cowboy? Oh, he'll pick up some girl who can ride as well as he can, and help him brand the calves on the roundup when he has saved money enough to start a ranch of his own.

I hope she won't be jealous of the rich girl who was the cowboy's first wife.

I'm afraid I should be, myself, in her place.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Chaff and Nonsense

To my utter consternation,
I have heard a tragic rumor—
That the younger generation
Hasn't got a sense of humor!

If they cannot stand for chaffing—
Are so serious and solemn,
How, I ask you (I'm not laughing!),
Can I ever write this column?

* * *

Judging from the brevity of these modern marriages, you'd fancy that husbands and wives, like vacuum cleaners, were being sent up on approval, these days.

The man who "loves and rides away" never realizes that he is running up a charge account in the Book of Fate—and that Life is a remorseless bill collector.

* * *

Woman has been called "the vainer sex," but not EVERY woman thinks that she can sing just because she happens to be in the bathtub.

* * *

Middle-age is that point at which a woman realizes that, like any other antique, she looks her best in a dim, soft light.

* * *

When a man reaches 45 or 50, he should put away childish things—but that's usually the time when he wants to begin marrying them.

A woman seems to have a passion for cupboards and closets, just as a man has for pockets—as places where she can keep a lot of junk she doesn't want and can hide things from herself.

* * *

It's easy enough for a personable young man to marry for money, these days. The hard part is collecting it, on the installment plan, forever afterward.

* * *

Once, we were bidden to marry and "multiply"—but, nowadays, we marry and promptly divide.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 7.—The financial chaos has tightened many New York loose domestic ties into pleasant knots. Thousands of husbands for 10 years have been flailing about in a churn of high pressure, with wives parked at fashionable spas and children at finishing schools.

From this topsy-turviness they could distribute a largesse of motor cars, jewels and unlimited charge accounts, but very little affection. So distant were the relationships that many money-makers had to suffer a gigolo in the home. Or a divorce.

There were husbands who did not see their wives more than a few weeks each year. Children became total strangers. Men who lived by ticker tape relaxed in night clubs or on the high seas with mistresses. Clubs, now deserted, were clearing houses for marital intrigue.

A wife could call up any one of them. And in a few brief moments be in telephonic contact—not in his club room but at some pied-a-terre where he was known to elevator runners as "Mr. Z." Then the bubbles burst and philanderers returned to family firesides.

Surprisingly enough, there are any number who declare they do not want to be rich again. Today they relax in neighborhood movies. Their children are in public schools. Instead of studying the market page they are fascinated by the simplicities of the family budget.

* * *

At the Coffee House Club they were discussing the sudden rise and quick descent of literary rockets. Perhaps the most notable of the generation was Michael Arlen, who flashed so spectacularly in a fleeting zizz-boom-aah! For two years his bright-jacketed novels were best sellers and his name illuminated every magazine cover. Two plays ran simultaneously in New York and London. Then obscurity. The only over-night success to remain on the pedestal is F. Scott Fitzgerald, who settled down to a steady writing pace.

* * *

Joe Laurie, Jr., relays the one about the movie mogul turning down a scenario called "The Pinnacle." He found nothing in it about a card game.

* * *

Theatrical ticket agencies have shrunk to the irreducible minimum. Only one of the old guard, Leo Newman, remains. The rest are the hole-in-the-wall places—shabby mementos of a theatrical by-product that spawned a dozen millionaires.

* * *

Another nostalgic souvenir of the vanishing legitimate theater is a lone and wraith-like costume shop a few steps from Times Square. Like its predecessors, it is engulfed in a pervasive gloom. Entering, a bell tinkles sepuchral-like in the depths. About the walls hang costumes of forgotten Hamlets and Ben Hurs. There are dusty masks, too, shadowed into spooky arabesques and a gnome-like attendant with bushy beard and thin piping voice.

* * *

There was something of finality in the reply of a drab-liveried driver of a growler in the cab ranks alongside the Plaza last evening. In waiting on the steps for Harry Silvey, I stepped to the curb and inquired of a veteran Jehu: "Well, Colonel, how are things going?" Without a flicker he replied: "Merrily to hell, Major."

* * *

This column timidly predicted the success of a new picture theater five years before it clicked as a reality. Emboldened by such capitalistic wizardry, it now suggests a temple devoted entirely to animated cartoons—say a menu of six—of the Mickey Mouse school of hilarity. I have many supporters in this idea—Titans of intellect, such as Floyd Gibbons, Lucius Beebe and Valentine Williams. Nor will there be any patience for movie executives who say it cannot be done. They told me that about the news reel notion and then did it. And did not even ask me to the grand opening.

* * *

It recalls a chameleon, unpredictable idea H. T. Webster and I incubated years ago for the sudden amassing of an unheard-of fortune. Behind closed doors we tried it out on sundry master minds who fairly shouted its magnificence. The only difficulty was that in starting operations we found that 764—by actual count—persons had thought of it from 6 to 26 years earlier.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

Talk, talk, talk!
That's what happens in Washington.
Talk, talk, talk,
Going on and on,
About every subject
Under the sun.
Subjects that start out as real,
concrete problems,
Needing plain, practical solutions,
And end up, in Congress,
As meaningless dribbles
Of sound.

HOW DARE CONGRESSMEN
TAKE THE TAXPAYERS' MONEY
AND DO NOTHING WITH IT EXCEPT TALK,
AT A TIME LIKE THIS,
WHEN PEOPLE ARE HUNGRY,
WHEN PEOPLE MUST EAT?

Talk, talk, talk,
Going on, day after day,
Talk about taxes,
Talk about tariffs,
Talk about budgets,
And who's to blame?

Democrats blaming Republicans;
Republicans blaming Democrats.
Everybody blaming somebody;
Everybody suggesting a plan,
Yelling for a cure,
Then, the next moment,
Forgetting all about it,
Starting another subject,
Raising another riot,

AND ALL THE TIME
JUST ONE THING MATTERS—
PEOPLE ARE HUNGRY!
PEOPLE MUST EAT!
People—
They are the only thing
That matters now.
All needs are important.
All possessions are valuable
To a government,
But people are most valuable,
And their need is most important.
Not their need for new laws,
Or taxes, or tariffs,
Or different working hours,
But their simple,
Fundamental need
FOR FOOD.

WHAT'S THE USE OF BALANCING BUDGETS,
OR CONSOLIDATING DEPARTMENTS, OR AMENDING TAXES,
OR CHANGING WORK HOURS,
IF THE PEOPLE
WHO MUST PAY THOSE TAXES
AND WORK IN THOSE HOURS ARE STARVING?
OR DEAD?

Put laws in order;
Put taxes in order;
Put departments in order—
But put people in order first!
Decrease our deficit,
Fill our coffers—
BUT FILL THOSE STOMACHS FIRST!

Never mind who fills them,
Federal government
Or state government,
Republican party
Or Democratic party,
There is only one party now—
THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.
There is only one need now—
HUMAN HUNGER.
And nothing else matters
Until we've attended to that.

Eight million people unemployed.
Three years of hard times,
In America.
Three years of hot air
In Congress.
Eight million people
Still unemployed.

Eight million,
With all their dependents,
Hungry!
AND CONGRESS STILL TALKING!
CUT OUT THE TALKING, CONGRESS!

CUT OUT THE SQUABBLING.
STOP PLAYING POLITICS.
STOP MAKING CAMPAIGN SPEECHES.
FOR GOD'S SAKE GET BUSY!
PEOPLE MUST EAT!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Many disturbances are caused in homes by the woman neighbor or a friend who frequently drops in for an evening visit, necessitating the man of the house "seeing her home."

Some wives—comparatively few—do not object to this.

But if it occurs frequently there is a suspicion that it is a preconceived plan of the visitor's or possibly the husband's.

Once such a thought is created it soon gathers force until it breaks out into a verbal explosion with accusations that are hard to forget.

There may be no real cause for the wife's displeasure.

But she knows and so does her husband, if he would admit it, that from just such unimportant and unpremeditated beginnings many serious affairs have begun and ended disastrously.

The woman who is wise and wishes to keep her husband from being talked about is careful not to plan these meetings herself.

Also if she wishes to keep the friendship, confidence and good will of her woman friends she will not make these demands on the husband of a friend.

You may be modern, but you can be thoughtful and kind and keep it in mind that it is foolish to give another any excuse for jealous thoughts, no matter how ill-founded.
